SPRING TO SEE CAPITOL PARK WORK STARTED

Hoover Asks $1,277,746 to Begin Extension of Station Plaza.

$4,912,414 GIVEN IN BUDGET FOR 1931

Two Squares on West of Senate Offices Are First in Plan.

CAR LINES IN AREA TO GO BY SUBWAY

Architect Lynn Is Hoping to Have Entire Project Completed in 1932.

The work of converting the area between the Capitol and Union Station into a magnificent park will begin this spring. This was assured late yesterday when President Hoover sent to the Capitol a supplemental estimate of $1,277,746 to enable David Lynn, architect of the Capitol, to make an early start on the project.

The 1931 budget asks $4,912,414 for the extension of the Capitol grounds to Union Station, but this sum, or whatever is allowed by Congress, will not become available until July 1. The supplemental estimate asked by President Hoover yesterday will be carried in the first deficiency bill and should be available some time this winter. Thus, allowing time for the preparation of plans, Architect Lynn should be able to actually start the work in the spring.

Temporary Buildings Removed.

The supplemental estimate of $1,277,746 asked yesterday by President Hoover will be used by Architect Lynn to develop the two squares directly west of the Senate Office Building. The temporary buildings that housed women Government workers already have been removed from these two blocks.

The two-square area will be landscaped and terraced and within it will be constructed several beautiful water fountains. Also, beneath it, will be constructed an underground garage to house the automobiles of senators and their employes.

Architect Lynn hopes to complete the entire park program by 1932, when this city and the country at large will be celebrating the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

Boulevard to Be Feature.

A feature of the development will be a beautiful boulevard that will run from the Columbus statue, in front of Union Station, to Pennsylvania avenue at a point between Second and Third streets. This boulevard will connect with another boulevard that will run through the Federal building project in the Mall.

North Capitol street, from the Capitol to D street, will be converted into a thoroughfare of beauty and will be closed to traffic as far north as D street. C street will be closed to vehicular traffic between New Jersey avenue and Delaware avenue. The street car tracks on C street will be removed and a subway will be built beneath this street between New Jersey avenue and Delaware avenue through which the street cars can move.

The street car tracks on Delaware avenue and on B street, both of which streets skirt the Senate Office Building, will be removed east to First street.

Infant Succumbs To Choking Spell

Four-Months-Old Baby Is Stricken After His Morning Bath.

Robert Hull, 4-month-old infant of Calvin L. Hull, attached to No. 21 Fire Engine Company, and Mrs. Hull, choked to death in the family residence at Cherrydale, Va., at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

The Fire Rescue Squad of Washington made a record run to the home, but the baby had succumbed before members arrived. Mrs. Hull declared that the infant suddenly was seized with a choking spell a few minutes after being bathed, and that all attempts at relief failed before aid was called.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the home, conducted by the Rev. W. H. Hodges, pastor of Mount Olivet Methodist Church, in Ballston.

Soviet Throng Watches Atheists Destroy Ikons

Gorlovka, U. S. S. R., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—A throng of 15,000 persons today watched the burning of 4,000 ikons given up by local miners after joining the "Society of Militant Atheists." The ikons were piled in a heap in a square in the center of the city and set on fire.

Simultaneously local authorities closed the only church in this small mining town in the Donetz district.

Foes of World Court Plan Fight in Senate

Even Revised Protocol Fails of Approval by "Die-Hards."

(Associated Press.)

American adherence to the World Court again hinges on the Senate, but President Hoover, who authorized the affixing of the signature of this Nation to the revised protocol at Geneva yesterday, is expected to give the Senate some time for reconsideration.

Hoover has been informed that another stubborn Senate contest is in prospect, even under the revised protocol. He is not expected by Senate leaders to inject this question there before the return of Secretary Stimson from the forthcoming London naval arms conference.

The Senate group, which unsuccessfully opposed American adherence to the court when it was voted by 76 to 16 three years ago has given notice that the modification of the Senate's reservation, which is embodied in the revised protocol is not acceptable.

It was held yesterday at the Senate that a two-thirds majority would be required for approval of the revised protocol, as was the case when adherence was first voted.

Democratic leaders, who have supported the World Court participation from the outset, voiced approval yesterday of the modification of the Senate reservation which was worked out last spring by Elihu Root with a committee of international jurists.

WORLD FLIGHT PLAN REVEALED BY FAHYS

DETAILS ARE WITHHELD

Lieut. Herbert Fahy, noted Washington flier and holder of the world solo endurance flight record, accompanied by his wife, last night in Detroit announced that he planned a round-the-world flight to begin in twelve days, according to Associated Press dispatches.

Lieut. Fahy gave no details of his proposed journey, the type of plane he will use, his itinerary or any intimation of the reason that impelled him to choose this less favorable time of the year for the jaunt, other than to state that he expected to hop off either from Detroit or New York.

This information was received with keen interest by Mrs. Bertha A. Fahy, his mother; Miss Margaret Fahy, his sister, and his brother, Francis Fahy, at their home at 4601 Ninth street northwest. They expressed surprise at the announcement and declared that he did not give them any hint of any flight of this nature when he and his wife visited them for several days at Thanksgiving after flying a plane from Los Angeles to a purchaser in Atlanta. They expressed the belief that the flier and

Kansas City, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Theodore Gary, 75-year-old multimillionaire telephone magnate, named today as treasurer of the Republican senatorial committee, is one of the most successful operators of telephone properties and associated manufacturing companies in the United States.

SPEECH FORBIDDEN ON DRY CRUSADERS

House Bans Comparison of State Rum Conditions With Capital.

SCHAFER CITES FIGURES

(Associated Press.)

Asking unanimous consent to address the House is one thing but getting it is quite another, as was illustrated yesterday after Representative Schafer, of Wisconsin, sought the privilege to speak 10 minutes today on prohibition.

Questioned as the nature of his proposed discourse, the Republican wet from the Midwest, replied:

"To briefly discuss the question of law violation and particularly the hijacking and consumption of evidence in prohibition cases by juries in South Carolina and Oregon, and to make brief remarks about prohibition enforcement in Omaha, Nebr."

Representative Fuller (Democrat), Arkansas, objected.

Schafer said after he left the floor that he desired to make the speech to show liquor consumption is as high in the home State of some of the "would-be crusaders who are always talking about conditions in Washington, D. C."

The Wisconsin representative said he has figures to show that in Omaha, Nebr., there has been a great increase in arrests of drunken automobile drivers, which he thought Senator Howell (Republican), Nebraska, would like to obtain. Howell recently has attacked prohibition enforcement conditions in Washington.

In South Carolina, Schafer said, the Supreme Court was considering a case where a jury drank the evidence which he would like to bring to the Prosecutor Puzzled Over Girls' Story and Identity of Young Man.

Newport, Ark., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Prosecuting Attorney Hugh Williamson said tonight if the youth claiming to be Connie Franklin is positively identified as such, he will go before the Stone County grand jury at Mountain View next Monday and request an investigation of the story told by Tiller Ruminer, that Franklin was tortured, mutilated and burned alive by a band of night riders the night of last March 9, for which five men now are under first degree murder indictments.

Williamson said there are many things about the appearance of the youth posing as Franklin, and his account of his movements since the night he was believed previously to have been slain, that ring true, but said he was not yet entirely convinced of the identity of the man.

Tiller Ruminer, Franklin's former sweetheart, told the Stone County grand jury at Mountain View that while she and Franklin were on their

(Associated Press.)

While administration anxiety over disturbances in Haiti was allayed by word that quiet had been restored, the policy toward the island republic was attacked and defended yesterday in the House.

Senate attention also was directed to the situation for the first time since the recent outbreaks. Senator Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, approved President Hoover's special message to Congress about it and expressed hope that the proposed commission of inquiry will not be appointed "for white-washing our act there."

The House debate was by way of preparing for consideration of the Porter resolution to name the commission suggested by the President to go into the Haitian question. Chairman Porter said the foreign affairs committee will meet Friday to consider his resolution, to decide whether it would recommend House adoption.

Alabaman Assails Hoover.

Representative Huddleston (Democrat), Alabama, assailed President Hoover for not taking steps since he has been in office to prevent the recent disturbances. Conceding that President Hoover inherited the situation from the last administration, Huddleston said:

"Whatever may be said in extenuation of his administration, certainly he has not bettered the situation. I charge him with the heavy responsibility of having done nothing, so far as anybody knows, to prevent the culmination of these matters."

Defending the administration, Representative Johnson (Republican), South Dakota, said the American Government will withdraw from Haiti at the first opportunity after a stable government has been established there. He declared that Hoover is merely carrying out the terms of the treaty with Haiti negotiated when Woodrow Wilson was President.

The actions of the American high commissioner, Brig. Gen. John H.

Divorce Decree Won By Mrs. S. H. du Pont

Former Capital Debutante and Heir to Great Fortune Part.

Mrs. Samuel Hallock du Pont, the former Elizabeth Ormond Wrenn, was granted a divorce yesterday in Reno, Nev., from the grandson of one of the founders of the Du Pont fortune, according to the Associated Press. It is understood that the grounds were incompatibility.

Stories of a rift between the former Washington debutante and the heir to $30,000,000 have been talked in Capital society circles for several months. Early last September it was learned that Mrs. du Pont had established a residence in Reno and would remain there the necessary three months to obtain a divorce.

The papers in the case were sealed as they were filed in the Reno court and the case was heard shortly thereafter, the Associated Press reported. Counsel appeared for Du pont and did not contest the action. Custody of a 2-year-old daughter, Eve, was awarded to Mrs. du Pont, and a substantial property settlement was effected out of court but with the court's approval.

The Du Ponts had been married about two and a half years. Gossip of the impending divorce began last winter when Mrs. du Pont took an apartment with her daughter at the Wardman Park Hotel. Later, in the spring and summer, she created a sensation at several fashionable seaside resorts with the luxury and the variety of her wardrobe.

Although Mrs. du Pont has continually refused to talk to the press and as the court briefs were unavailable, the exact charges the pretty Washington matron made against her millionaire husband have never been disclosed. It has been rumored, however, that eccentricities of the Du Pont heir played a large part in the separation.

The young man, for instance, is said to have had a weakness for mirrors and consequently to have fairly plastered the walls and the ceilings of the bathroom of their magnificent home in Wilmington, Del., with them. Since the rift little has been heard of Du Pont save that he has been moving quietly in some of the smartest watering places.

Mrs. du Pont is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Wrenn. Her father was at one time one of the leading apartment house builders in Washington. She has a sister living in the Capital now, Mrs. Robert E. Jasperson, who is the wife of a lieutenant in the Navy.

District Medical Society Hits Methods Employed by Certain Agencies.

ASSESSMENT IS RAPPED

The reported efforts of finance corporations to collect bills due physicians, at a charge to the physicians, have been roundly disapproved by the Medical Society of the District of Columbia, it was learned yesterday.

The Medical Society took action disapproving this method of bill collecting following presentation of evidence by members of the society that certain finance corporations had actually collected overdue bills without the knowledge of the physician to which the bill was owed.

These negotiations aroused the ire of the society with the result that the following resolution was adopted, first by the executive committee and then by the society as a whole:

"The Medical Society of the District of Columbia disapproves the principle of extra charges by finance corporations for the purpose of enabling patients to discharge their obligations for medical and surgical treatment."

New Idaho Senator Gave All His Money to Get to Rawlings.

Induction with Baird, of New Jersey, Fills All Seats But One.

(Associated Press.)

When he was 23, Patrick J. Sullivan landed in New York from Ireland and bought a ticket for the farthest point West to which his money would carry him. He arrived in Wyoming and yesterday became a Senator from that State.

With his Irish brogue still very much in evidence, he was administered the oath yesterday by Vice President Curtis as a Republican Senator to succeed the late Senator Warren.

Beside him was David Baird, of Camden, N. J., who was sworn as successor to Walter Edge, newly appointed ambassador to France.

With the admittance of these two the Senate membership again approaches within one of its regular quota and only the seat of the banished William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, remains to be filled.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, called attention to the doubt over the right of Gov. Emerson, of Wyoming, to fill the vacancy. He expressed the view that Sullivan's appointment was legal but, pending a settlement of the question by the election committee, suggested that Sullivan be administered the oath. The credentials were referred to the committee.

Sullivan, as a Republican committeeman from Wyoming, is a familiar figure in Washington and among political leaders and he was soon surrounded. Among other questions he was asked about the often-told story of his journey from Ireland to Wyoming.

"Yes," he said, "I went to the railroad station in New York and gave them my money—all except five dollars—and asked for a ticket to the West as far as it would carry me. I got to Rawlings."

He explained that he saved out the five dollars for food on his trip west.

Asked if he was going to run at the special election called next month

School Board Budget Hearing Marked by Ballou Talk on Situation.

EXPANSION PLANS TOLD

A resolution urging Congress to pass a bill providing textbooks and educational supplies free of charge to pupils of the District public schools received the unanimous indorsement last night of more than 100 representatives of citizens and parent-teacher associations at the semiannual budget hearing held by the Board of Education at the Franklin Building.

The proposal was made by Edward R. Williams, representing the Langley-Emery-Eckington and Gage Parent-Teacher groups, the North Capitol Citizens Association and the McKinley School alumni. A copy will be transmitted by the secretary of the board to the chairmen of the House and Senate District committees, and an effort will be made to enact legislation in time for the next school appropriation Expressions of optimism over the 1931 District school budget were voiced both by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, and Dr. H. Barrett Learned, acting chairman of the School Board, at the meeting.

Two moves of the Board of Education intended to eliminate gradually the portables required for District schools were called attention to by the superintendent.

A new type of elementary school, adopted in 1928, has enabled the inclusion of several school units in the budget this year, viz., the Wesley Heights and the Tenth and Franklin streets northeast buildings, because the structures can be built with four rooms at first which can be enlarged as the growth in attendence necessitates, Dr. Ballou asserted.

The board has also included in its budget requests this year an item for transportation facilities to enable ad-

Janesville, Wis., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Photographs today established the identity of a man held in jail here as "the mystery man" wanted by Seattle, Wash., authorities for 31 attacks upon women, Sheriff Charles R. Garey claimed.

The man, Floyd Fathers, 25, was arrested last night after Undersheriff Robert Moodie saw him on the street and recognized him from photographs mailed from Seattle at the time of the Nation-wide hunt for "the mystery man" several weeks ago. He was suffering from a gunshot wound, Garey said. Sheriff Garey was advised that a request for extradition papers had been filed with Gov. Hartley of Washington.

While the man refused to make a statement, the sheriff said he was confident the man held here was the one wanted for the West Coast attacks. Seattle authorities wired that

NYE DECLARES FARM BOARD IN LIFE STRUGGLE

Grain Commission Men Out to Get Legg's Scalp, Senator Charges.

FIGHT REVEALS CLASH OF BUSINESS GIANTS

Commends Work of Bureau in War on "Pirates and Leeches."

'PROPAGANDA' LETTER READ BEFORE SENATE

Julius Barnes Seen as Leader of Fight Supporting Middle Men.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The undercurrent fight that has waged for several days between two of President Hoover's "new patriots," Alexander Legge and Julius H. Barnes, the one representing the Farm Board and the other the powerful grain commission men of the Middle West, was brought out on the Senate floor yesterday by Senator Nye, of North Dakota.

The grain commission men, faced with extinction by the Farm Board's plan of dealing directly with the farmers through their cooperatives, have set out to get Legge's official scalp and to undermine the board, Nye charged. He declared that the Farm Board is now making the fight of its life and that in its effort to eliminate the "leeches and pirates" of the American farm industry it should receive hearty support.

The fight has been bitterly underway for several days, but it was only over the week-end that it began to receive public attention in this section of the country. It reveals a clash of two business giants, Barnes and Legge, two men who have become closely identified with the Hoover administration in line with his policy of interesting the "right sort of men" in the running of the Government.

Barnes and Hoover Friends.

In the furtherance of this policy, Legge was persuaded to give up a $100,000 a year job as head of the International Harvester Co. to become head of the Farm Board. Barnes and Hoover have been friends for a long time, the former being widely credited with being responsible for the political decision made by Mr. Hoover in 1920 that led to the Presidency. He has no official connection with the Government but has become Mr. Hoover's director of prosperity, which is to say that he is chairman of that supercouncil on business that is to be set up. It is not believed to have been a case of his having to be persuaded to assist the administration. He has been in the White House glow ever since Mr. Hoover took office.

He acquired his wealth as a grain commission man, exporter and operator on the Chicago Board of Trade. As a result his name has been anathema to those tillers of the soil who have ranted against the limousines of Chicago. For years he has been symbolic of the wealth that came from the Mid-Western farms but which that class of farmer which has been discontented insists the agriculturist never gets.

As a matter of fact, he and Hoover were pictured as the worst possible enemies of the farmer after the celebrated price fixing of wartime. Barnes was head of the Grain Corporation. When presidential politics began to brew last year this old grudge of the farmer was thrown up to Hoover. Barnes kept quiet and did not figure openly in the campaign.

Farm Board Opposed.

Hoover swept the agrarian section, grudge or no grudge on the part of the farmers, and the first thing he did was to get the kind of a farm board he wanted. It was set up to the tune of imprecations and dire forebodings from those who had insisted that the equalization fee plan was the only one that would work.

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

The hard-headed, unruffled, thorough-going Legge, however, has taken the virtual blanket authority given to him in the bill to go about the business of marketing crops pretty much as he would the business of marketing harvester machines.

Cuts Commission Men.

He does not see the need of commission men. They seem to him to be an economic waste and as a matter of efficiency, just as he would do, as head of the harveter company, has decided to cut them out, at least in so far as his having any relations with them are concerned.

As soon as the commission men got onto what was happening they came to Washington a-running. Faced with Legge's unyielding attitude, they did not have to look around much before they found someone who should be able to help them, one of their own number, in fact, right here at Hoover's side, his director of prosperity, Barnes.

And furthermore, they have a sympathetic friend in Hoover's secretariat. Walter Newton comes from Minneapolis and inasumch as he represented that district in Congress he should have what the farmers would call the commission men's point of view.

Far Reaching Consequences.

At any rate following the activities of the commission men here, Senator Nye charged yesterday, the word went out that everything would be all right, that the commission men had nothing to fear. Nye did not name who sent out this word but he is understood to have been referring to Barnes.

It will probably take some time to learn whether Barnes' optimism was justified.

Certainly, far reaching consequences depend upon the outcome. If Legge is not upheld it is difficult to see how the Farm Board is to be of any material assistance to the farmer. Students of the situation point out that there is no way the Farm Board can regulate the marketing crops if commission men are to remain in competition with it. The board would have no control over their dumping of their holdings any time they so desired.

Would Suit Nye.

On the other hand, there are those who wonder where the thing will end if Legge is permitted to go ahead. If the grain middlemen are to go then it would seem to follow, it is pointed out, that the live stock commission men, the cotton commission men and the middlemen of other commodities would likewise go. Some observers profess to see the end of the Chicago Board of Trade and other exchanges of lesser note.

Nothing would suit Senator Nye and the old Nonpartisan Leaguers any better than this, in fact.

It would seem to be significant, indeed, that the old Nonpartisan Leaguers are flocking to the Farm Board hand over fist and bringing their families with them.

Propaganda Against Board.

The commission men have, aside from their activities here, set up a strong propaganda, a desperate propaganda, against the board and everything connected with it. They are circularizing the farmers, telling them that they would rather they had the equalization fee than this monster that is threatening them. They are describing the Farm Board's plan as socialism of the rankest sort. It is right funny, too, because the legislation setting up the Farm Board seemed so harmless. It just set up a Farm Board, and that was about all.

Senator Nye read into the record what purported to be a letter signed by R. W. Hankeman, vice president of H. L. Hankeman & Co., grain commission merchants of Minneapolis, calling upon the farmers to arise and assert their independance of the Farm Board octopus. It is grabbing "your elevators," the letter warned, and Senator Nye observed that the big grain operators now own them, instead of the farmers independently.

It had a postscript telling the farmers not to forget that Legge was formerly head of the International Harvester Co. "What will this mean to him?" it asked, cryptically. "Think it over."

Legge Is Handicapped.

The commission man had always been the farmer's friend, the letter pleaded. "He had better not get mixed up with the Government."

Legge is handicapped in his fight by virtue of the fact that he has not been able to win over some of the old equalization fee senators to his general plan. Senator Wheeler, of Montana, complained to Nye that he had not been able to learn what the board intended to do. Senator Norbeck, of South Dakota, gave a similar complaint, and added that there was no need of talking about anything else; that when it came to marketing the surplus crop, it would be found that nothing but the old equalization fee would do. Senator Nye said he, himself, thought the Farm Board would have trouble when it came to getting rid of the surplus crop, but then he did want to sound a voice in commendation of what the board is doing so far—its fight on the "leeches and pirates."

Norbeck Grows Angry.

Senator Norbeck, getting a little angry, shouted that he thought that for Nye to talk that way tended to postpone the day when the farmer got real relief. Wheeler kept insisting that he was interested in what Nye said, but, try as he might, he had never been able to find about any of the Farm Board's plans.

Legge is not very good, at that, when it comes to giving senators a political prospectus, but the commission men know very well what he is doing.

Nye disclosed, incidentally, that as a part of their fight against him, the commission men plan to go into the courts in an effort to declare the bill unconstitutional.

There is believed to be general agreement on this one point, and that is that if Legge is checked the board will be just another one of those governmental agencies, as was predicted by its critics; and if, on the other hand, he is permitted to go ahead, there is no telling where it will all end. It is a question of which one of the two "new patriots" wins out.

Senate Lobby Quiz Resumes Hearings This Morning After Recess.

A report on the tariff activities of Joseph R. Grundy, who has been mentioned for the nomination as a United States Senator from Pennsylvania, will be made today by the Senate lobby committee which resumes hearings after an intermission due to the recess between the special and regular sessions and consideration of the vare case.

H. C. Lakin, president of the Cuba Co. of New York, and Edwin P. Shattuck, of the United States Sugar Association, have been recalled to testify today.

Meanwhile, the recall of J. A. Arnold, manager of the Southern Tariff Association, was in prospect as the result of a telegram from John W. Martin, former Governor of Florida, asking the committee to investigate the payment of $2,050 by the State of Florida to Arnold, to determine how Arnold obtained the money and "who is responsible for placing Florida on the sucker list."

The court was told that the States thought the scholarly ability and patience of the former President well qualified him for the proposed work, and Chief Justice Taft said that the suggestion would be taken under consideration.

"I May Be Kicked Out and Probably Will," Farm Board Head Says.

CALLS STRUCTURE SOUND

Chicago, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Indication that the Government's farm program would be given the official approval of the American Farm Bureau Federation was seen today in the statement by President Sam H. Thompson that "the policy declared in the Federal agricultural marketing act is sufficiently broad. Thompson's statement, made in his annual address, opened the first day's session, with Chairman Alexander Legge as a principal speaker.

"Members of the farm board are men of proven ability and are sincere in their efforts to secure equality for agriculture under the terms of this marketing act," Thompson said.

"Their contact with the commodity organizations through which they are cooperating has won them the confidence and esteem of all the different commodity interests."

Policy Meets Voiced Demands.

Turning to discussion of the Government's efforts, he stated:

"The policy declared in the Federal marketing act fully meets the demands so earnestly voiced by the American Farm Bureau Federation during the past seven years. The board appointed under the terms of this act has proceeded directly through activities designed to strengthen the bargaining power of producers, increase the efficiency of farm marketing operations, broaden the markets for agricultural products, and the like."

Thompson urged a tariff more effective for agriculture, adjustment of taxation, improvement of available rural credits, betterment of educational facilities, extension of farm-to-market roads, and curtailment of soil erosion. He said one of the bureau's greatest problems was to "selling" of cooperative marketing to farmers not now convinced of its advantages.

The convention was told by Legge chairman of the Federal Farm Board, that the work of agricultural relief has been started and that the rest was up to them, adding that "I may be kicked out and probably will."

Legge discussed the objectives of the agricultural marketing act and the difficulties encountered in adverse opinions among farm organiaztions, pleading with the delegates to get together on one program for the cooperative marketing of their products. This should be done, he said, "in the name of humanity and in sympathy for the farm board."

Progress Has Been Made.

"Congratulate yourself," he said, "that you have received recognition. You made progress. Some of you did not get just what you wanted and what you got may be bad, but the structure is sound because it is recognition. I may be kicked out and probably will, but the work is started and the rest depends upon you."

Other statements by Legge, who refused to allow a radio broadcast of his remarks, were:

"The greatest surpluses have been plans—all bad.

"Too many grabbed the first thing that came along.

"Without disparaging collective buying, get your minds on collective selling.

"The prewar condition was not particularly happy. Going back to a parity, even if it comes up to 1914, isn't enough. It has to come further.

"The farm board is getting a lot of criticism. The legislative fellows tell us we are too slow and grain men say we are red, red radical. Some place between the two extremes is the fact.

"Surpluses must be controlled at the source and you are the source."

Four Men Are Arrested On Numbers Charges

Charges of permitting gaming in connection with the operation of alleged numbers games were placed against three colored men arrested about noon on E street near Twentieth street northwest and against another man arrested by Third Precinct detectives at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon on Twentieth street, near L street northwest.

The latter gave his name as William Shannon, 29 years old, of Second street, near Whittier street northwest. The three colored men were Asbury Rice, 45 years old, of F street, near Twenty-second street northwest; Charles Holmes, 21 years old, of Twenty-third street, near G street northwest, and Jerry Matthews, 20 years old, of O'Brien court northwest. All were released on $1,000 bond.

MacDonald Is Lauded By Senator Caraway

Premier Ramsay MacDonald, of England, is the outstanding man of the world today and he is the hope of the British Empire, Senator T. H. Caraway, of Arkansas, told the student assembly of the University of Maryland yesterday in the gymnasium at College Park, Md. Mr. Caraway lauded MacDonald for his efforts to secure world peace.

The senator said that when he voted for war in the beginning of the World War he did so because he believed that he was helping to wage a war on war, but that he had been sadly disappointed. There is more friction in the world today than there has been for the last 500 years, he said, with more men under arms than at any time during a peace period.

The senator was introduced by Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, president of the university. John O'Neil, president of the student assembly, presided.

More Fruit Fly Funds Are Asked by Hoover

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday asked Congress for a supplemental appropriation of $15,381,000 to enable the Department of Agriculture to continue the work of eradication of the Mediterranean fruit fly.

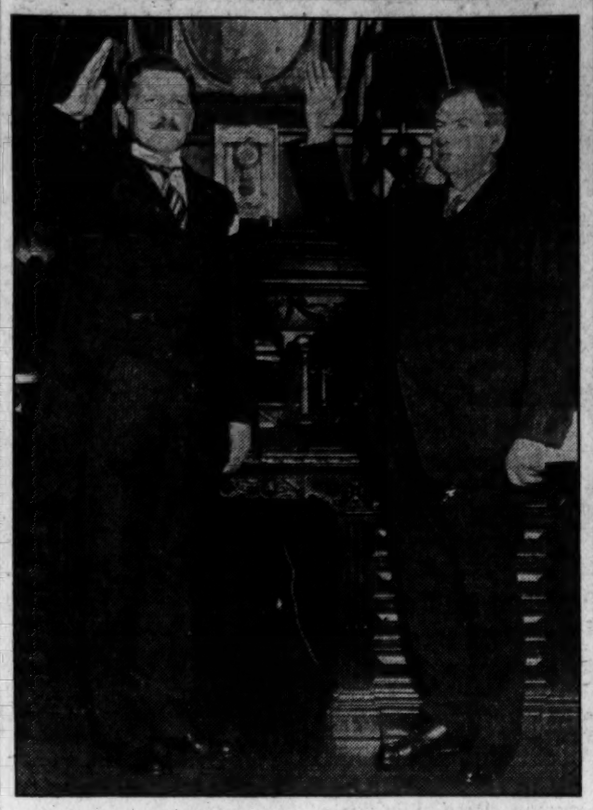
"Under the program inaugurated by the Secretary of Agriculture," the President said in a letter to the Speaker of the House, "available funds for this work will be exhausted by December 15, and unless additional funds are made available immediately there is grave danger that the infestation will rapidly increase in Florida and spread to other States."

Chain Store Heiress Gets Second Divorce

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Gretchen Kroger Barnes, 31, daughter of B. H. Kroger, founder of the chain of grocery stores of that name, today was granted a divorce for the second time.

She divorced her first husband, John H. Pattison, vice president of the Union Central Life Insurance Co., in January, 1927, and married George H. Barnes, 42, insurance broker, in September of that year. The divorce from Barnes was granted on the grounds of neglect.

HURLEY TAKES OATH OF OFFICE



Harris & Ewing.

Paying the unusual compliment of confirming the nomination of Patrick J. Hurley as Secretary of War without referring the matter, as customary, to a committee, the Senate yesterday paved the way for his immediate induction into office. Secretary Hurley, left, is shown receiving the oath of office from Associate Justice Harlan Fiske Stone, of the U. S. Supreme Court.

NAVY DESIRES FOUR AIRCRAFT CARRIERS

Qualified Pilot Shortagae Is Pointed Out in Report to President.

PLANE PURCHASES TOLD

(Associated Press.)

The military value of aircraft carriers was advanced yesterday by the Navy's bureau of aeronautics as the basis for a recommendation that the full carrier strength of 135,000 tons, permitted under the Washington arms treaty, be reached as soon as possible.

This recommendation, which was seconded by Secretary Adams in his report to President Hoover, would involve the construction of four aircraft carriers of approximately the size of the one authorized in the 15-cruiser bill, 13,800 tons. The Navy is ready to call for bids on this ship.

Reporting that its shortage of qualified pilots was acute, the department revealed it was employing temporarily non flying officers on observation planes attached to battleships. It recommended that the law requiring that 35 per cent of the pilots be enlisted men be made flexible to permit the percentage to be reduced to 21. The total personnel at the end of the fiscal year consisted of 843 officers and 11,642 enlisted men, but the total of qualified pilots was only 693, or 86 more than a year ago.

The bureau noted that its record of operating airplanes from catapults on battleships remained unmarked by a single fatality or serious injury. Thirty-seven ships, including battleships, cruisers, aircraft carriers and tenders, now carry airplanes.

During the past fiscal year $16,500,000 was spent for purchase of 423 new airplanes and 900 engines, all aircooled. The bureau said it was experimenting with several new types of aircooled engines and that it hoped to eliminate entirely radiators on other types by using a cooling fluid in place of water.

Overman Made Member Of Bicentennial Group

Vice President Curtis yesterday named Senator Lee S. Overman, of North Carolina, as a member of the committee on the bicentennial anniversary of the birth of George Washington, succeeding former Senator Bayard, of Delaware.

Senator Brock, of Tennessee, was appointed to succeed the late Senator Tyson, of that State, on the President's Plaza Commission at Nashville, Tenn., while Senator Townsend, of Delaware, was named to succeed former Senator Edge, of New Jersey, on the Yorktown Sesquicentennial Commission.

FAHY DINNER PARTY PROVES TO BE 'DUD'

Grand Jury Says Evidence Is Lacking of Senator Brookhart's Charges.

LAPSE OF TIME IS CITED

Senator Smith W. Brookhart's famous dinner party at the Willard Hotel on December 10, 1926, proved to be a "dud" yesterday when the District grand jury returned a report setting out that there was lack of evidence.

The grand jury began the investigation several weeks ago, after Senator Brookhart had told the Senate and the country that he had attended a party given by Wall street interests for senators and newly elected senators at which liquor had been served.

The grand jury report follows:

"Upon information reaching the grand jury as to alleged violations of the national prohibition act occurring at a dinner party at the New Willard Hotel during the month of December, 1926, by one Walter J. Fahy, the United States attorney directed the issuance of subpenas to certain witnesses.

"Various witnesses appeared and placed before the body all facts in their possession with regard to said alleged violations. This matter having been considered by the grand jury, it is deemed that the lack of evidence, together with the extraordinary lapse of time between the violations and the revelation of the facts relating to this affair, make it impracticable for the grand jury to consider the matter further."

Brookhart, before appearing before the grand jury, made a speech in the Senate in which he declared that the man who sat on his left, E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, had taken a drink from a flask.

Loomis later was called before the grand jury, as was Frank S. Hight, president and manager of the Willard Hotel.

Loomis stayed before the grand jury less than 5 minutes while Hight was in there for a longer time. Hight was the man who supplied the grand jury with the date of the dinner, it was said.

Last night, midnight, was the ultimate hour at which the grand jury could have returned an indictment, if any, it was said, due to the statute of limitations.

Motorcyclist Hurt In Crash.

Randolph Hill, colored, 24 years old, of 4825 G street southeast, sustained lacerations about the body yesterday afternoon at First and G streets northwest when the motorcycle he was riding collided with an automobile operated by Edward I. Taylor, 30 years old, of 636 H street southwest. Hill was admitted to Casualty Hospital, where his condition was reported as "fair."

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon and recessed at 5:20 to 11 today.

Patrick J. Sullivan, of Wyoming, and David Baird, of New Jersey, were sworn in as senators.

Confirmed the nomination of Patrick J. Hurley to be Secretary of War.

Received the following nominations: Donald R. Heath, of Kansas, to be secretary in the diplomatic service; H. A. Pickert, of Michigan, to be collector of customs for Detroit; Walter E. Corwin, of Brooklyn, to be collector of customs for the First New York District; Col. Hugh Matthews, to be quartermaster of the Army, with rank of brigadier general.

Continued debate on the wool schedule in the tariff bill.

Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, sought to call up the tax reduction resolution, but Senator Black (Democrat), Albama, blocked action. Leaders immediately began laying plans to lay aside the tariff bill in order to take up the tax measure.

Owen D. Young told the interstate commerce committeee that President Wilson suggested formation of the Radio Corporation of America.

Because of the absence of Chairman Norris, of the judiciary committee, Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, decided not to call up the nomination of Albert L. Watson to be a Federal judge in Pennsylvania until Monday.

Chairman Caraway, of the lobby investigating committee, received a telegram from John W. Martin, former Governor of Florida, urging the committee to investigate payment of a check for $2,050 by the State of Florida to J. A. Arnold, manager of the Southern Tariff Association.

Senator Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, commended President Hoover for suggesting a commission to study the situation in Haiti.

Agriculture committee approved the Cutting resolution authorizing $400,000 for loans to farmers and fruit growers of the Rio Grande Valley, where lands were flooded in August and September.

Senator Frye (Republican), North Dakota, urged farmers to support the Federal Farm Board in its "war" with the commission grain dealers.

Republican senatorial committee elected Theodore Cary, of Kansas City, as treasurer.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 4:55 to noon today.

Representative Huddleston (Democrat), Alabama, charged that President Hoover had made "a mess" of the Haitian situation.

Representative Johnson (Republican), Washington, defended the President's stand with regard to Haiti.

Representative Blackburn (Democrat), Kentucky, introduced a bill to cut in half the tax on cigarettes.

Representative Sabath (Democrat), Illinois, introduced a bill to limit marginal trading on exchanges in stock and agricultural products.

Secretary of War Hurley reported that the cost of pilgrimages of widows and mothers to the American cemeteries overseas has been estimated at $5,653,000.

President Hoover asked that $10,000 be awarded to the nearest relatives of Senators Tyson, Burton and Warren, all of whom have died recently.

SENATE WANTS TAX ACTION BY SATURDAY

Tariff Bill's Consideration Delays Proposed Cut of $160,000,000.

TWO-DAY DEBATE LIMIT

(Associated Press.)

Senate leaders determined last night to seek consideration of the $160,000,000 tax reduction resolution before the end of the week, having been forced to lay it aside today for resumption of the tariff debate.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, was attempting to obtain an understanding whereby the resolution would be brought up on Thursday or Friday with an agreement to limit debate to two days.

If that understanding can not be reached, there were indications that today a move would be made to displace the tariff bill for immediate consideration of the tax resolution. All factional leaders expressed hope, however, that no considerable delay in the tariff debate would be occasioned by the tax resolution.

Blaine Blocks Program.

Senators Black (Democrat), Alabama, and Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, upset the program of their party leaders in blocking immediate consideration yesterday of the tax resolution. Black insisted that any agreement on program include a stipulation for consummation of the old Muscle Shoals dispute. Blaine said he was opposed to giving the "financial thieves of the stock market an opportunity to be rewarded by a reduction in their taxes." He demanded that the Senate first dispose of the tariff.

Signs of trouble also were seen in a statement by Senator Couzens, of Michigan, a Republican member of the finance committee, that he would oppose a limitation of debate until he had an opportunity to consider some amendments. He did not indicate the amendments he had in mind, nor was there any indication whether he would finally offer them.

Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, in reporting the tax resolution to the Senate, proposed its immediate consideration with an agreement for a vote upon it by today at 4 p. m. Senator Black blocked this.

Simmons Wants Taxation.

Senators Simmons, of North Carolina, and Harrison, of Mississippi, the ranking Democrats of the finance committee, joined in the demand for immediate disposition of the tax resolution. They expressed fear that the psychological benefit created in the country by announcement of the tax reduction would be destroyed by indefinite delay.

Senators Hawes, Missouri, and Copeland, New York, both Democrats, also supported this view and Hawes gave notice that today he would move for immediate consideration of the tax resolution.

Senator Watson urged early adoption of the resolution as a spur to business. Senator Borah, of Idaho, a leader of the Republican Independents, said he would not object to immediate disposition of the tax resolution if there were assurance that it would not interfere unduly with the tariff.

Tariff First, Says Borah.

"If you want to create a favorable psychological condition," exclaimed Borah, "let's get rid of the tariff."

The motion to take up the tax resolution was not in order until today because the report on it by the finance committee was just submitted today.

Demanding action on the tax cut, Senator Harrison said, "The American people are interested in tax reduction.

"Two years ago we proposed to cut the corporation tax to 10 per cent," he continued, "and now they are coming to our view. The recent business conferences have stimulated confidence and not with my vote or with my voice will anything be done to hamper the President in his effort to create a psychological situation which will prevent any panic."

Three Sent to Jail In Ohio Red Trial

Lawyer Hits Stimson Note; Defendants Claim U. S. Is Militaristic.

St. Clairsville, Ohio, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Sentencing of three alleged Communists on charges of syndicalism in connection with a recent demonstration at Martins Ferry, Ohio, was deferred until tomorrow by Common Pleas Judge William W. Cowen, after they had manifested an attitude of defiance before him today. The defendants, Tom Johnson and Lil Andrews, of Cleveland, and Charles Gwynn, of Lansing, Ohio, were committed to jail without bond.

The trio recently was convicted by a jury. Judge Cowen denied their motion for a new trial today and asked them if they had anything to say before sentence was passed. Their answer was that nothing the court could do would change their opinion of the United States' attitudes toward foreign countries.

Arguing the motion for a new trial, Mrs. Vetta Land, of Cleveland, attorney for the trio, defended the literature which they had been distributing at Martins Ferry, in which the United States was alleged to be a militaristic Nation, planning for war. Mrs. Land declared the recent note sent to Russia by Secretary Stimson bore out the opinions of the Communists. She said the note was not a move for peace between Russia and China but a gesture for provincial expansion.

Naval Officer Faces Embezzlement Count

(Associated Press.)

Lieut. Charles Musil, former paymaster on the Navy destroyer Gilmer, will be placed on trial by general court-martial at the Navy Yard here Thursday on charges of embezzling $55,461.21, and of "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

Musil buried $46,900 of the money in a chicken yard about four miles from the Navy Yard, but the difference between that sum and the money taken has been returned to the department. The officer's wife has come from their home near Charleston, S. C., to be with him.

Gov. Emmerson Shy Hat After White House Chat

(Associated Press.)

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, of Illinois, visited the White House yesterday and while he was talking about waterway development with President Hoover some one plucked the governor's gray felt hat from the rack which stands outside the Chief Executive's private office, apparently by mistake, since one was left in its place.

"Oh, well," Gov. Emmerson said, "I've lost hats before so I guess I'll get along all right. But the fellow who took my hat was a good trader. This one is a size too large and not nearly so good."

500 CALL ON HOOVER WITHIN THREE HOURS

Japanese High Priest Gives Beautiful Tapestry to President.

BUREAU OFFICIALS CALL

(Associated Press.)

Nearly 500 people crossed the threshold to President Hoover's private offices yesterday, providing the greatest activity at the White House since the practice of admitting handshaking groups was discontinued. Three hours were devoted to callers.

The largest single group was a delegation of women representing the National Woman's Party, who petitioned Hoover to support the view that there should be no distinction based on sex with respect to world-wide nationality practices.

In another large group were members of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association, including Govs. Hammill of Iowa and Schafer of North Dakota and Senator Allen, of Kansas.

The senator made a second call with the Kansas House delegation to urge the appointment of Martin R. Powell, of Wathena, Kans., as recorder of deeds for the District of Columbia. Powell is prominent in Negro political circles.

British Hero Is Visitor.

In still another large group was the British Ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, who presented members of the British Empire Service League, including the distinguished blind soldier, Capt. Sir E. Beachcroft Towse, twice presented with the Victoria Cross.

Perhaps the most picturesque of Mr. Hoover's visitors was a high priest from Japan, who came with a letter of introduction from the Japanese Ambassador. He was clad in a brilliantly embroidered scarlet cape and carried under his arm a beautiful tapestry depicting mercy and wisdom.

Representative Jonas (Republican), North Carolina; Senator Ransdell (Democrat), Louisiana, and Representative Knutson (Republican), Minnesota, discussed prospective legislation in the regular session.

Illinois Governor Calls.

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, of Illinois, asked for a Federal appointment of about $7,500,000 to complete the Illinois waterway system; Chief Justice McCoy, of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, called to tender his resignation, to take effect immediately; Theodore Noyes discussed District of Columbia affairs with the President.

Another caller was Mr. Hoover's personal friend, Adolph Miller, who presented Robert Spell, president of the University of California. Another old friend, Dr. Paul Haertl, of the German Red Cross, and associated with Mr. Hoover in relief work, called to pay his respects.

In addition, Mr. Hoover welcomed numerous department officials, including Budget Director Roop, Assistant Director Hudson, of the Bureau of Standards; Secretary Hyde and the American Minister to Jugoslavia, John D. Prince.

Youth, 18, Is Arrested On Rum-Running Count

Complaints that rumrunning automobiles operated in an alley near Iowa Circle led to the arrest there at 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning of William E. Walters, 18 years old, of Meridan place near Fourteenth street northwest, in a car on charges of transportation and possession of 98 one-half gallons of liquor.

Walters, who was taken in custody by Second Precinct Detectives Henry Rinke and J. B. Austin, was released on $2,000 bond.

HOLMES COMPLETES 27 YEARS ON BENCH

Supreme Court Justice Hands Down Only Opinion as Tribunal Recesses.

THREE LAWS SUSTAINED

(Associated Press.)

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes celebrated the twenty-seventh anniversary of his membership in the United States Supreme Court yesterday by delivering the only written opinion.

Enjoying hearty health, the celebrated jurist is in his eighty-ninth year. He took his seat upon the bench of the highest court on December 8, 1902, having been appointed by President Roosevelt.

Ten cases were disposed of verbally and consent granted to petitions for review of two labor cases.

Thereupon the court recessed until January 6.

The only documentary decision refused the request of the Kansas Insurance Commissioner for a mandamus to compel Federal District Judge Pollock to call a three-judge statutory court to act on a controversy with fire insurance companies over new rates.

Among the actions taken without written opinion were three sustaining State laws, as follows:

The Louisiana law of 1928, which prevents dog racing by prohibiting tracks less than a mile in length; the Missouri law which aids prohibition enforcement by prohibiting screens in certain stores which would obstruct a free view into the interior from the street, and the California law under which those who plead not guilty to murder because of insanity are tried.

The highest tribunal also decided without written opinion that attorneys specially employed by States and municipalities are subject to Federal taxation on the income received from such employment and that the Government could tax banks which are conducted by States. The decision will apply to a case against Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, who was specially employed by that State in some tax cases.

Sackett Inquirers Meet Tomorrow

District Quiz Board to Hold Session Behind Closed Doors.

The Sackett subcommittee, appointed to investigate District affairs, will meet tomorrow at 10 o'clock, Senator Sackett (Republican), of Kentucky, announced yesterday.

Like previous meetings of the subcommittee, however, it will be behind closed doors. After the last meeting Chairman Sackett said that the matters under consideration are of such a serious nature that it was thought best to keep them secret.

The subcommittee is conducting the investigation authorized by a resolution introduced by Senator Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina. It is seeking to determine whether there is any corruption or inefficiency in the local government; why former Policeman Robert J. Allen was suspended, why there was delay in returning an indictment in the last Chinese tong murder, and what Chinese have been granted and denied the privilege to carry guns.

Cold Caught in Debate Keeps Norris at Home

(Associated Press.)

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, is confined to his home by a severe cold. He contracted the cold last week during debate on his resolution to exclude William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, but remained at his post until that was decided.

He hopes to return to the Senate within a few days.

AMERICANS IN CHINA FLEE INTO SHANGHAI

U. S. Women Quit Ichang as Rebels and Nationalists Fight for Control.

MUTINY NEWS LACKING

Shanghai, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Seeking safety because of widespread revolt against China's Nationalist government, American and other refugees began arriving here today. Seventy-five American women and children came from Nanking with many refugees of other nationalities who fled from the menace of the rebel forces marching from Pengpu to meet the Nationalist defenders of Nanking, the capital.

With wire communication severed by contending forces and dispatches censored, little was learned today of the Pukow mutineers who, their ranks augmented by other rebels, were reported to number at least 30,000 stretched along the railroad to Pengpu. Two days ago their advance was reported to have gained success in a sharp skirmish with Nationalists at Wuyi, 35 miles northwest of Nanking.

U. S. Women Leave Capital City.

On advice of their consuls, American and other foreign women took boats for Shanghai from the capital city, the decks of the boats being piled high with their trunks, boxes and bundles.

At Ichang, nearly 1,000 miles inland on the Yangtse River, other foreign women and children boarded six foreign gunboats and fled from the city, where rebels and Nationalist troops fought for control.

An American cruiser, the Pittsburgh, and six destroyers left Manila for this port after Rear Admiral Charles B. McVay declared that it was the routine duty of the United States Navy to protect American lives and property whenever endangered.

Tang Seng-Chi Turns Rebel.

Turned rebel, Gen. Tang Seng-Chi, former leader of Nationalist armies in Honan Province, was reported to be mobilizing 50,000 men in the north of that province preparatory to marching upon Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang, chief commercial ports of central China.

A dispatch from Mukden to a government news agency asserted that Soviet troops had imprisoned 1,000 Chinese miners at Chalainor, Manchuria, that the Chinese population at Manchuli was near starvation because of Soviet refusal to permit any one to leave that Manchurian western border city, and that on the eastern boundary of Manchuria, Soviet airplanes had inflicted some damage upon Pogranichnaya. These warlike activities took place, it was said, some days after the Russian and Chinese envoys had agreed to a protocol for peaceable settlement of the Chinese Eastern Railway dispute in Manchuria.

WORLD COURT FOES PLAN SENATE FIGHT

Even Revised Protocol Fails to Get Approval of "Die Hards."

BORAH TO LEAD BATTLE

This modified reservation, which in its original form was not accepted by the world powers, has now been approved by the other nations through the League of Nations assembly.

Opposition Is Avowed.

Chairman Borah, of the foreign relations committee, and Senators Johnson, California, and Moses, New Hampshire, the ranking Republicans on the foreign relations committee, have avowed their opposition to the modification of the Senate reservation.

"I am prepared to take up the world court issue," Senator Borah commented yesterday, "as soon as we get through with the tariff."

There was feeling in the Senate that Hoover might withhold the protocol question until perhaps next session, in view of previous statements in administration circles that the President wanted each of the other nations to ratify it before submitting it to the Senate.

The reservation in question was proposed by Senator Swanson (Democrat), Virginia, and stipulated that the court should render no advisory opinions in which this Nation has, or claims to have, an interest without the consent of this Government.

With an apparently insurmountable barrier existing, Elihu Root went to Geneva during the closing days of the Coolidge administration and with a committee of jurists revised the World Court protocol in a manner which President Hoover believes met the Senate's reservation.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, takes a similar view. He said yesterday:

"No doubt Secretary Stimson has called attention to the fact that such a change has been made in the statutes of the court as that the objection most strenuously urged when the subject was last before the Senate has lost much of its force.

East Korelian Case.

"At that time attention was called to the East Korelian case when the court held it would not entertain a request for an advisory opinion in the matter in which Russia was interested unless with its consent, which was withheld.

"If that rule were adhered to, the court would not entertain a request for an advisory opinion in matters in which the United States was interested without its consent. It was argued that the court might change its ruling.

"The amendment to the statute of the court makes it now provide in effect that the request for an advisory opinion must be dealt with by the court in the same manner as contentious cases, which means that such a request can not be entertained except by consent of the parties affected.

Advices Delay in Action.

"This change in the statute goes far to meet the contingencies to guard against which the Senate's reservation was framed. That is to say, the necessity for a reservation of that character is by no means what it was when last before the Senate.

"I should imagine that the protocol could not be reached by the Senate in view of the work now on hand before Secretary Stimson goes to London and it should certainly not be taken up in his absence."

PROTOCOL OF COURT IS SIGNED FOR U. S.

J. Pierrepont Moffat Takes Steps for American Entry to League Tribunal.

SENATE ACTION AWAITED

Geneva, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—To the gratification of League of Nations circles here, the United States today took an important step toward entry into the membership of the Permanent Court of International Justice.

J. Pierrepont Moffat, American charge d'affaires at Berne, Switzerland, signed three different documents on behalf of the American Government: The court statutes, the revision adopted by the recent assembly of the League of Nations, and the protocol for the admission of the United States.

The eyes of international observers at Geneva are now turned toward Washington. Every one is awaiting the action of the American Senate when today's signatures are presented for ratification.

Signing Without Ceremony.

Moffat was in the league secretariat for only half an hour and the signing was private and without ceremony. Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league; Arthur Sweetser, American official in the secretariat; Juan Antonio Buero, former foreign minister of Uruguay, and Sanchez Teixidor, of Spain, were present.

The American representative, who arrived from London this afternoon, walked into the treaty registration room of the secretariat, wrote his name three times, deposited a short note covering his instructions and left soon after for Berne.

League authorities warmly welcomed the signature of the documents by the United States, declaring that the court's usefulness would be immeasurably increased by the support of the United States Government.

The signature of Moffat to the adhesion protocol followed the signatures of almost all the members of the court. Those of Lithuania, Albania and Abyssinia were the only ones missing.

Campaign for Ratification.

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Formation of a national world court campaign committee to arouse public sentiment to induce Senate ratification of American membership in the court was announced today by Everett Colby, who is its chairman. He said it represents leading organizations working in the fields of social welfare, politics and religion.

In addition to Colby, its officers are Carrie Chapman Catt, vice chairman; Raymond B. Fosdick, treasurer, and Josephine Schain, secretary.

The American Foundation for maintaining the American peace award announced receipt of many messages commending the action of the American delegates in signing the revised protocol.

PERFUME SLUGGER IS BELIEVED CAUGHT

a man would be sent to Wisconsin to take the prisoner West.

Several weeks ago, Seattle and other nearby cities were terrorized by a man who forced his way into homes and, at the point of gun, attacked women. More than 30 such cases were credited to the mystery man. Police doubled their watch, husbands guarded their homes, extra officers were detailed to hunt down the man. He eluded them all.

The man held here, officials said, came to Janesville from Racine, Wis., on November 3, and was harbored by a family who called a doctor to treat his wounds. The doctor failed to report the wound to police, officials said. The man said he was wounded in a small Indiana town, he attempted to steal a bottle of milk and was shot.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—"The mystery man," arrested in Janesville, Wis., today for Seattle police is believed by authorities here to be the long sought "perfumed slugger" who was thought to have attacked and attempted to harm more than a score of women throughout the Pacific Northwest more than a year ago.

The most recent appearance of the "perfumed slugger" was when he frightened two girls in the university district by entering the room where they were sleeping.

A series of attacks were laid to the same man, police said, because the victims reported a strong scent of heliotrope perfume.

Preparations to obtain extradition papers for the man, known to local police as Lloyd H. Fathers, were being made late today. Fathers was said to have relatives in the vicinity of the Wisconsin town.

Detective Capt. William Witzke requested the arrest of the man following receipts of reports a week ago that a "slugger" of similar characteristics and technique had been shot at Janesville.

Capt. Witzke said more than 30 brutal crimes were ascribed in police records here to the "perfumed slugger."

UNITED STATES POLICY IN HAITI STIRS WARM DEBATE IN HOUSE

Russell, the Marines and Government officials did not have to be defended, Johnson said.

While this debate was going on the State Department received a message from C. F. Wood, American vice consul in Haiti, that calm prevailed at Cape Haitien. In Navy quarters, it was hinted that the 500 Marines en route to Haiti to reenforce the 700 there might not be landed unless conditions necessitated.

Representative Knutson (Republican), Minnesota, announced off the House floor that he had suggested to the administration that additional Marines are not needed. Although not favoring complete withdrawal, he said the present garrison is sufficient to cope with any situation that might arise now.

Democrats Applaud Huddleston.

The charges made by Huddleston took the House by surprise, and he was applauded by the Democrats. He said the American Government is practicing imperialism toward Latin America under a perverted construction of the Monroe Doctrine.

The Alabaman asked why the President wanted a commission, when the American high commissioner, who "has been the real ruler of Haiti all the time, is merely the President's tool?" He contended that President Borno of Haiti was "placed in office by American arms and is held there by the same force, a puppet governor."

"Why, Borno could not live one hour except for American bayonets to uphold him!" Huddleston exclaimed.

Johnson cautioned the House not to forget that "we are in Haiti by treaty."

The South Dakotan said he trusted that, when the proposed commission is formed, its personnel will be picked from among "those men and women who are anxious to find something good in the Government of the United States and the government in Haiti rather than to find something evil."

The official decried by insurgents in Haiti, who shouted "Down with Borno (president of Haiti), down with Freeman," is believed here to be Dr. George F. Freeman, American, who for at least five years has held in Haiti a position corresponding to that of Secretary of Agriculture in the United States.

In his capacity as chief of service of technique, Dr. Freeman has direct supervision of the National Agriculture College, at Damien, 10 miles out of Port Au Prince, where it was said first manifestations of insurgency appeared among students protesting a reallotment of scholarships. Dr. Freeman was said also to have had supervision over the allotment of the scholarships.

Another reason for the outcries against Dr. Freeman was seen in the depression of the coffee market, which is said to be the result of an unusually large crop in Brazil. Haitian peasants usually receive between 20 and 25 cents a pound for coffee. This year official reports show that they are receiving about 8 cents.

In the service technique, about 12 Americans are serving as officials, and several hundred Haitians are employed. The service set up the agricultural college, and has organized substations throughout the country, where natives are taught trades, and agricultural demonstration work similar to that of American agricultural colleges is carried on. The service also operates a reform school for boys and a printing office.

Haiti-Bound Plane Hops From Florida to Havana

Miami, Fla., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Two Loening amphibian airplanes, sent by the Marine Corps to Haiti as a part of the expedition to halt uprisings on the island, will leave here at daybreak tomorrow for the fourth leg of their flight.

The planes, piloted by Lieuts. W. O. Brice and Peter H. Schrider, of the Marine Corps, and carrying three enlisted men as mechanics, arrived at Pan-American Airport at 2:55 p. m., today, after a 3-hour-and-20-minute flight from Jacksonville. After having their planes refueled here, the Marines will proceed via Havana to Camaguey.

AN OPEN BOOK ON BANKING
Factors of Bank Credit
Finance Brevities by John Poole
A lot of things are taken into consideration by the banker when people want to borrow money.
The banker wants to know something of the "character" of the borrower—will he keep his word? The banker wants to know something of the "capacity" of the borower—is he capable of earning money—has he the capacity to pay?
And the banker wants to know something of the "capital" of the borrower—has he spent all he has earned or has he kept some as his nest egg—his capital?
When a man is believed to be honest, industrious and thrifty, he possesses those qualities which constitute a good credit risk. Credit once established should never be abused.

SCHOOL HEAD SENDS ADVICE TO TEACHERS

Prince Georges Instructors to Stress Character Development.

STANDARDS ARE RAISED

Development of character in the pupil is the most important function of the school, Superintendent of Schools Nicholas Orem, of Prince Georges County declared in the introduction to his annual set of regulations for the administration of the county schools, sent yesterday to the teachers of the county schools.

"Behavior or conduct in and out of school is promoted by the teacher's housekeeping, routine system, fairness and the development of the spirit of initiative, cooperation and ambition among her pupils. Good conduct to be of value must arise from volition, not compulson. We therefore ask that you give particular attention to the bulletin on citizenship issued by the State department of education," the regulations say.

The regulations included ten pages of instruction for the teacher, covering practically every phase of school work and administration.

Discussing "scholarship, the generally accepted function of the school," Superintendent Oren says: "While the standard tests given last year showed gratifying progress made in raising our schools to the standard level, we shall not be satisfied until all are up to the standard. Thoroughness, effort and interest in the best methods of instruction will accomplish this."

Superintendent Orem explains that a reduction in over age is a necessary item in the measure of the efficiency of the school and urges the teachers to compare their accomplishment with the goal of 10 per cent under age, 75 per cent normal age and 15 over age, which has been set as the goal of the county schools. He also urged that the teachers refrain from being too strict in the promotion of pupils and to avoid labeling their pupils "failure." He stated that the present attendance is extremely gratifying and urged the teachers to work for the grading of their schools as the very best.

Orem specially stressed the necessity for teaching the pupils respect for property. He quoted complaints by the State Roads Commission that road signs had been mutilated by school children and also urged that boilers in the schools be inspected with the utmost care.

The superintendent also pointed out that fire drills must be held and gave several suggestions for creating interest in them and suggested that the giving of Christmas presents in the schools be discouraged. He reminded the teachers that they are expected to be at their desks at twenty minutes before opening time and urged them to be examples to the children by their promptness.

Concluding his general suggestions, the superintendent declared: "We are proud of your rank in attendance and we are not unhappy about your rank in standard tests; in fact, the progress you are making is very gratifying."

A heavy increase in hunting licenses and a decrease in the number of instruments filed is shown in the monthly report of Summerfield D. Hall, clerk of the Prince Georges Circuit Court, made public yesterday. County hunting licenses totaled 1,658; State-wide licenses numbered 368; nonresident, 48, and 5 duck blind permits were issued.

A total of 746 instruments was filed in the circuit court in November, according to the report. They were classified as follows: Deeds, 196; mortgages, 131; releases, 101; assignments, 29; chattel mortgages, 257; contracts, 18; liens, 14; marriage licenses totaled 32 for November. There were 39 traders and cigarette licenses issued.

George Alfred Morrow, of Washington, charged with a statutory offense, yesterday waived a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Harry I. Anderson, and was held for action of the April grand jury. He was placed in the county jail at Upper Marlboro. Morrow is married and has two children.

Deputy Sheriff L. E. Dutrow arrested Morrow Sunday morning after he found Mary Russell, Sixth street northwest, near C street, in an automobile near Forrestville, crying. The young woman told him that Morrow had attempted to attack her, the policeman said. Morrow denied the story.

Hearings on two applications for rezoning of residential property will be held today by the Prince Georges County Commissioners at their meeting in Upper Marlboro. The application of J. Moses Edlavitch and E. N. Lightbown for reclassification as commercial D of block 13, Holloday's Addition to Highland, town of Brentwood, is believed unopposed. This property is to be used as an eating house and is located on the new Rhode Island avenue extension.

The application of John Kieley for reclassification of 455.81 feet on the west side of the Baltimore boulevard at Paint Branch to commercial D is opposed by the University of Maryland, the grounds of which will be bordered by the commercial development.

H. L. Crisp, superintendent of buildings and grounds of the university, appears as opponent to granting of the petition by direction of the board of regents, according to a letter received by James C. Blackwell, clerk to the county commissioners, which asks that the property be retained as residential. It is understood that a tourist camp and restaurant is to be erected.

The university objects to the granting of the permit on the grounds that it may eventually become a "roadhouse," which would disturb the university greatly; that the location of a tourist camp with the usual equipment would present an unsightly spectacle and that the patrons would trespass upon the university grounds adjacent and interfere with important investigational work being carried on in that area; that there is no need for additional restaurant facilities near the campus and that the proposed restaurant probably would interfere with the restaurant business now being carried on as part of the university work.

Kieley asserts that the ground is low, swampy land, subject to overflow from Paint Branch, which bisects the tract in an area of 200 feet and that the land is lower than the road, thus making it unfit for residential purposes.

Both applications have been approved by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The university asks that in the event of approval of the petition that the university officials and the owner be permitted to enter into an agreement as to the nature of the business to be conducted.

The Oxon Hill School Improvement Association will hold an entertainment in the school tonight. The proceeds are to be used in completing concrete sidewalks at the school now under construction.

Former Representative Injured in Auto Mishap

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Dec. 9.—Thomas W. Harrison, former representative from the Seventh Virginia District, injured late Saturday in an automobile accident near Warrenton, Va., had his collar bone broken, an X-ray examination disclosed late today in a hospital here. He was also gashed in the head, sustained cuts on his face, hands and knees and numerous bruises. The son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Burr Powell Harrison, escaped serious injury.

They were returning from a visit to Mrs. Harrison's parents, Mr and Mrs. Peter Yates Brinton, in Richmond, with Mrs Harrison driving a high-powered sedan, which skidded on a slippery road, overturned and rolled down a 25-foot embankmen..

COURT ACTION ASKED IN FARE RAISE ISSUE

Trolley Companies Request Intervention and Order for Increase.

UTILITIES DECISION HIT

Washington's problem of future street car fares was taken yesterday to the District Supreme Court. Both the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Capital Traction Co. asked the court to intervene in the matter of 10-cent street car fares.

Both companies, in effect, asked the court to set aside the recent order of the Public Utilities Commission denying the increase of fares from those now in effect and to decree a fare of 10 cents cash and four tokens for 30 cents.

Both companies in their petitions recite a lengthy history of their corporate existence.

The Washington Railway & Electric Co. asks that the court enjoin the commission and its members from putting into effect the order of November 13 last, which denied the company the increase in fares that it asked.

The Washington Railway & Electric Co. states that the return it is receiving on its investment is entirely inadequate, and recites figures in support of the statement. In addition, the company, through Attorneys E. R. Bowen and John D. Barbour, tells the court that the effect of the order of November 13 is "that while the commission finds that the present rate of fare is inadequate, the commission, because it can not fix exactly the full value of the property, will not afford any relief to the petitioning companies though it fails to find that the relief prayed for would afford an excessive return."

While not specifically mentioning a 10-cent fare, the Capital Traction Co. requests the court to grant a fare that is not discriminatory. Its petition points out that the present fare is unlawful, unreasonable and confiscatory.

In addition the Capital Traction Co. asked the court, pending the hearing of its case, to fix "such rates of fare as will grant to plaintiff temporary relief from the unlawful, unreasonable and confiscatory conditions to which it is now being subjected by the enforcement of the existing rates of fare."

Attorneys George E. Hamilton and G. Thomas Dunlop appear on behalf of the Capital Traction Co.

One Dead, One Dying, Girl Hurt in Car Crash

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 9.—Mrs Emmett A. Lynch, 38, is dead, Russell B. Heck, 50, is in a dying condition and Dessie, 13, his daughter, is in a critical state from injuries received when their automobile went over a bank yesterday at Katylick, where all live. Two other children were also hurt.

The car got out of control when Heck turned to close a rear door.

Cumberland, Md., Dec. 9 (Special). T. William Mervine, 66, painter, was found dead in bed at the Hotel Waiten today. Besides his wife, Mrs Nellie Mervine, he is survived by three sons and three daughters. The body was taken to Bedford, Pa., for burial.

Five Held in Raids Netting Mash, Rum

Dry Inspectors Also Uncover Active Stills During Invitations.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpepper, Va., Dec. 9.—Five stills, 16 gallons of liquor, 700 gallons of mash and five people were netted in raids by State Prohibition Inspectors Paul Nicholson and W. S. Fletcher, in Culpeper and Rappahannock Counties.

All of the stills were reported to be in operation when found. In the first raid Leonard Clark and wife were arrested, when, the inspectors state, they were found at two 50-gallon outfits which were reported to have been running full blast close by their home.

Ten gallons of liquor were said to have been run off here and, reports stated, there was still 400 gallons of mash to be distilled. William Utz, of Rock Mills, was caught, allegedly, with a small 30-gallon affair running in the basement of his home. Six gallons of liquor and about 100 gallons of mash were found here, inspectors declared.

George Huffman was arrested at his home near Reva, where, the officers say, they found two stills working 200 yards from his dwelling. Twelve 50-gallon fermenters and 200 gallons of mash were also located in this search, it is charged.

One Negro, Epp Barbour, was picked up in the raids when officers allegedly found 50 gallons of mash and a condenser in one of his outbuildings. Inspector Nicholson today said that most of the liquor found appeared to be of a very poor quality.

Purcellville to Have County League Rally

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., Dec. 9.—A County Community League rally will be held in the Purcellville school building Saturday, December 14, from 10 a. m to 12 noon.

J. H. Montgomery, executive secretary of the State Cooperative Education Association, will address the meeting. All community leagues of the county are expected to send delegates and make brief reports of their work.

Train Men Exonerated Of Death of Painter

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Dec. 9.—A Baltimore & Ohio Railroad train crew was exonerated by the coroner today after investigating the death of James V. Butler, 44, a local house painter, who was run down late last night by a southbound passenger train near Shawnee Hollow Trestle here.

Motorman Mobley said the man's head was lying on the rail when he applied the brakes, but he saw the man too late to avoid striking him. Member of a prominent Frederick County family, Butler is survived by a widow, his mother, Mrs. John Butler, three brothers and three sisters.

Herrs Island Resident Ends Life With Shotgun

Special to The Washington Post.

Harpers Ferry, W. Va., Dec. 9.—John W. Cooper, 65, killed himself in his home on Herrs Island, near here Sunday night, with a shotgun as he lay on a bed in his room. His wife discovered the body. He had been in ill health. An inquest was held unnecessary.

Also surviving are five daughters and three sons. He was a native and lifelong resident of Herrs Island.

James Elected Head Of Montgomery Group

Stephen James, delegate from the Linden Citizens Association, last night was elected president of the Montgomery County Civic Federation at a meeting in the Garrett Park School. The vacancy was created when Dr. L. M. Christie declined the election at the last meeting of the federation. James has been chairman of the committee on public safety and has had an admirable record in that position. He also was a member of the executive committee.

The federation approved a substitute resolution offered by O. M. Kile, which asked the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission to extend Massachusetts avenue to Minnehan Creek and thereafter to connect the road with the master highway plan being drawn by the commission. The federation indorsed the Gettysburg Memorial highway project. B. W. Parker, president of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce, and a delegate from that body, was elected to the executive committee to replace James.

CHARLES L. BROWN RITES.

Federal Power Commission Employe To Be Buried in Arlington.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon for Charles Leonard Brown, an accountant with the Federal Power Commission, at Arlington Cemetery. Brown died early Sunday morning of pneumonia after an illness of three days. He was a native of Petersburg, Va., and a veteran of the World War. He was 45 years old.

Brown is survived by his widow, Mrs. Louise Holland Brown; his mother, Mrs. C. C. Brown, of Petersburg; two brothers, Herbert L. Brown, of Richmond, Va., and Floyd S. Brown, of Prince George County Courthouse, and two sisters, the Misses Leonarda and Ethel Brown, of Petersburg.

Hyattsville Men Plan New Project

Beautification of Area Is Outlined at Meeting of Council.

Beautification of the area between the extension of Rhode Island avenue and the street car tracks at Hyattsville was discussed at a meeting of the mayor and council of Hyattsville last night. Town Planner Fahy was instructed to take the matter up and report at a later meeting.

The council also granted the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. a permit to lay underground cables from its present site on Johnson avenue to the new exchange on Franklin avenue, with the proviso that the telephone company construct a sidewalk on the same site.

It was reported that Hyattsville had oversubscribed its quota of $500 for the Rhode Island avenue celebration and that the new sidewalk on the south side of Oak street had been completed, by Harry Boswell, chairman of the roads committee of the council.

Santa Claus Welcomed To Lynchburg by Band

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 9.—Thousands of people milled in Main street tonight to watch the arrival of Santa Claus, who accepted an invitation from the retail merchants association to visit Lynchburg. He was met at the Union Station by two brass bands, members of the city council and 300 girl and boy scouts who escorted him through the retail section.

On the arrival of Santa Claus at each Main street intersection special lights were turned on to burn each night until Christmas.

Shopping with Bab

DEAREST GENEVIEVE:
If you are wise you will go out early these fine mornings and begin your Christmas shopping before the crowds are too thick, and while you can make your selections at your leisure.

Connecticut avenue presents a marvelous thoroughfare for shoppers as usual. Every shop is scintillating with beautiful gifts of every sort and at every price. The antique shops, and specialty places each offer their own particular advantages. There is room to park your car, and plenty of space to get yourself around on sunny Connecticut avenue.

The Time Is Growing Short

—for having your pictures made for Christmas giving. Underwood and Underwood's studio on Connecticut avenue at N street is as busy as busy can be with the great rush of holiday work. So many people, in spite of all you can do, leave their sittings until the very last minute, which increases the risk in delivery, although I must say, Underwood and Underwood will get your pictures out for you, if they promise them.

By the way, have you seen the window at Underwood and Underwood's this week? There is one large picture of a mother and child, made in the home, a beautiful piece of work, and then on the floor of the window are half a dozen different treatments of the same picture. You see it in six different finishes and mountings, and at six different prices.

If you have not had your sittings do go in at once and assure yourself that your pictures will be delivered on time.

When Betty Hanna Reduces Prices

—you have learned to expect some wonderful values in recent models. Go in today and see the groups of stunning day frocks which have been re-priced to $29.50 and $39.50. For the most part these are crepes and silks, but there are a few wools included too.

Betty Hanna, 1613 Connecticut avenue, has only the best to begin with, so when you buy a frock in this shop, at a lowered price, you know you are getting a great value.

Everything remaining in the shop is to be cleared out immediately to make way for newer arrivals. Take my advice and go in early today.

Gift Suggestions In Rare Antiques

—await your inspection at The Old Virginia Shop, 1711 Eye street. In its new location in a fine old mansion, the exhibits of The Old Virginia Shop take on an added interest.

Mr. Van Deventer picked up so many interesting old things in Europe this summer, including old silver snuff boxes, old lacquer, tapestries and mirrors, and many surprising little objects which you will want to give to some one.

A shipment just received from England includes various antiques, portraits, rare pieces of furniture as well as odds and ends too numerous to mention.

Mothers Are Buying From J. Rand

—the smart, little Mastraknit suits for boys and girls which are imported from England exclusively by this firm, J. Rand, up one flight, at 1702 Connecticut avenue, has the little two-piece suits of pure wool, or wool and silk, or cotton and wool, making a variety of weights to please every one. One of the nicest things about them is the fact that they are so beautifully cut. Even the storm suits, which have pull-ons and leggings in one, are so trim looking with none of the objectionable bagginess which makes the cheaper suits so awkward looking. Splendid colors are featured in all the suits. The storm suits have sweaters, leggings, gauntlets and caps, and they are absolutely cold-proof.

Do see the fascinating games for children, also imported from England, as well as unusual picture books.

Harris and Ewing.

MISS BARBARA VANDENBURG, the daughter of Senator Vandenburg, of Michigan, and Mrs. Vandenburg, has captivated Washington society with her beauty and charm. Miss Vandenburg was presented to society at a tea which her parents gave for her last week at Wardman Park.

Ethel Leginska And Her Orchestra

—will appear in Constitution Hall Saturday evening, December 14, at 8:30. Seats are on sale at Mrs. Wilson-Greene's Concert Bureau, in Droop's, 1300 G street.

Leginska has often been called the Paderewski of women pianists. This was in the beginning of her sensational career, in this country. But now she has unmistakably taken her place among the really great musicians of the day, in her triple role of pianist—composer—conductor. Leginska was born in Hull, England, in an unmusical part of what is generally conceded to be an unmusical country. Her musical education was gained in Germany, and later she was the pupil of Leschetizky in Vienna.

She now stands supreme as a master pianist, a talented modern composer, of rare intelligence and distinction, and has established herself as the foremost woman conductor of importance, by conducting in one year many of the principal major symphony orchestras of Europe and America.

The Boston Women's Symphony Orchestra with which she will appear here, is entering its fourth season of consistently growing success. This concert will be a real treat for you.

Browns and Greens in Smart Frocks

—have been reduced in price at Herron's, 1735 Connecticut avenue. Two-piece frocks have silk skirts and jersey tops. There are many colors represented in the lot, in fact, all this season's shades. At $12.50 you may buy frocks which have been $18.50, and at $18.50 you may buy frocks which have been $25. So you see you have the opportunity now to make some extremely worth-while selections in little frocks to fill your wardrobe.

You must not forget that Herron makes dresses, too, and at such a low figure. Imagine having a nice little frock made for $9. They make from patterns, so you do not run any risk in what your completed garment will look like.

Pasternak Features Reductions

—in price in furs, fur-trimmed coats, gowns and hats, at a date much in advance of the time usually devoted to this event. To be able to select winter models before Christmas at lowered prices is an opportunity we are all quick to take advantage of.

The famous Pasternak coats tailored to perfection, with only the finest furs used, are the ambition of every woman who likes smart apparel. If you have hesitated in the interests of economy, do so no longer, as the prices prevailing now are exactly what you have been waiting for.

Do pick up two or three of the lovely little hats, which have been reduced in price. Pasternak, 1219 Connecticut avenue.

So Many Parties At the Willard

—are planned for every afternoon at the tea dances in the Palm Room, and for dinner dancing later. Since these events began a week ago, it has proven the popular place in town for all informal entertaining. With so much going on of a formal nature, the young set particularly, welcomes a cozy, jolly place where they can have a good time, dancing to marvelous music and chatting over the tables.

As you know, it is the special rendezvous of this year's debs and their beaux, and any afternoon or evening you may see some of them if not the entire group making merry in the Palm Room.

Linassier, one of the most famous chefs in the world has charge of the culinary destinies of the Willard. The delicious menus obtainable, can not be adequately described, and the most vivid imagination could not picture the delights of some of Linassier's most inspired dishes.

The Willard Hotel has been for so many years the center of the social life of Washington, that it is taken for granted that whether dining or having tea, you are sure to see every one you know.

Mrs. Dulany Exhibits at Wardman Park

—in the Florentine Room on Thursday and Friday of this week, the twelfth and thirteenth. Although the regular shop at 1901 Q street will be open just the same, this exhibit at Wardman will include complete assortments of charming boudoir accessories and lingerie which you will delight in seeing just at this time.

Be sure to see the silk blanket covers trimmed in lace, in various delectable shades, and the adorable satin bed-sets priced about as you would expect.

Mrs. Dulany's shop is famous for the most perfect boudoir things possible to find anywhere. Remember the Florentine Room in Wardman Park on the twelfth and thirteenth.

Finding Time For Proper Care

—of the hair and complexion when you are so busy in the social whirl is difficult enough goodness knows. But having found the time it is wise to use it in a place you can depend upon to give you intelligent attention.

Russina, 1609 Connecticut avenue, makes a great point of keeping the hair and scalp in a stimulated, normal condition before attempting artificial waves and so on.

More women are having permanent waves this winter than ever before, but Russina precedes a permanent with a definite, scientific schedule of treatment which assures you of the best possible results.

Affectionately,

POLICE QUIZ DENTIST IN TEACHER SLAYING

Illinois Woman Killed With Iron Pipe Which Is Only Definite Clue.

CHICAGO MAN IS SOUGHT

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Working without knowledge of a motive for the crime, and few clews to the slayer, Rockford police tonight sought to determine who killed Cordelia Gummersheimer, 30 years old, Rockford high school teacher, and why.

Found beaten to death in her kitchenette apartment Sunday, authorities had only a short length of gas pipe, used in the slaying, a number of letters and one man known to have been in the vicinity at the time the crime was committed.

Dr. Floy Leach, eccentric dentist, with offices in the building next to the apartment in which the victim lived, admitted to police he had worked late Saturday and had been near his office until 3 a. m. Sunday. Coroner Walter Julian said there was no evidence to connect the dentist with the crime.

Police questioned him in an attempt to learn whether he had seen any one enter or leave the apartment building about the time of the slaying, set by authorities at around 11 o'clock Saturday night.

The gas pipe was photographed in the hope that fingerprint clews might be obtained.

Letters in the young woman's rooms included several from friends or admirers but yielded little help in the solution of her death. Among them were several from Glenn Wiseman, of Modeltown, N. Y., and Tarpon Springs, Fla., all written in affectionate terms and indicating an engagement had existed. Wiseman, at Tarpon Springs today, said he and Miss Gummersheimer had been close friends but that he had not seen her since they attended a world's series game in Chicago last October.

A Rockford newspaper received a telegraphic request, signed "Glen Wiseman," asking for copies of the edition telling of the crime.

August Gummersheimer, of St. Louis, brother of the teacher, told Rockford police she had met a Porto Rican while teaching in that country and had become engaged to him. He was unable to give the man's name, but said the engagement had been broken. The father, J. J. Gummersheimer, of Belleville, Ill., knew of no motive for the crime.

Tarpon Springs, Fla., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Miss Cordelia Bummersheimer, school teacher, who was murdered at Rockford, Ill., wrote Glen Wiseman, a citrus canner here, Saturday, of plans to spend the Christmas holidays in Florida as his guest, he said today.

Wiseman said her letter at that time was cheerful and he knew of no motive for her death. He met Miss Gummersheimer in Porto Rico in 1917, he said, and they had been close friends since.

Adventists Receive Financial Report

General Conference Office Tells of Revenues of Past Year.

Tithes and offerings received by the Seventh Day Adventists for all lines of evangelistic work during last year totaled $12,271,753.60, an increase of $325,938.58, or 2.74 per cent over the year before, H. E. Rogers, statistical secretary of the general conference with headquarters at Takoma Park, declares in his annual report.

This amount is a per capita of $43.01 for each of the 285,293 members of the church throughout the world, Rogers states. The per capita for the 113,737 members in North America is $75.53, and for the 171,556 members in all other countries, $21.46.

"The total funds received for 1928," Rogers says, may be classified as follows: Tithe, $6,373,147.36, an increase over the preceding year of $161,388.16, or 2.60 per cent; foreign mission offerings, $3,881,879.95, an increase over the receipts for the preceding year of $110,991.66, or 2.94 per cent; home mission, $2,016,726.29, an increase over the receipts for the preceding year of $54,558.76, or 2.78 per cent."

Church Injunction Demurer Argued

Christian Science Mother Branch Fights Move on Parent Group.

Boston, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Arguments were begun this afternoon before Judge Stanley Qua, of the Superior Court, on a demurrer filed by the directors of the Christian Science Mother Church to a bill brought by John V. Dittemore and others for an injunction to restrain the mother church from interferring with the Christian Science Parent Church. Dittemore was formerly a director of the mother church.

In the bill against the mother church it was charged that James A. Neal and other directors of the mother church have interferred with contracts made and possible future contracts for the broadcasting by radio and newspaper accounts of matter concerning the mother church.

The demurrer sets out that the bill contains such irrelevant matter, that it is multifarious, that the plaintiffs do not come to court with clean hands and that no cause is stated justifying injunctive relief.

Japanese Embassy Chancery Purchased to House Organization.

The Republican committee of the District of Columbia has purchased the four-story building at the southwest corner of Sixteenth street and Scott Circle, now the chancery of the Japanese Embassy, for a party headquarters of all Republican organizations in Washington, it was announced yesterday by Samuel J. Prescott, chairman of the committee. It will not be occupied, however, until after next June, as the present lease does not expire until then.

The residence was bought for approximately $130,000 from Harry Wardman and will be held in trust by Cuno H. Rudolph and Joshua Evans, jr., treasurer and secretary, respectively, of the District Republican committee, and Mrs. Virginia White Speel, Republican national committeewoman and member of the local group.

A move is under way to organize a large Republican club, and in this case the building will become a clubhouse as well. Until this plan materializes, however, the following clubs will be invited to meet and maintain offices at the party headquarers: Republican State Voters Association, the League of Republican State Clubs of the District, the League of Republican Women of the District and the Hoover and Curtis Club, besides the State committee of the District.

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

Hand signals mean a great deal in Washington, but they do not mean everything.

One instance in which the driver depends too much on signalling is when making a left turn into an alley or driveway. The law relating to turning traffic surrendering the right of way to that which is going through governs this maneuver also.

Example: A motorist is driving southward on Sixteenth street. He desires to turn left into, say, the Racquet Club driveway. He pulls over to the center of the street and sticks out his arm. Before completing the turn, however, he must wait until northbound traffic has cleared.

TORTURE MURDER CASE IS TANGLED

way to be married the night of last March 9, they were accosted by a band of men who took Franklin, tortured, mutilated and then burned him alive. Her story caused the indictment of five men, Herman Greenway, Bill Younger, Joe White, Hubert Hester and Alex Fulks.

The five men are to go to trial next Monday at Mountain View. Because Tiller Ruminer and father, Charles, would not say positively yesterday when the youth was brought before them that he was Franklin, the State and defense have agreed to let the case go to the jury to identify him. The young man was found on a farm at Humphrey Saturday morning, and when questioned, said he was the youth supposed to have been murdered. Three of the men accused of the alleged act have identified him as Franklin.

Williamson said he would demand action of the grand jury, which meets also next Monday, if the youth is positively identified as Franklin, to learn what is behind the charges against the five men.

Three Washingtonians Are Schaeffer Heirs

New York, Dec. 9.—Mary Harold, of 1221 Massachusetts avenue, Washington, received one-third of the residue of the estate of her late nephew, Harold C. Schaeffer, according to his will which was filed for probate in Surrogate's Court here today.

Rose M. Schaeffer, a cousin, of 3412 Prospect street, Washington, receives a similar amount, and Hilda V. Schaeffer, also of the Prospect street address, gets personal property of unknown value. Mr. Schaeffer died November 24, leaving an estate of over $10,000, according to the petition.

ITALY'S TWO ADMIRALS.

Despite the Anglo-American suggestion that no naval experts be named as delegates to the London naval conference, Italy's delegation will be made up of two ranking diplomats and two ranking naval experts—Admiral Sirianni, minister of the Italian navy, and Admiral Ferdinando Acton, who was chief naval adviser to the Italian delegation at the Washington conference.

Premier Mussolini has chosen to follow the example of Japan, which has named Admiral Takarabe, outstanding naval expert, as one of its delegates. It is presumed that Premier Tardieu of France will not permit Italy to steal a march on him, and it would cause no great surprise if France were to name two, or even three, naval experts on her delegation. Obviously, the first Anglo-American effort to guide other nations in choosing their delegates has not been welcomed or followed. Italy, as well as Japan, seems determined to pursue the old-fashioned belief that naval problems should be dealt with by experts rather than by diplomats who are personally ignorant of matters pertaining to the navy.

The Ramsay MacDonald idea, rechoed by Secretary Stimson, favored delegations composed of "statesmen," to the exclusion of naval experts. It was said in this connection that the Geneva naval conference of two years ago went on the rocks because the delegates were naval experts and not statesmen. Presumably the chance of a political agreement at London will be increased in direct proportion to the amount of ignorance displayed by the delegates on naval problems, according to the MacDonald formula.

The significant feature of Italy's refusal to be guided by joint Anglo-American suggestions will not pass unnoticed. Such acute observers as Frank H. Simonds are convinced that France and Italy will leave no stone unturned to prevent an agreement at London. It is suggested that both governments are suspicious of any joint Anglo-American policy, as bearing upon the defense plans of other nations.

The new edition of "Jane's Fighting Ships," just published, shows that this authoritative British naval annual gives Japan, Italy and France chief credit for leading the way in new, effective modern naval construction. Japan with her new formidable 10,000-ton cruisers of the "Nachi" class, Italy and France with new cruisers and submarines, and Germany with her "amazing Ersatz Preussen cruiser" are said to be setting the pace.

ALIENS OVER THE BORDER.

Regulation of immigration from neighboring countries on this continent is one of the most difficult questions with which Congress is confronted. Agitation is being renewed for quota regulations against all countries which are now allowed to send immigrants to America without restriction. But legislation for that purpose is vigorously resisted, on the ground that it would be an unfriendly act toward Canada and Mexico.

Only 158,598 immigrants from Europe were allowed to settle in America last year. But the immigration of 116,117 persons from Canada and Latin America, which are not subject to quota limitations, brought the total to 279,678. Most of the immigrants from the American countries came from Canada and Mexico. Migration over the Canadian line decreased last year and more strict visa requirements on the Mexican border cut down the influx of workers by 62 per cent in recent months. There is no ground for belief, however, that immigration from these two adjacent countries will be effectively checked unless some definite regulations are made by Congress. Foreigners from other countries use Mexico and Canada as springboards to boost themselves into the United States.

Secretary of Labor Davis makes a sensible approach to the subject in his annual report. The United States does not need additional population, he says, while the other American nations do. "Some of them," he adds, "are actively engaged in promoting immigration to their undeveloped lands, and under such circumstances it is hardly a neighborly act for the United States to continue a system of immigration control which, to some extent, already does and inevitably will continue to induce their native-born people to come to this country." Canada is struggling against a problem of shrinking population. Mexico needs all its people for development of its own resources. Movement of people from one American country to another should not be restricted on the same basis as is immigration from Europe or Asia, but it would no doubt be to the interests of all countries concerned if the flow of population into the United States from adjacent countries were held in check.

Secretary Davis' report suggests that the problem might be solved through cooperation with the countries involved. If immigration is detrimental to their interests as well as to those of the United States, it should not be difficult to arrive at an agreement which would solve both problems on a fair and friendly basis.

MISSING EVIDENCE.

The District grand jury finds it impracticable to consider further the allegation that the Volstead act was violated at a dinner given by a Wall street sinner to United States senators and other guests three years ago. The dreadful news was imparted to the public by Senator Brookhart, but not until after an "extraordinary lapse of time," according to the grand jury. There is a lack of evidence upon which to bring an indictment.

There should be some evidence upon which to prosecute any one for crime. Sometimes it is difficult to prove that the prohibition law has been violated, because somebody drinks up the corpus delecti. The other day a case collapsed because a juror drank the evidence. It seems to be wellnigh impossible for the guardians of the law to prevent the disappearance of evidence, doubtless because of the volatility of alcohol.

Senator Brookhart told the world that his sense of sight and smell, combined with some knowledge of chemistry, convinced him that a fellow guest at the notorious dinner actually drank whisky. Presumably he told the same story to the grand jury. The guest in question was called from New York to testify before the grand jury. What he said is kept secret. He may have testified that what he drank was cold tea, ginger ale, blackberry cordial, or cherry pectoral. Whatever it was, it went the way of all the earth and was beyond identification by the grand jury. A conviction in this case would have depended, therefore, upon the acceptance by a jury of Senator Brookhart's eyes and nose as infallible whiskatorial detectives. Although the eyes and nose are supposed to settle every controversy, the jury might have concluded that Senator Brookhart's failure to "taste and see" rendered his identification of John Barleycorn vague and doubtful. In that event John would have been entitled to the benefit of the doubt.

The law is the law, even when those who are caught in its toils denounce it as a wild ass.

CHIEF JUSTICE McCOY.

By electing to resign upon reaching retirement age, Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy of the District Supreme Court definitely ended his judicial career. Retired justices may be recalled for temporary duty in periods of emergency or court congestion. Resigned justices may not. Chief Justice McCoy, therefore, retired completely to private life when President Hoover accepted his resignation yesterday.

Since 1914 Justice McCoy has served with distinction on the bench of the District Supreme Court. Nominated from the halls of Congress to an associate justiceship by President Wilson, four years later he was elevated to the office of chief justice. He is the fifth person to have held that office.

Chief Justice McCoy tempered justice with mercy. He dealt sternly and relentlessly with habitual criminals, but first offenders and those who patently were not criminally inclined found in him a friend, ready to extend probation or impose a minimum sentence. He labored indefatigably as a naturalization officer, devoting much of his spare time to the Americanization School. An exponent of judicial reform, he was largely instrumental in revising procedure before the District Supreme Court in the interest of speeding up justice. The vacancy created by his resignation will not easily be filled.

UNIFORM TRAFFIC RULES.

A conference has been called by Secretary of Commerce Lamont to meet in Washington this month to study the effects of uniform traffic regulations. The uniformity movement has spread rapidly since the so-called Hoover code was adopted, and it is appropriate that its effects and possibilities should be carefully studied. Considerable improvement has, no doubt, been made, but it is also plainly evident that uniformity has its limitations.

The volume of traffic and conditions that govern it differ widely in some parts of the country. Some regulations have been found applicable to traffic everywhere, but other provisions fostered in the name of uniformity are not practical in every community and can not be made so. Most of the large cities have narrow, congested streets which require regulations quite different from those governing wide boulevards and avenues. Some have irregular streets while others are laid out in square blocks. In some cities traffic is evenly regulated and in others it comes in waves. When all possible has been done to unify traffic rules throughout the country local problems will still have to be treated differently.

The ostensible purpose of the uniform movement is to develop a single set of rules that will apply to the whole country. Every uniform code is essentially a compromise which includes some excellent and some less satisfactory provisions. Uniformity carried to the extreme would mean that every community would have to give up some of the practices which have been found most satisfactory. Nor would any community be able to make any progress in its traffic regulations until the whole nation was ready to make the same improvement.

It is not to be supposed that the coming conference will foster uniformity of that static type. The success of the conference will lie in its ability to establish uniform rules governing conditions which are similar the country over, and to leave the way open for experimentation and change wherever improvement can be made. Uniformity would then become an ideal always to be desired, but never completely attained.

FEDERAL RETIREMENTS.

The advisability of making retirement from the Government service more flexible is apparent from the annual report of the Civil Service Commission. At present retirement ages range from 62 years for railway mail clerks to 70 years for departmental clerks. The law provides that "no employes shall be continued in the civil service of the United States beyond the age of retirement for more than four years." Unless some modification is made at the current session of Congress a number of capable employes will be forced to retire against their will.

The existing compulsory requirements for retirement are too rigid. Age does not disable every one in proportion to his years. Occasionally a department finds that an employe who is forced by law to retire is quite capable of continuing his work and is almost indispensable to the service. In such cases nothing can be gained from the operation of an arbitrary retirement rule. The commission has, therefore, suggested an amendment providing that "in special cases where the head of the department, branch or independent office concerned certifies and the Civil Service Commission agrees that the continuance of the employe would be advantageous to the public service" he may continue in the employ of the Government beyond the four-year limit.

On the other hand, the commission has found the present ages for retirement too high in most cases. Optional retirement for all groups of employes at the age of 60 is suggested. The only argument against this provision seems to be that a large number of employes who were still able to work would use their option to retire at the expense of the Government. But the commission has found that 95 per cent of all Government workers desire to continue at their jobs after reaching the retirement age if they are able to do so. Even with the present high retirement ages, 19,745 employes have been granted certificates which continue them temporarily in the service as compared with 18,910 who have retired on annuities. They can not afford to retire on a reduced income if they are still able to work.

The present retirement ages keep many partially disabled employes in the service at full salaries. More than 20 per cent of all annuitants are retired for total disability before they reach retirement age. For clerks, who can not retire until 70 years of age, the percentage is 30. A system which keeps many partially disabled employes at work, while forcing many others to retire when they are entirely capable of further service, is certainly subject to improvement. It is to be hoped that Congress will find time to consider the commission's advice.

RESTORING CONFIDENCE

Washington Letter by TOM KING,
In the Manitoba Free Press.

Washington, D. C.: With characteristic energy and decision President Hoover has taken charge of the situation created by the recent spectacular slump on Wall street. He disclaims any desire to bolster up the sagging stock market, but is determined to restore public confidence in the Nation's business, to keep the wheels of industry spinning at high speed and to avert anything like a panic or even a period of business depression. In his conferences with the captains of industry, the railway executives, and the labor leaders, he stressed the fact that they were all in the same boat, and if the boat capsized they would all go down with it. He has already obtained pledges not to curtail production, not to throw men out of employment, but to carry on all lines of business as though nothing had happened to disturb them. He has promised that the Federal Government will spend money lavishly on public works, including highway construction, and is calling upon the States and municipalities to proceed along the same lines and more or less in conjunction with the Federal Government. All these things will serve to lessen unemployment and stimulate production.

The one person overlooked in all these plans and conferences is the mere consumer. He in the end will have to buy the products to be fabricated by industry. Many of the producers are also consumers, and their purchasing power is all-important. But there is, also, a large section in the community whose purchasing power is not circumscribed by the incomes they actually earn by their own exertions. They have, by inheritance, by good fortune or hard saving, accumulated some surplus capital. It is all-important that they should have an optimistic outlook, or they will be slow to spend money, on luxuries, at least. Then there is a very considerable number of people who have lost real money on the stock market. It may never be known how many people were actually wiped out. But any one in Washington can tell you of a dozen personal friends who had that experience, and taking the country over their number is legion.

To restore confidence to the millions of people who must be more or less uneasy about the present situation is all sorts of a job. Mr. Hoover shows courage in undertaking the task and in accepting undivided responsibility. Those nearest him say that the scare will all be over by Easter, and that the country will be in the midst of another boom before the congressional elections of 1930. If it turns out that way, as every one hopes it will, the President will acquire a popularity and prestige beyond anything achieved by any of his predecessors. If, on the other hand, a period of business depression is prolonged, Mr. Hoover, no doubt, will be held responsible.

Maybe?

BRAGGING.

Bill Beebe bragged at school one day
That robbers had held up his Uncle Jay.
An' Hal O'Leary said: "Did you see
Where an aviator fell in a tree
And didn't bust nothing except an arm?
Well, that occurred on my uncle's farm."

One of the fellows lived right next door
To the lady who poisoned her paramour,
An' the papers were full of it an' he said
He'd actually looked at a person dead,
But when anything happens I'm not about,
I never have news I can talk about.

The man who was killed in an accident
Used to call on the sister of Tubby Brent;
An' the Jackson sisters, they told us all,
Their mother knew Hoover when she was small,
But I heard my Pa talking last night real low
An' something important at last I know.

There's a fellow who lives on our street, an' he Isn't nearly as rich as he used to be,
An' I know him well, an' I heard Pa say
That he lost a million the other day.
When the market fell, they just wiped him out,
An' I guess that's something to talk about.

To a Barnyard Fowl a Glorious Sunset Means Bedtime.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IN the jungles of southern Asia there are lost and forgotten cities, whose crumbling walls are hidden by tangled and poisonous vines.

Wild creatures hunt one another along dark trails that once were streets; crawling things lie in the sun on fallen columns of marble, and monkeys chatter and play in a deserted temple.

In the temple are inscribed tablets of clay and scrolls of papyrus and parchment collected by learned priests, and these preserve the history and the wisdom of a forgotten civilization.

An archeologist would give ten years of his life for these treasures, but the monkeys befoul them or hurl them as weapons in mimic warfare.

Witless, chattering, innocent creatures, they do not understand. Living among sacred things and treasures of incalculable value, they have no capacity to realize or appreciate their advantages and opportunities. They are blameless.

It would be unjust to expect more of monkeys.

In our own land a great and wise man employs a secretary—an awed and frightened youth who thinks himself unworthy to polish the great one's shoes. "How fortunate I am," the youth says, "to be near him and serve him."

But within a year he discovers that the great man is human, and because he understands the human traits and lacks the capacity to comprehend greatness, familiarity teaches him contempt, and he says to himself: "The boss is a queer old guy. I don't see how he'd get by without me."

Impudence? He is as blameless as the monkeys. What do pearls mean to swine?

There are multitudes of people, like the American girl who played jazz on the master composer's piano, who feel no respect for sublime and sacred things; but they are not guilty of intentional insolence.

They don't realize what they are doing. They are like the monkeys in the temple.

A diamond that experts now value at millions of dollars was once used by a farmer to scotch his wagon wheel and later given to his children as a plaything.

The proper measure of intelligence is the ability to appreciate things of great value.

THE EDISONIAN GOLDENROD.

("Thomas Edison has been conducting experiments which prove rubber may be produced from the goldenrod."—News item.)

Sun illumined goldenrod,
Nodding there in bright attire,
Soon you'll leave the mother sod
And become an auto tire.

Waving in the field and dell,
Golden as the sun above,
If you're not contented, well,
You can be a rubber glove.

Making bright the open field,
Brightening the hill and crag;
Beauty isn't all you yield—
You can be a water bag.

Lovely little flower there,
Swelling autumnal appeal,
Don't be sad and don't despair—
You're a future rubber heel.

Fairest of October flow'rs,
Radiant in thy golden clothes,
You've a future; count the hours
Till you are a fire hose.

Waving in the autumn's breeze,
Making bright the mellow Fall,
By the springtime, if you please,
You can be a tennis ball.

Glittering in summer's wake,
You're a blooming wonder, gosh!
If you're willing you can make Somebody a mackintosh.

Glorious and brilliant one,
Winsome, lovely, even cute—
Thanks to Mr. Edison,
You can be a rubber boot.

THE FIGHT FAN'S PLAINT.

Out of every dollar you pay to Uncle Sam in taxes, 72 cents goes to pay for past wars and preparedness. It's the same old story of exorbitant charges for all outdoor fights.

The "Jersey Kid," just arrested as a one-man crime wave, has his body covered with tattooed figures and inscriptions. Probably some reformer will be quick to reiterate the charge that pictures are to blame for much of the present-day lawlessness.

If Thomas Edison succeeds in making rubber from goldenrods, what Elmer Twitchell wants to know is whether he can catch hay fever passing the stores.

NO CLASS PARTIES.

American labor has wisely declined to make itself a political party or to array itself under the standard of the Socialists, says the Houston Post-Dispatch. The latter seem to realize, even in their new-found enthusiasm, that they can not command the support of the mass of the workers, and so are inviting progressives and independents of all kinds to join them. Similar attempts have been made in the past and have come to nothing.

This country certainly doesn't need a class party. Suspicion that it has one now has been encouraged by revelations in the senatorial inquiry into lobbying. If it continues to spread, we probably will see the downfall of the party in question before very long. For the kind of political party in which Americans believe is one dedicated to the service of all the people.

THE BRITISH ARMY.

The British army today, we have no doubt, observes the Chicago Tribune, is the most effective military force of its numbers in the world and is probably a match for any existing army, regardless of size. The new tanks and trucks in which men and war machines are moved give a vastly greater mobility and striking power than have ever before been imagined possible. The infantry is no longer the queen of battles in British doctrine; the man in the machine is to dominate the battlefields of the future as the armored knight on horseback dominated for centuries because of his speed of movement and relative invulnerability.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

European Diplomats Trying to Lure Uncle Sam Into a Trap by Holding Out the Vision of "Moral Leadership of the World."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial on "The So-Called World Court" is what I would call a drum-beat of patriotic sentiment and illuminating common sense.

Stirred by its appeal to the spirit of Jeffersonian Americanism, it brings to my mind a historic episode of a few years ago.

Woodrow Wilson, with an inspiring but misguided confidence like that of some of this year's statesmen was in direct personal contact in Europe with the same suave diplomacy with which we are familiar at the present time. Cheek by jowl with the pseudo-Quakers of Europe, he conferred to harvest the fruits of the "war to end war" in peace on earth and good will to men. But even while the pourparlers were in progress the secret protocols and treaties were made which shattered his dream and broke his heart.

Thoughtful Americans remember with disgust the painful disillusionment of that time. The similar situation which confronts us today is far more serious. The same foreign influences that shattered the Wilsonian dream are now working for a stranglehold on Uncle Sam himself. Their sinister and, it is to be hoped, mistaken idea seems to be that, as in the case of Wilson, they can fool Uncle Sam with the beatific lure of the "moral leadership of the world."

Firemen and Police Should Have Better Pay.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I was glad to learn from The Post that the Federation of Citizens Associations has come to the defense of our police force. For quite a while people have been entirely too busy proving the truth of the poetry that "taking one thing with another, a policeman's lot is not a happy one." The policemen and firemen, our safety citizens, are my pet civic institutions, and I hope from this time on there will be a let up in making trouble for them.

What the firemen and police should have is better pay.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:

The starlings that at nightfall roost
Upon the roofs and trees

A roost like this to choose;
For with the day's awakening wink
They get the latest news.

WILL SUMMERSMITH.

STIMULATING RADIOS.

Cows enjoy radio. This is the opinion reached by officials of a great Michigan creamery. It is not based upon any expressions of approval from the cows, says the Christian Science Monitor, but upon the increase in milk production which has taken place during periods in which radio programs were presented.

Something like 900 cows at one dairy plant are said to be enjoying daily radio programs which were first established for the benefit of the men. Contrary to what might be expected, the cows "like soft, slow music best." The milk cans evidently fill faster and fuller to the strains of something like the "Merry Widow Waltz" than to the more stirring music of "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

Perhaps a little further experimentation might establish a graded system by which milking would be started to the slow, methodical beating of tom-toms and pass through such successive faster stages as would be induced by perhaps the "Blue Danube," "Merrily We Roll Along," "La Paloma," "Stars and Stripes Forever," "Turkey in the Straw," and "Piccolo Pete," or "Dizzy Fingers." Such selected programs might ultimately result in materially increasing milk production and at the same time entertain the cows.

But why stop in the cow barn? Why not take music into the hen yard? Laying eggs to music may become as interesting to the hens as giving milk to the strains of a dreamy waltz is to the cows. Find out what kind of music the hens like best and then give it to them. Why not try "I Faw Down and Go Boom?" If that didn't work, "The Lay of the Last Minstrel" or some other sentimental ballad might appeal to them.

RETURN OF THE MUFF.

The muff, observes the St. Paul Pioneer Press, is coming back. A New York woman has appeared on the streets of Winnipeg, Manitoba, wearing one. Replying to cautious inquiry by a reporter she advised him that muffs are decreed by fashion for the coming winter.

That may mean little or nothing to the newer generation which regards muffs as relics of the time when women fainted and wore stays. But to the grey-haired man who remembers slipping his hand into his mother's muff for a momentary bit of warmth or comfort, it will be like meeting an old friend. The muffs of those days were generous affairs and constituted a sort of furry mine for coins and bits of candy by those who had staked a claim. No picture of a skating girl was complete without the muff pressed against her face to ward off the wintry breeze. As an aid to better understanding and promoter of the art of holding hands, the muff was in winter what the parasol was in summer and something better.

Up until the time of the Restoration in the seventeenth century, men wore muffs but women put them to so much better use than mere protection for the hands that men gave them up and pretended to scorn them as effeminate. Modern woman may decline to return to long skirts and a corseted waistline, but it is at least not inconceivable that she will restore the muff to favor. The modern muff is small, not much larger than a double mitten, but the size is really immaterial.

MORROW TO MEET RUBIO IN NEW YORK

Mexican Debt Discussion Believed Object of Their Conference.

AGRARIAN PLAN UPHELD

New York, Dec. 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, returned to his home in Englewood, N. J., today. The arrival tomorrow of Pascual Ortiz Rubio, president-elect of Mexico by train from the West, and of former President P. Elias Calles, by the Bremen from Europe, will convert New York City into the temporary unofficial capital of the Mexican republic.

Morrow will confer with them before going to Washington later in the week. It is naturally inferred that the long-standing question of Mexican debts, toward the solution of which great progress had been made when the Mexican revolt occurred last spring, will be discussed.

Thomas W. Lamont, chairman of the International Committee of Bankers, is in the South, but presumably could get to Washington if he were needed.

Silent On All Subjects.

The ambassador preserved strict silence concerning this and all other subjects pertaining to his return. It was learned, however, that when he agreed to run for United States Senator next year, he understood that he would probably have to go through a primary contest with former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen.

He will go to Trenton tomorrow to confer with Gov. Morgan F. Larson and other influential Republicans of that wing of the party. They are ready to begin organizing his primary campaign at once.

The third of the principal subjects on Morrow's schedule—the London naval conference, in January, to which he has been appointed a delegate—will engage his attention at the end of the week when he goes to Washington.

Rubio Arrives Today.

Except for a few days at Christmas, he will probably be in Washington most of the time from now until he sails for England, about January 10. Whether the conference will be finished in time for him to make another trip to Mexico before the promaries in June is uncertain, but it was confirmed today on his behalf that he would return to his ambassadorial post before accepting the appointment to the United States Senate, which awaits him.

President-elect Rubio will arrive at Pennsylvania station at 9:45 o'clock tomorrow morning, and will be met by Police Commissioner Whalen.

Bespeaks Friendship of U. S.

St. Louis, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The President-elect of Mexico, Pascual Ortiz Rubio, said here today that the "mailed fist" has disappeared from Mexico. The president-elect said this in an interview during a half-hour stop on his trip to New York, where he will meet former President Calles of Mexico, who has been in France for his health.

"It is a mistake to suppose there has been ill feeling between the people of Mexico and those of the United States," the president-elect said. "No such feeling has ever existed generally. True, there has been a clash of economic interests which has engendered misunderstanding between certain groups, but the great majority of my people always have desired friendly relationships with their neighbors in the United States.

Stands by Agrarian Policy.

Mexico City, Dec. 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Pascual Ortiz Rubio, president-elect of Mexico, cabled to Mexico City from Hot Springs, Ark., today a denial of statements that he is planning to change the agrarian policy of the Portes Gil administration.

His message confirmed statements set forth specifically in an interview here November 28 in which he stated that he would continue the policies of Calles and Obregon.

The United States embassy in Mexico City had been under the impression that he intended to change those policies. President-Elect Ortiz Rubio's cablegram correcting this impression was addressed to Gen. Arturo Campillo Seyde, of the Mexican Senate.

It read:

"Please deny the report being spread abroad that I propose to change my mode of thought on the agrarian question. My policy will be put in effect and will be the policy pursued by Obregon, Calles and Portes Gil. It is the policy which responds to the aims of the revolution."

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THAT was not a wholly unjustified complaint that Senator Howell made to his Nebraska homefolks several days ago. He told them that after President Hoover had called him to produce his facts about prohibition violations in the District that he did so, but that they got no publicity in the newspapers. This being the case, he was left in a hole, so to speak.

Now the senator is right. His facts didn't get any play and it did seem that he had backed down. But it was, in a way, the senator's own fault. Certainly no blame attached to the newspapermen.

We readily remember the day the senator arose in the Senate in his slow and pedagogic way and proceeded to relate his facts. And facts he had. But after he had proceeded about five minutes, Senator Brookhart interrupted and sprang the now celebrated Walter Fahey dinner.

Bang! No more thought was given to Howell's cold, unexciting recitation. Brookhart had in a few words grabbed the headlines.

* * * *

IT would seem that any man who has been around Washington any length of time would take lessons from the headline hunters. The town is filled to overflowing with them. In some cases it is a natural gift, in others it is something acquired after long years.

At any rate it is the greatest game in Washington. It is played by the biggest of men, and the women are rapidly getting onto it. It is not confined, either, to public men. Reformers, business men, industrialists play it when they come here, and some of them come all the way here simply for the purpose of playing it.

Presidents are not immune.

* * * *

ONE recalls very well the day that former President Coolidge came here to attend the signing of the Kellogg peace pact ceremony. The word went around that he would meet his old friends of the press in the afternoon at 4 o'clock. No one knew, of course, what he had to say but around the White House there raced the vision that he might say something that would relegate Mr. Hoover's peace ceremony to the inside pages. A pretty come-off that would be. The ceremony had occurred about noon. It would not have taken much for the morning newspapers to give Mr. Coolidge the play.

There is no one who knows better what to do in just such contingencies as this than Mr. George Akerson, of the White House secretariat. It is to be presumed that he busied himself.

At any rate, the newspaper boys were told to come back to the White House after they had seen Mr. Coolidge. And when they went back they were handed a statement in which Mr. Hoover said that to show he was just as good a sport as Premier MacDonald and in the interest of the Kellogg pact and so forth, he would hold up the construction of three cruisers.

* * * *

MR. COOLIDGE'S interview could not compete with that. He went into the inside and Mr. Hoover stayed out. It was only a few days ago that the newspaper boys learned that in so far as the Navy Department is concerned the plans for the three cruisers are going along as if there had never been any statement. It would be impossible to lay down the keels before next year anyway, it was pointed out. The plans, well, they are being steadily worked out.

It did look as though Henry Ford was going to take the play from the President the other day when he came down to attend the prosperity conference. He issued a statement saying he was increasing wages and making no reference to the men he was cutting off.

As late as 5 o'clock that afternoon it looked as though the canny Henry would have the newspaper play. He is one of the best Headline Hunters in the game.

But Mr. Hoover is not so bad. Between five and six o'clock he announced that he had worked out a truce between labor and industry for the duration of the emergency. Bing! Bang! Inside went Henry and out again came Hoover.

It is all in knowing how.

NATIONALISM IS HIT BY POPE IN SPEECH

Catholic Missions Warned to Avoid Issue, Described as "Real Evil."

CHURCH COURSE LAUDED

Vatican City, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Pope Pius made two vigorous and important speeches on Catholic affairs yesterday which were published today.

Addressing Catholic mission representatives, the pontiff declared that they must strictly avoid nationalistic propaganda because "nationalism is a real evil and it is not exaggerating to call it a malediction in the mission field.

He said that this should be well remembered by everyone from the humblest priest to the pontiff himself. If, in the beginning, it seemed that nationalism gave certain advantages, in the long run it would be found to be ineffective.

Warning to Clerics.

"Those who work for God should never mix in secular affairs," he declared, quoting the authority of the gospel to show that no man could serve two masters.

Finally the Pope recommended to the mission representatives Christ's last prayer on the cross as an example and exhorted them to maintain unity of heart, thought and action, wherein the force and secret of victory lay.

During the ceremony of reading approval of the beatification of 136 English martyrs, Pope Pius affirmed that Protestantism was "getting more and more exhausted" and had reached a point where "its own very sterility is inspiring many souls with a nostalgia for Catholicism."

Calls Returns Gratifying.

He rejoiced that "returns to Catholicism were being multiplied ever more frequently."

"Behold Catholicism, which shines in the clear light, while Protestantism goes from denial to denial, rendering ever more intense in many souls that follow the invitation of truth a homesickness for returning to catholicism," he said.

"It has sometimes seemed as though the ship of the Church were in danger, but instead it has passed triumphantly on in the real course of culture."

Grant Descendant Bears Twins.

London, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Mrs. J. C. Hanbury Williams, formerly the Princess Zenaida Cantacuzene, great granddaughter of Gen. Grant, gave birth to twin daughters in London Friday.

WHO'ZAT?

("WHOZIT?" is a test of your knowledge of history and current events. The statements below describe a character whom you should be able to identify. Match your knowledge and memory against those of your friends.)

1. He was a native of England and the son of a distinguished British naval officer.

2. His adoption of a system of conduct including extreme pacifist views estranged him from his father.

3. After his father's death he found that the King of England was indebted for a large sum to the father, and the son accepted a large tract of land in America in payment of the debt.

4. On this land he established a colony which is now an important industrial State.

Radio Listener Awake 106 Hours Wins Contest

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—A "radio listeners' endurance contest" was won here today by Mrs. Mildred Daniel, 22-year-old mother of two dependent children, who was declared the winner after she had gone for 106 hours without sleep. The runner-up, S. W. Van Norman, fell asleep this morning shortly after 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Daniel, who entered the contest to obtain money for a serious operation, was delirious soon after she returned home. A physician said her condition was not serious, but that she would have to go to a hospital for a few days' rest. The contest was staged in a downtown window with a $200 radio as the prize. More than 60 contestants entered.

Radio Speeds Man To Dying Mother

Baltimore Resident Learns of Her Illness During Broadcast.

Baltimore, Dec. 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—When Wallace Billups heard over the radio last night in this city that his mother was dying at Norfolk, Va., and wanted to see him before death came, he left at midnight for home.

Billups recently came here to take a new job. His relative communicated with his sister-in-law, Mrs. P. K. Fangmeyer, who appealed to police to find her brother-in-law. The police, realizing that there was not much time to find him, asked a radio station to help.

The message was broadcast at 11 o'clock. The station's announcer made it between programs of music. An hour later Billups was on the train.

Five Killed, Two Hurt by Blast.

Oviedo, Spain, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Five women employes of a powder factory were killed in an explosion today, and two others injured. The cause of the explosion is not known.

Five-Month-Old Baby Comes Alone From Chile

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Unaccompanied by relatives, Barbara Stone, 5 months old, arrived here today on the Grace liner Santa Barba from Chile to make her home in the United States with an aunt, Mrs. P. R. Doyle, of Brooklyn.

Barbara was placed in care of Dr. O. Eastland, ship's surgeon, at Antofagasta by her father, J. C. Stone. The baby's mother, the former Miss Anna M. Foy, of Minneapolis, died at her birth. The child gained 8 pounds during the voyage and was a pet of all the ship's passengers. Her aunt met her at the pier.

Two Children Perish In Burning Farm House

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Two children, Leonard Huhtala, 17, and his sister Elsie, 15, were burned to death and another girl, Helen, broke both legs in a leap from a second story of a farm building which was destroyed by fire at Brimley, near here, this morning.

Others of a family of thirteen escaped in night clothing. The fire started from an overheated stove.

Attorneys Named Realty Trustees

Chevy Chase Gardens Plan to Be Conducted by New Managers.

Creditors of Chevy Chase Gardens, Maryland residential development between Chevy Chase and Kenwood, west of Wisconsin avenue, at a meeting yesterday, named James A. Purcell and Frederick B. Warder, attorneys, as trustees to take over the management from Judge Henry J. Hunt 3d; and conduct operations for them and Judge Hunt.

The financial difficulties of the project were described as due to frozen assets and not serious, it being explained there is no need for bankruptcy proceedings. Liabilities were announced at between $30,000 and $35,000 and the assets, represented by completed and uncompleted houses, balances on contracts, are approximately $50,000 and ample to protect all creditors, it was said.

The development was started about two years ago. Creditors were represented by Purcell and Judge Hunt, by Warder.

tions, according to reports coming to the attention of the physicians, was to collect the money due from the patient with interest, pay the physician 75 per cent of the bill and pocket the balance. This "fee" for the finance corporation would amount to about 30 per cent with interest added, it was pointed out.

In disapproving these tactics of bill collecting, the medical society expressed themselves as content to leave the business of collecting tardy bills to the Physicians Credit Bureau. Members of the society also revealed themselves as more anxious to advance the work of reducing medical costs than to try to devise schemes of extracting payment of belated bills.

A thorough study is now underway, under the sponsorship of the medical society, for the creation of some means to reduce medical fees to the advantage of the family of moderate means. The plan most favored, and the one on which study is now being concentrated, is the establishment of a clinic in some central location of the city, the staff to consist of the city's foremost specialists to be assigned by the medical society.

For a moderate compensation, these men would serve and complete diagnoses of the condition of patients referred to the clinic by family physicians. The work would be done at cost, the idea being to apply the principle of mass production to diagnosis.

A deep study is now being made of this plan both by prominent physicians and Government representatives, and final recommendations are expected by the summer of 1930.

ministration officials to consolidate some of the smaller schools, the superintendent pointed out. These busses, he said, if acquired will bring about another reduction in the number of portables.

The question of providing better buildings for vocational schools, particularly the Abbott unit, was raised by George A. Warren, of the Mid-City Citizens Association, but the board and the superintendent assured the questioner that, pending immediate action, the best equipment available was being given the vocational pupils. Dr. Ballou said that pupils were gradually being transferred from Abbott to Columbia Junior High.

Among other appeals made to the board was a request for a new sixteen-room school at Brookland, a lunchroom in the new Congress Heights School addition, and a consolidation of Brookland, Langdon and Burroughs into a new junior high school. As the matters could not be included in the present budget they were deferred until the April hearing.

In his review of budget changes Dr. Ballou made it clear that most of the alterations were made upon recommendation of the education board in view of changed conditions between the time the budget was formed and the time it reached the Bureau of the Budget.

Victorian Era Is Reproduced By Bachelors

Cotillion Features Old Customs and Dress Revival.

By JEAN ELIOT.

FASHIONS of the Victorian era, so charmingly revived with variations for today, were very much in the picture at the Bachelors' Cotillion, held at the Mayflower last night, as this reincarnation of the famous "Bachelors" of a generation ago specialized in the graceful ceremony of a bygone day.

The chaperone, who came into her own after a period of incocuous desuetude last season when the new Bachelors was organized after the model of the old, was happily personified last evening in a group of distinguished women. The ladies in the receiving line curtsied to the arriving guests instead of shaking hands in the more modern manner. And the "bachelors"—many of them benedicts long since—who, as members of the governing board of the organization, were hosts, had paid their tribute to a convention more honored in the breach than in the observance by eschewing the now popular dinner coat for swallow-tails and by donning white gloves. Each wore a red or white carnation in his buttonhole and officers of the cotillion had gardenias to distinguish them.

Brig. Gen. William E. Horton, president of the Bachelors, presented the guests to the ladies in the receiving line, who were Mme. Prochnik, Mrs. Lawrence C. Phipps, Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, Mrs. Seymour Lowman and Mrs. Robert E. Lee. They stood in the Chinese room, its deep blue walls a becoming background for the rainbow hues of their gowns. Once formal greetings were over, the company assembled in the ballroom to dance. Here palms and ferns were used as decorations, with the flags of many nations contributing a colorful note. The ball opened with the "german," a half forgotten form of diversion until the Bachelors revived it last season, and, after the seated supper at midnight, there was general dancing.

Mr William Bowie Clarke was detailed as official escort to the chaperons, who held court through the evening in a box reserved for them. In this group were Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, Mrs. Thomas W. Phillips, jr., Mrs. Thomas Sim Lee, Mrs. Robert Hinckley, Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, Mrs. Sydney Cloman, Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Mrs. Everard Robinson Todd, Mrs. Karl Klemm, Mrs. George H. Calvert, jr., Mrs. William Laird Dunlop, jr., Mrs. Percy Hamilton Davis and Mrs. Francis Whitten.

A score of years ago, a debutante waited with palpitating interest for the "first Bachelors," which might make or break her according to whether or not she danced in the cotillion. In a society grown so large and so comprehensive as Washington's no single organization can now have such power. But the debutantes of today had responded enthusiastically to the invitation of the Bachelors of today and 50 strong or more, were present to lend beauty to the involved and colorful figures.

The cotillion was directed, with military precision, by Gen. Horton, assisted by Maj. Reginald Foster, and was lead by Mr. Walter Davidge, dancing with Miss Loranda Prochnik. Favors for one figure for the ladies were brass cigarette boxes, inlaid with green jade, with match boxes to correspond for the men; and for another, the women drew brightly tinted para-

Presented at Tea Yesterday

MISS JANE M'HARG, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry McHarg, of New York, for whom Mrs. Austin Kautz gave a reception yesterday.

Tea Arranged By Mrs. Kautz For Relative

Miss McHarg Presented at Function by Her Cousin.

Mrs. Austin Kautz, who has recently returned to Washington after a prolonged absence and has reopened her house at 1805 Nineteenth street, entertained at tea there yesterday to present to society her cousin, Miss Jane McHarg, who is spending the winter with her and is combining the business of studying law with the pleasure of being a debutante. Miss McHarg is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. McHarg, of New York. Her mother, who had come to Washington for the fete, received with Mrs. Kautz and Miss McHarg. The debutante wore a gown of rose-tinted fishnet on princess line. It was made with the prevailing long circular skirt and had engaging little puff sleeves of net.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. John Nields, of Wilmington; Mrs. Reginald Huidekoper, Mrs. Robert Locke, Mrs. Casanave Lee, Mrs. Barron DuBois, Mrs. Hewitt Wells, Mrs. Douglas McDougall, Mrs. Lewis Stewart, Miss Margaret Browne and Miss Alice Graeme.

With the debutante were Miss Elsie Ekengren, Miss Margaretta Wright, Miss Elvira Johnson, Miss Janet Ball, Miss Mary Ingraham Henry, Miss Susan Kintner and Miss Mary Cowles, of Boston, who is visiting Mrs. Kautz.

Miss McHarg spent the week-end in Annapolis.

Mrs. Kautz's niece, Miss Etheldreda Seabury, who was a debutante in Washington a few seasons ago, will entertain at tea at her home in New York tomorrow in compliment to Miss Anita Grew and Miss Elsie Grew, daughters of the United States Ambassador to Turkey and Mrs. Joseph C. Grew.

Mrs. John D. Sherman, of Denver, Colo., retiring president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, has returned to Washington from a trip through New England in connection with her work as chairman of the American home department committee of the federation, which is now featuring religious education in the home. Mrs. Sherman is staying at the Mayflower.

Mr. Stokowski Feted At Chilean Embassy.

The Ambassador of Chile and Senora de Davila will entertain at dinner this evening for Mr. Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, which is giving a concert here in the afternoon.

The Minister of Hungary and Countess Szechenyi have sent out invitations for a small dance on New Year's Eve at the legation in Massachusetts avenue.

The ladies of the Senate will come together today for luncheon at the Capitol, their first meeting since the new Congress convened.

Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson are at their residence in Massachusetts avenue for a brief stay, having come from Weld, their estate at Brookline, Mass.

Nippon Envoy To Fete Group Of Delegates

Other Events Slated for December 18 When Mourning Ends.

The Ambassador of Japan and Mme. Debuchi have sent out invitations for a reception at the Mayflower on Wednesday afternoon, December 18, at 4 o'clock in honor of the Japanese delegates to the London arms conference, who will arrive in Washington December 16 en route to England. The Secretary of State, Mr. Henry L. Stimson, will entertain at luncheon for the distinguished visitors on Thursday, December 19, and another festivity arranged for them is a luncheon on Tuesday, December 17, at which Mr. Charles MacVeagh, United States Ambassador to Japan, is to be host. Mr. MacVeagh will entertain informally for a small group at his residence, 1800 New Hampshire avenue.

December 18, the first day following the close of the period of official mourning for the late Secretary of War, Mr. James W. Good, bids fair to be one of the most strenuous of the season. Not only is it the day chosen for the President and Mrs. Hoover's dinner in honor of the Japanese arms conference delegation and for the Japanese Ambassador and Mme. Debuchi's reception, but the ladies of the Cabinet group will be formally at home that afternoon for the first time since the beginning of this administration.

Moreover, the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams have chosen that evening for their dinner in honor of the chiefs of bureaus of the Navy Department and their wives, postponed from November 18 because of mourning for Secretary Good; and the first of the popular series of Army dances at the Willard, also postponed because of official mourning, will be held that night.

Several of the naval officers who will be attached to the American delegation to the arms conference as technical advisers will be among Secretary and Mrs. Adams' guests at dinner by reason of their Navy Department assignments.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter are returning to Washington this morning. They will give a dinner and musicale on Wednesday evening.

Miss Katharine Wilkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wilkins, will give a dinner on Saturday, December 21, for two of the debutantes, Miss Cynthia Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight F. Davis, and Miss Dora White, daughter of Mrs. Richard S. Aldrich.

sols and the men staves tied with gay ribbons.

Among those who occupied boxes, with guests grouped about them last evening, were the Ambassador of Brazil, Senhor S. Gurgel do Amaral; the Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. van Royen, Senator Arthur Capper, Maj. and Mrs. Ennalls Waggaman, Mrs. Delos Blodgett, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kauffmann, Judge and Mrs. C. C. McChord, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Ridley McLean, Col. and Mrs. Henry Morrow, Maj. and Mrs. James A. Lyon, Mr. and Mrs. William Livingston Crounse, Gen. Horton, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Calvert, jr., Mr. William Jeffries Chewning, jr., Mr. Clarke, Mr. Charles Delmar and Mr. Archibald C. V. Wells, who had done yeoman service, assisted by Mr. Davidge and Mr. Walter Wilcox, in choosing the favors.

The "bachelor—or widower—bloc" of the Senate had representation on the reception committee in Senator Millard Tydings, Senator David I. Walsh and Senator Arthur Capper. Others in this important group were the Minister of the Netherlands, Mr. van Royen; the Minister of China, Dr. C. C. Wu; Senator Lawrence C. Phipps, Rear Admiral Ridley McLean, Mr. George H. Calvert, jr., and such "perennial bachelors" as Maj. Gen. George Owen Squire, Col. Campbell Hodges, Mr. Davidge and Mr. Wells.

Guests from most of the dinner parties given last evening came together at the cotillion, among the hosts being Admiral and Mrs. McLean, Mrs. Andrew Reid, of Baltimore; Col. and Mrs. Henry Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Whitten and Col. and Mrs. Guy V. Henry, who entertained for their debutante daughter, Miss Mary Ingraham Henry. Maj. and Mrs. Ennalls Waggaman also had a young people's party, their guests being asked to meet a charming Scotch girl, the Hon. Sophie Watson, and Miss Betty Way, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Channing Way, of Philadelphia, who are visiting them. At a small dinner given at her home before the fete Miss Mary Ruden entertained Miss Junia Culbertson, Miss Emiscah Davis, Mr. James Leroy Dugall, Mr. James Twohey and Mr. William Jeffries Chewning, jr. They occupied Mr. Chewning's box at the cotillion, where the party was joined by Prince Firouz, of the Persian Legation; Dr. Mikas Bagdonas, of the Lithuanian Legation; Mrs. Robert E. Lee, Mrs. Francis du Pont, Miss Venable, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hamilton Davis, Mr. Louis Jeffries and Mr. Randolph Clement Zell, of Baltimore.

Maj. and Mrs. Albert J. Myer gave a buffet supper in honor of their niece, Baroness Ungern-Sternberg, one of the debutantes of the winter. Their guests, who went with them to the ball were Miss Margaretta Wright, Miss Elsie Alexander, Miss Betty Thorpe, Miss Jean Courtney Hay, Miss Anna Parkhurst, Miss Eleanor Crain, Maj. John J. MacDonnell, Maj. Brazenburg, Mr. L. G. van Hoorn, Mr. Robert Chambers, Mr. Frederick Kimball, Mr. Sheldon Blays, Mr. J. Hale McKillip, Mr. William Stanley and Mr. William Jardine.

Miss Isabel Lamberton, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Paulding Lamberton, was the guest in whose honor her aunt, Mrs. A. S. Musselman, of Washington, entertained at dinner at the Mayflower before the cotillion. This party included Miss Elvira Johnson, Miss Alberta Perley, Miss Mary Parrish Bradley, Miss Clara Bolling, Mr. Jennings Bailey, Mr. Jack Hays, Mr. Lawrence Shinn, Mr. Gordon Minnigerode and Mr. Herndon Phillips.

Mrs. Ernest Le Seure will arrive today from Danville, Ill., to spend the winter with her sister, Miss Helen Cannon. Mrs. Dorsey Richardson, daughter of Mrs. Le Seure and niece of Miss Cannon, is convalescing after an operation for appendicitis and will leave the hospital for Miss Cannan's home in R street within a few days.

Senator David Baird, jr., of New Jersey, who has been appointed to succeed former Senator Walter E. Edge, is a guest at the Mayflower.

Commander and Mrs. Allan Kirk will arrive in town on December 20 from Newport to pass the Christmas holidays with Mrs. Kirk's mother, Mrs. Frederick L. Chapin, at her residence in R street.

Mrs. David Ireland is passing several days in Washington at the Mayflower. Her daughter, Miss Louise Ireland, did not accompany her on this trip, but will visit Washington in the near future.

The Financial Counselor of the Polish Legation, Mr. Alexander Woytkiewicz, has taken an apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel. The Polish Consul at New York, Mr. Jan Lech Byeszewski, has been passing a few days at the same hotel.

British Diplomats Return to Capital.

Sir John Joyce Broderick, commercial counselor of the British Embassy, and Lady Broderick arrived in New York yesterday after passing several months abroad and will come at once to Washington.

Col. L. H. R. Pope-Hennessy, military attache of the embassy, has also returned from a holiday abroad and has taken an apartment at 1603 Connecticut avenue. Dame Una Pope-Hennessy will spend the winter in Switzerland.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Lowe will leave Washington on Saturday for Santa Barbara, Calif., where they will be guests for six weeks of Mr. Lowe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lowe. Tomorrow evening Mr. and Mrs. David St. Pierre Gaillard will give a dinner in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Lowe.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Honored at Tea.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt was honor guest yesterday afternoon at the first of a series of teas announced by the president and board of directors of the Woman's Roosevelt Memorial Association at Roosevelt House, in East Twentieth street, New York. Receiving with Mrs. Roosevelt were her daughter, Mrs. Richard Derby; her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, jr., who arrived in New York yesterday from Porto Rico; Mrs. John Henry Hammond, Mrs. W. C. Demorest and Mrs. Henry A. Alexander.

Mrs. Rutherford Bingham is passing the week at the Plaza, in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander W. Weddell have arrived in Washington from Richmond, coming from their home, the Virginia House, and are staying at the Carlton.

Mrs. Patrick Sullivan, wife of the new Senator from Wyoming, is at the Willard.

David Houstons Plan Fete for Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. David Franklin Houston, who are now living in New York, will give a dinner dance at the Ritz Carlton on December 30 to introduce their daughter, Miss Helen Houston. In the Wilson administration Mr. Houston served first as Secretary of Agriculture and later as Secretary of the Treasury. His daughter, therefore, spent much of her childhood in Washington and has many friends among the girls of debutante age.

Mrs. John B. Thayer will come from Philadelphia on Wednesday to attend Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's morning concert at the Mayflower.

Mr. and Mrs. Juan Mayer have reopened their house in Sixteenth street, after an absence of six months.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ash have returned to their residence in Washington after being absent several weeks. Mrs. Ash visited her mother, Mrs. Edward White Luna, in Los Angeles, Calif., and met Mr. Ash in Dallas, Tex., where he was engaged in work on some law cases, returning with him.

Senor Don Juan B. Chevalier, Secretary of the Legation of Panama, and Senora de Chevalier entertained a party of fourteen at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton in honor of Mr. George C. Peck, commercial attache of the United States Legation to Panama, and Mrs. Peck.

Mrs. Georgette Ross Howard will present the political situation in the Balkans at the last but one of her fall series of current topics at the clubhouse of the American Association of University Women on I street this morning at 11 o'clock. Other current subjects will also receive attention. Beginning January 9 Mrs. Howard will begin a second series of talks.

Dr. and Mrs. James H. Early have returned to their home in Blagden road after a prolonged stay in Atlantic City.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

By MARIE PAULETTE.

YOU will feel quite out of things unless you include at least one frock along Princess lines in your new wardrobe.

Never before has the silhouette been so radically changed as it has been this season and, everywhere in fashionable circles, the modified Princess silhouette has received hearty welcome.

The one I've selected is a real achievement, accentuating the charm and youth of wearer.

It uses red ostrich tweed found only in exclusive frocks, so appropriate for general daytime occasions. The shoudler yoke is carried down into trimming band of Vionnet neckline, and crossed with button-trim. Printed silk jabot is stitched at end of neck band, falling in soft cascade effect to minimize width through bodice. The long fitted sleeves with turn-down flaring cuffs have applied decorative bands of the silk crepe.

Seaming marks higher waistline and curved hipline. The flaring skirt, to be ultra-smart, dips its front hem with point at center.

Style No. 8218 can be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. In the medium size, 3¼ yards of 39-inch material, with ⅝ yard of 27-inch contrasting is sufficient to copy it exactly.

It is stunning in black sheer velvet with jabot and trimming pieces on sleeves of sheer metal cloth in jade green.

Printed sheer velvet in rust brown tones self-trimmed is suitable for afternoon or street.

New Congress Adds to Club Social Events

Mr. Lyon to Speak on His Recent Trip to Far East.

The Congressional Club has resumed its activities now that the new Congress is in session. On Friday afternoon Mr. Gideon C. Lyon will address the club on his recent visit to Japan, China, Korea and Manchuria, illustrating his talk with pictures. Mr. Lyon was chosen by the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace as one of a group of newspaper men to make a tour of the Orient. He spent five months abroad and his experience gave him a valuable background for discussion of the present critical situation in the Far East.

The first hospitality at the Congressional Club was a reception for new members. Mrs. Porter Dale, the president, was assisted in receiving by the club officers, Mrs. C. William Ramseyer, Mrs. Clarence Lea, Mrs. Wallace Dempsey, Mrs. Louis McFadden, Mrs. Tom Connally, Mrs. Daniel Reed, Mrs. Clay Stone Briggs and Mrs. Joe Crail.

Mrs. Fay Cooper (Mabel Cook Cole), wife of the celebrated anthropologist of the Field Museum, will be the speaker at the first of the series of talks at the Old English Coffee House, to be given by the District League of American Pen Women, under the direction of Mrs. William Wolff Smith, chairman. The talk will be held at the league studio in Stonleigh Court on Friday at 4:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Coles is the author of "Savage Gentlemen," a story of the head hunters. Her subject on Friday will be "Savage Gentlemen." She will replace Princess Der Ling, who has asked for a later date.

Mrs. Allen Rushton, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. David Hunt Blair, at the Wardman Park Hotel, has returned to her home in Birmingham, Ala.

Subdebutante Dances Are Arranged.

Numerous dinner parties are being arranged to precede the subdebutante dances to be given in the Italian garden of the Mayflower on the evenings of December 23 and January 2. The dances are under the patronage of Mrs. Beale Bloomer, Mrs. R. Wilmer Bolling, Mrs. William D. Chandler, jr., Mrs. Levi Cooke, Mrs. William H. Holloway, Mrs. John J. Hamilton, Mrs. R. M. Kauffmann, Mrs. Upshur Moorhead, Mrs. Richard G. Park, jr., Mrs. Adam Wyant and Mrs. Arthur MacArthur.

Mrs. Wilson Compton will give a luncheon today for Miss Junia Culbertson, who will share honors with Miss Mary Evelyn Compton, of Princeton, niece of Mrs. Compton.

Dr. Jacobo Fajardo, head of the Public Health Department in Manila, Philippine Islands, is a guest at the Dodge Hotel.

Governors in Capital For Conference.

Gov. George F. Shafer of North Dakota, Gov. John Hammill of Iowa and Gov. Louis L. Emerson of Illinois are guests at the Willard for several days, having come to Washington for the meeting of the board of directors of the Rivers and Harbors Congress, now in session at the hotel.

A dinner for delegates to the annual meeting of the Rivers and Harbors Congress is being given in the small ballroom at the Willard this evening at 8 o'clock.

Gov. Larson to Attend Induction of Mr. Baird.

Gov. Morgan F. Larson, of New Jersey, is at the Carlton for a few days, having come on with a large delegation to be present at the Capitol when the new senator from New Jersey, David Baird, jr., was sworn in to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Senator Walter E. Edge, who has been appointed Ambassador to France.

Congressional Hostess

Underwood & Underwood.

MRS. WILLIAM B. BANKHEAD, wife of Representative Bankhead. They have returned to Washington from Alabama for the season.

Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett and her sister, Mrs. Charles G. Matthews, have returned from a short stay in Florida, and are with the former's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David St. Pierre Gaillard, in their home, The Rocks, overlooking Rock Creek Park.

Mrs. Blodgett and Mrs. Matthews will move this week into their new house at 1515 New Hampshire avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Birgfeld announce the engagement of their daughter, Janet Montgomery, to Mr. Everett Clayton Embrey. No definite date has been set for the wedding, but it will probably take place in the early spring. Mr. Birgfeld is chief clerk of the Treasury Department.

Representative Lewis W. Douglas was the guest of honor and speaker at the weekly forum luncheon of the Woman's National Democratic Club yesterday. His subject was "The Legislative Program Before Congress This Winter."

Some of the others at the luncheon were Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, former Gov. Nellie Tayloe Ross, Princess Ghika, Mrs. Perry Belmont, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Bates Warren, Mrs. George M. Eckels, Miss Ruth Oberly, Mrs. Frank Bright, Mrs. Claude Porter, Mrs. C. C. Dill, Mrs. R. M. Mulcare, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Bonsal, Mrs. Charles S. Hamlin, Mrs. Bertram Chesterman, Mrs. W. E. Myer, Mrs. Alvin Dodd, Mrs. Ogilvie Shumate, Mrs. Otto U. von Schrader, Mrs. Charles Gray Matthews, Mrs. Delos Blodgett, Mrs. Charles Michaelson, Mrs. E. A. Stuart, Mrs. Edward Keating, Miss Caroline Reilly and Mrs. Spencer Gordon.

Mr. Theo J. Morgan will give a short talk on Saturday, at 4:30 o'clock at the club to members of the Art and Archaeological Society by arrangement with Mrs. Mitchell Carroll and the officers of the club.

Miss Birdsall to Make Bow to Society.

Dr. and Mrs. Gregg Custis Birdsall have sent out invitations for a tea dance at the Mayflower on New Year's Day for their daughter, Miss Mary Stuart Birdsall, and some of the debutantes of this year and next. Miss Birdsall will be presented next season.

The PALAIS ROYAL

IT is truly Christmas Time at The Palais Royal. Every department sparkles with new merchandise—pretty silk robes for mother, smoking jackets for dad, dainty scarfs for sister, handsome neckties for brother . . . and then for Junior and little sister—my, what a marvelous assortment of toys. Aeroplanes that actually fly! Boats that actually float! Pianos, saxophones and cornets that actually play. Baby dolls that say "mama!" Teddy bears, donkeys, dogs, cats that actually talk. And how low priced everything is. Never have we shown a more wonderful collection of toys than this year . . . and never do we believe our prices have been lower. Come visit the department tomorrow. And don't forget! Santa Claus is here just waiting to shake hands with you and to show you his live reindeer.

Bridge Game Over WRC In Afternoon

Work Arranges Contest in Which Noted Players Will Contend—Classical Program 3 P. M.—News Brevities 8 A. M.

The fourth bridge by radio game to be broadcast through WRC will be heard at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon and will feature four widely known bridge players. In the South Miss Annie Bianche Shelby, of Portland, Oreg., will be paired with Charles S. Thurston, of Saranac Lake, N. Y., while opposing them will be Ralph J. Leibenderfer, of New York, in the West, with Mrs. Murray A. Campbell, of Des Moines, Iowa, as his partner.

The games are prepared under the personal supervision of Milton C. Work, international authority and teacher of bridge.

Tomorrow morning a summary of the game will appear exclusively in The Washington Post. It is suggested that the readers clip these summaries and thus keep a permanent record of the hands as broadcast. These can not be secured other than through The Post.

Following are the advance hands for game four:

Miss Annie Blanche Shelby, "South," the dealer, holds: Spades, Q-6-5; hearts, K-8-4-3-2; diamonds, Q-J-10-8; clubs, 10.

Ralph J. Leibenderfer, "West," holds: Spades, K-10; hearts, A-Q-7-6-5; diamonds, A-K-4-3; clubs, 4-2.

Charles S. Thurston, "North," holds: Spades, A-9-8-7; hearts, K-J-10-9; diamonds, 9-7; clubs, J-9-7-6.

Mrs. Murray A. Campbell, "East," holds: Spades, J-4-3-2; hearts, none; diamonds, 6-5-2; clubs, A-K-Q-8-5-3.

A series of broadcasts over the National Broadcasting Company System by the American Orchestral Society will be inaugurated with a classical program to be heard at 3 o'clock this afternoon through Station WRC. The orchestra will play in Carnegie Hall, New York City. Chalmers Clifton, composer, who has directed the organization since its inception, will conduct the group.

Although the orchestra is composed of young musicians, evidence of their musical maturity and ability will be presented in the following advanced program:

Overture, Handel; "Memories of My Childhood" (Loessler); intermission; "Piano Concerto" (Liszt), nocturnes (Debussy) and "Roman Carnival" (Berlioz).

During the eight minutes intermission there will be a fill-in program from the New York studios of the NBC.

Founded in 1920 by Mrs. E. H. Harriman, the American Orchestral Society has advanced to the fore until it is now considered one of the finest nonprofessional orchestras in this country. Its primary purpose is to train advanced students in orchestral technique. Subsequent programs by this orchestra will be broadcast at various times during the season.

This hour will be followed by a concert by the United States Navy Band, under the baton of Lieut. Charles Benter, leader.

The deeds that made the name of Joan of Arc symbolical of supreme sacrifice and heroism will live again on the air in one of radio's classic broadcasts over the Eveready Hour at 9 o'clock tonight. The Joan of Arc program will be repeated with practically the same cast that performed it last year.

The program at 8:30 o'clock from WRC presents songs by Youmans, Gershwin, Kern, Brown and other popular writers who have stimulated gayety on the American stage. "Don't Ever Leave Me," from "Sweet Adeline," and two medleys are the highlights.

An all-request program of slumber music will be presented by Ludwig Laurier and his ensemble at 11 o'clock tonight from WJZ and WLW, as follows:

Overture to "Anacreon" (Cherubini), "Symphony in G Minor" (Mozart), "Aria" (Bach), ballet suite ((Gluck), and the menuet from "Berenice" (Handel).

A medley of three late song hits not associated with any theatrical or motion picture production will be featured during the Old Gold-Paul Whiteman hour from WMAL at 9 o'clock. "Georgia Pines," "Lonely Troubadour" and "Bigger and Better" are the selections. Other numbers to be played by the orchestra are "I'm the Medicine Man for the Blues," "All I'm Asking Is Sympathy," "What Is Life Without Love," "Without a Song," "Look What You've Done to Me" and "What a Day."

Will Osborne will croon popular melodies of the hour when he and his orchestra are featured on a program to be broadcast by WMAL at 11 o'clock tonight.

Julia Sanderson and Frank Crummit will be featured in the half-hour program between 8 and 8:30 o'clock.

Station WMAL, in association with the Columbia Broadcasting System, will present the address of Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate, before the Illinois Manufacturers Association, from Chicago, at 10:30 o'clock tonight. There will also be entertainment features, including Billy B. Van and the Swedish Choir.

Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, will discuss "Timely Topics" from the studios of WMAL for 15 minutes this morning, beginning at 11:30 o'clock.

Elisabeth E. Poe, editor of The Junior Post, will talk on "Knighthood of Youth," under the auspices of the D. C. Congress Parent-Teachers Association, from WOL at 6:03 o'clock this evening. The Washington Post will also be represented on WOL by Breakfast Brevities at 8:15 o'clock this morning.

"Attractive Homes on Small Incomes" is the subject chosen by Peggy Clarke for her household chat at 10 o'clock. Other features include the beauty question box, conducted by Bertha Parker; the half-hour with famous composers, and a program of luncheon music.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

DECEMBER 10.

EMILY DICKINSON, famous American poet, was born this day, 1830, in Amherst, Mass., of Puritan stock. At 18, she entered South Hadley Female Seminary, where young ladies were trained to become mates (not wives) of missionaries. From 18 to 22, she is said to have been a social creature. But at the age of 23 she fell in love with a married man in Washington, where her father was in Congress. Rather than cause trouble, she fled home and became a recluse for the rest of her life. Her lover, powerless to win her, left the country.

She found relief from her sorrow in writing poetry and after her death, 1,000 manuscripts were found filed away in her home. With her imagist verse she was a significant herald of the new poetry and her verse reached a large sale. The first collection of her poems was not published until 1890. All her poems were gathered in "The Complete Poems of Emily Dickinson," published in 1924.

Mary Louise Parmalee Peebles, American writer of juvenile stories, was born this day, 1833.

World Court Talk Planned.

Dr. Lowell J. Ragatz, assistant professor of history at George Washington University, will speak before a joint meeting of the American Association of University Women, the League of Women Voters and Y. W. C. A. at the Y. W. C. A. at 11 o'clock this morning. His subject will be the "Background of the World Court."

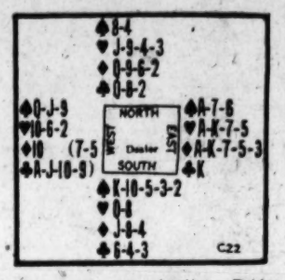
"Parking With Peggy"

"I'd marry an orator, even though he only had feet of Clay."

WORK'S BRIDGE

Misplayed Hands I Have Met.

THE series of "Misplayed Hands I Have Met" will be continued today, tomorrow and Thursday. Today's hand follows:



The game was Auction Bridge. South, West and North all passed. East bid No Trump, which obtained the Contract.

If the hand had been played in Contract Bridge, East's bid would have been involved in considerable doubt. One No Trump would not have shown his strength adequately, and with only a singleton King of Clubs he would have hesitated about bidding two. It is probable that his best bid would have been two Diamonds over which West would have bid three Clubs and East three No Trumps.

In the play, South led his fourth best Spade and dummy's Jack held the trick. Dummy then led a Club which closed hand won, but being unable to return Clubs, led a small Diamond. South won with the Jack and realizing that it would be fatal for the Spade lead to be continued from his hand, led the Queen of Hearts. Closed hand won and led the Ace, King and another Diamond. North won the fourth Diamond trick and led a Spade. East played small and South's King won and he then led a small Spade which knocked the adverse Queen and Ace together. The Declarer eventually lost two Heart tricks; and so lost in all one Spade, two Hearts, two Diamonds, and his game.

Could you have done better?

The Correct Play.

Declarer's play was clear—he needed entries in his dummy. On the first trick, he should have played the Nine of Spades from dummy, and although that would have held the trick, should have overtaken with the Ace of Spades in closed hand so as to make a dummy entry sure. Then he should have led the King of Clubs from closed hand, overtaking that in dummy, and next cleared dummy's Clubs while the hand contained a Spade entry. Played in that way Declarer must win two Spades, two Hearts, two Diamonds and five Clubs; eleven tricks.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF December 10th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:35 a. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:45 p. m.

A time for profitless activity is augured for this date. There will be considerable travel and many changes made, but they will not prove beneficial. The greatest happiness and blessings of the day lie around the hearth-stone—domestic affairs come under favorable influences.

Children born on this December 10th will be very energetic and versatile. They will make friends easily, and will retain their friendships. They should be very clever with the pen, and will probably be able to express themselves more clearly in writing than by talking.

You have a pleasing, but not forceful character. You rather stifle your own individuality in your attempt to win approbation; it is easier for you to agree, than to disagree with any one. Your convictions, therefore, are only short lived. You are very sympathetic and "understanding," and as a result you are the recipient of many confidences. Discretion, however, is not one of your long suits, and you unconsciously "let the cat out of the bag" many times when silence is the kindest and wisest thing for you to maintain.

You rather shrink from the stark realities in life, and cling to much that is sham. It is hard for you to be truly honest with either yourself or others; there are few of each sex who are "big" enough to be honest in all ways.

Cheerfulness is one of your main assets, and it helps to pull you through your hardest jobs and difficulties. You have no exceptional talent, although you are able to do a number of things with a fair degree of efficiency. Neither your brain or hands are stupid in any sense of the word. A domesticated life appeals to you, and you only require simple and homely pleasures.

Successful people born December 10:

1—Thomas H. Gallaudet—Deaf-mute educator.
2—Matthias W. Baldwin—Inventor, pioneer locomotive builder.
3—William Lloyd Garrison—Abolitionist.
4—William J. Rolfe—Author.
5—Thomas Pryor Gore—Former United States senator.
6—Melvil Dewey—Educator.

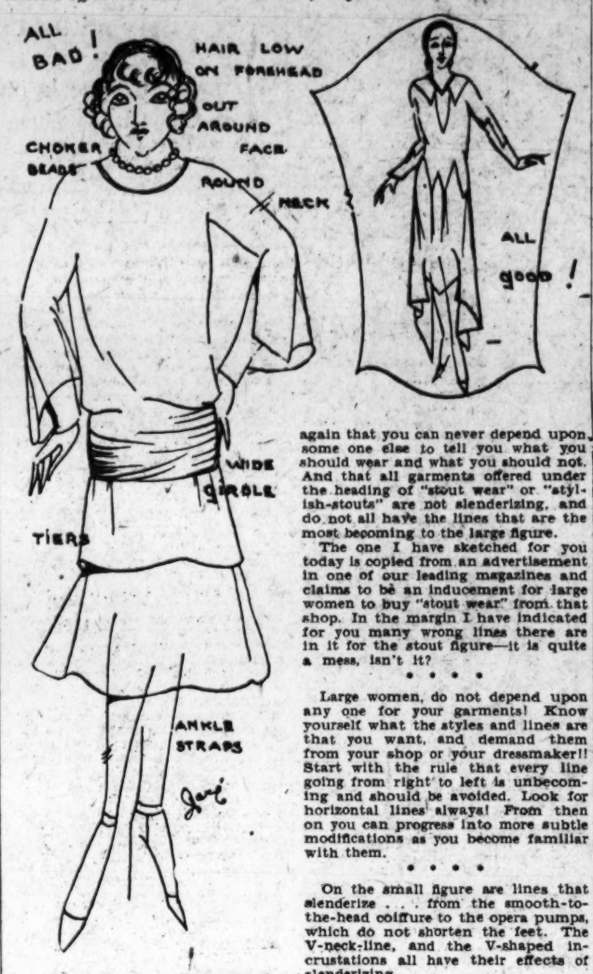
Mississippians Plan Fete.

Celebrating the admission of Mississippi to the Union 112 years ago, the Mississippi State Society of Washington will give a reception and dance at 2400 Sixteenth street northwest at 8:30 o'clock tonight. Members of the Mississippi delegation in Congress and their wives will be guests of honor.

Prices realized on Swift & Co. sales of carcass beef in Washington, D. C., for week ending Saturday, December 7, 1929, on shipments sold out ranged from 17.25 cents to 23.00 cents per pound and averaged 21.43 cents per pound.—Adv.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

Do not depend upon stylish stout wear advertisements, which offer models like this one, says Dare.



Paris, Dec. 9.

I CAN hear you say, when you read our column today, "Oh, heavens, she's at it again! Always talking about lines!" Uhm-m-m-m, I am. But so many ladies with mature figures write to us and say, "All the garments you sketch seem to be for slender young girls." And this is not actually so, because no style nowadays is particularly for a woman of any age or any particular figure.

Out of every design we see in a fashion magazine or at the couturier's we must know exactly what lines are becoming to us and, therefore, which to avoid.

Particularly is this so in the case of the heavier figures. No longer do we starve ourselves to achieve a fashionable figure. We dress to achieve it. Any woman with intelligence can learn what lines in a garment have a slenderizing effect and what have not. We are always talking about this, and telling you!

• • • •

And today I wish to remind you again that you can never depend upon some one else to tell you what you should wear and what you should not. And that all garments offered under the heading of "stout wear" or "stylish-stouts" are not slenderizing, and do not all have the lines that are the most becoming to the large figure.

The one I have sketched for you today is copied from an advertisement in one of our leading magazines and claims to be an inducement for large women to buy "stout wear" from that shop. In the margin I have indicated for you many wrong lines there are in it for the stout figure—it is quite a mess, isn't it?

• • • •

Large women, do not depend upon any one for your garments! Know yourself what the styles and lines are that you want, and demand them from your shop or your dressmaker!! Start with the rule that every line going from right to left is unbecoming and should be avoided. Look for horizontal lines always! From then on you can progress into more subtle modifications as you become familiar with them.

• • • •

On the small figure are lines that slenderize . . . from the smooth-to-the-head coiffure to the opera pumps, which do not shorten the feet. The V-neck-line, and the V-shaped incrustations all have their effects of slenderizing.

• • • •

I'll just bet you say to yourself every year—"Now this Christmas I'm going to do something novel and distinctive about my cards." And then you rush madly in the nearest stationer's two whole days before the 25th of December and buy some n-i-i-ice cards, wholesale. And two days after the 25th you wish to goodness you hadn't.

For the few very special friends that you want to remember in a very special way, have your photograph taken, and sh-h-h-h-h, tint them in lovely soft colors. I will tell you how to do it, and it's really quite simple. Just send for this week's illustrated leaflet by mailing a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post.

• • • •

MINNESOTA CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS

Minnesota newspapers which signed the accompanying statement are represented by dots on the above map. Several newspapers from the adjoining Dakotas also signed. Due to lack of time, it was impossible to reach all the editors in this territory, and many more would have signed if given the opportunity. The circulation of these newspapers totals 495,350, with approximately a million and a half readers.

METROPOLITAN NEWSPAPERS

Duluth Herald, M. F. Hanson, Publisher.
Duluth News-Tribune, M. F. Hanson, Publisher.
Minneapolis Journal, Carl W. Jones, Publisher

From personal acquaintance and contact with our farmer readers, it is our opinion that they want the Tariff Bill passed with as little delay as possible.

They regard the early passage of the Tariff Bill, with its increased and comprehensive farm rates, as more important, from the standpoint of farm prosperity, than anything else Congress could do at this time.

This belief of many Minnesota farmers is based on two things:

First—The prospect for a larger American market for farm products, which will come through the operation of these new farm tariff rates.

Second—An understanding of how this large and more stable market will fit into the prosperity program accompanying the new marketing systems to be developed under the terms and with the assistance of the Agricultural Marketing act.

These marketing systems, with their farmer control and their more direct consumer contacts, are calculated to give the farmers a larger share of what the consumers pay for farm products. Tariff protection will enlarge and stabilize the markets. This is the combination upon which Minnesota farmers believe their opportunity for permanent and dependable prosperity now really rests.

Hence the widespread desire that the Tariff Bill be passed without unnecessary delay.

We do not believe the Tariff Bill should now be held up indefinitely to slash the industrial rates of the 1922 law, as it will be delayed if there is an attempt to make indiscriminate changes. There would be delays not only in the Senate, but in the House, and especially in the Conference Committee.

These delays would seriously affect the constructive program of building farm prosperity on the foundation of larger markets and better handling systems to reach those markets. They would interfere, too, with President Hoover's wise emergency program for stimulating business and industrial activity.

Aside from these considerations, however, we want industrial labor to be prosperous. The workers of the industrial centers are our best customers. We want them to be employed, busy and able to buy. Any considerable unemployment would affect us almost as quickly as it would affect them.

We know that the business structure of the Country is based largely on tariff protection; that the structure has been in process of building for many years; and that business is adjusted to it.

We have noted how industrial tariff slashing in times past has invariably brought depression and unemployment. We do not want that condition to recur, because many of our products are already dangerously near saturation point as regards consumption.

We must increase the market demand for our products, and there is no better or more certain way to increase that demand than to safeguard the prosperity of the Country, especially those parts of the Country where demand is normally the greatest.

In short, we are better off with good customers paying us higher prices for the products we sell every day and every week, even if we must forego slight reductions in the prices of what we much less often buy from them.

We sincerely believe that the best interests of agriculture, not only in Minnesota, but throughout the Country, will be better served by the quick passage of the Tariff Bill with adequate farm rates.

SOLO DANCES SHOWN BY GERMAN ARTISTS

Expressionistic Trend Is Manifest in Series of Modern Numbers.

MANY STEPS ARE NOVEL

Harald Kreutzberg and Yvonne Georgi, renowned German dancers, exhibited their art at Poli's Theater yesterday in a program of solo dances. The presentation was given under the local management of Mrs. Wilson Greene.

These dancers from overseas showed inimitable grace and beauty of plastic movement in a series of numbers of the modern expressionistic dancing, many of which were novel to their audience.

Both dancers, although they have been a team for only a short time, got their training from the famous Mary Wigman school in Germany and both worked in the ballets of the Berlin and Hanover operas. This fact enables them to match their steps splendidly and to produce fine ensemble effects. Without any disparagement of Fraulein Georgi, Herr Kreutzberg is the more finished artist of the two and his work generally was more outstanding, although the woman dancer gave a highly creditable performance as well.

Both dancers in their numbers developed a lightness of step and rhythmic joyousness. The modern trend was evinced in the fact that their arms, head and other parts of their bodies, as well as their feet were so gracefully used. This fact was particularly apparent in the "Variations," by Mozart, in which their light and graceful movements intercepted the music of that master. In "Kassandra," by Wilckens, which was danced by Fraulein Georgia alone, the dramatic quality of her movements were well defined, but at times somewhat overemphasized. With her partner she scored again in Debussy's "Romantic Dance."

Massachusetts Club To Hold Dance Tonight

A dance and entertainment will be held by the Massachusetts Society at 9 o'clock tonight in the ballroom at the Wardman Park Hotel, following a half-hour business meeting called for the election of officers for the ensuing year, according to announcement by the group's president, George R. Farnum, United States Assistant Attorney General.

Entertainers will include Miss Dorothy Skinner and Ambrose Durkin, singers, and Miss Claire Sessford, impersonator.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

CONVERSATION and recent front pages have been so concerned with stock market losses entailed by the collapse, panic, crash, debacle, or how do you feel about it, that this item should be tonic.

A girl who left the "Follies"—that makes 28,679,354 by actual count—to enter the movies has made more money in the stock market in the last few months than she could make in several years of continuous work before the cameras.

She is Sally Long, once glorified by Flo Ziegfeld, who arrived in Hollywood four years ago. Her success in the films was hardly that, but her stock market manipulations have been unusually successful. In the last nine months Miss Long says she has sold stocks that she owned (because of a red-hot tip) for enough to give her a profit of $175,000 on an investment of considerably less.

Piqued because she had not met with the success she had hoped for in the film capital, Miss Long went to Europe. After more than a year abroad, she is back ready to begin her climb toward screen fame again.

For what?

Four subjects in the newsreels currently occupying the local screens struck me over the week-end—meaning the head—as being rather more than usually interesting.

Speaker Longworth, of the House of Representatives, manages to explain about the income tax reduction just one gulp ahead of swallowing his esophagus, for Paramount; Commander Byrd touches briefly upon the objects of his exploration in the Antarctic and then is similarly lauded by his mother and by President Hoover, and in the Fox Movietone recording of events, former Senator Wadsworth, in quite a considerable footage, expresses the views of the thirsty with regard to the hypocrisy engendered by the eighteenth amendment. (Cheers!)

But I say, Old Squirt, the topping bit of them all, you know, is the welcome 'omeland sentiment voiced by Mr. James Joseph Tunney, (formerly Gene) the jolly old rotter, who is polished no end, my word, since having become a philologist instead of a pug. The swanky blighter!

Things we've always known, but couldn't think of 'til now:

William Collier, sr., the comedian and wit, never smiles.

Sound pictures must be made in silence.

Actors may be noisy when still pictures are taken.

J. Farrell MacDonald, commodore of the California Yacht Club, doesn't own a yacht—but yacht to!

Trailers do not follow pictures; they precede them.

The slower a camera is cranked the faster will be the action.

Not that any of it especially matters.

The girl friends are getting just a little bit rowdy. Irene Bordoni in "Paris," at the Metropolitan, and Belle Baker, in "Song of Love," at the Fox, both unburden themselves of a few sets of lyrics that probably had to be recorded on asbestos discs.

The beauty urge even reaches to the canines of the movie colony. All the dogs that act for the pictures are such fine looking specimens that none will do for a role in the next production starring Moran and Mack. A mongrel puppy is required, so every youth in the vicinity of the studios—meaning all of southern California—has been asked to submit his kiyoodle in a contest to find the ugliest. They won't find him out there, though, because he lives in my block and has his fun running through mud and then jumping all over blue serge suits—the dear little this-and-that!

J. W. C., postcards an inquiry as to what may have become of Lawrence Downey, Washington barytone and former master of ceremonies—both invisible and visible—at the local Fox Theater.

Inquiry, in turn, of my good friend, Lawrence Downey, sr., elicits the information that Larry is now associated with the Minnesota General Electric Co., with permanent residence in Minneapolis. For some time after leaving the Capital and show business, Mr. Downey was stationed in Milwaukee, Wis., but later was transferred to his present post, which, I am told, is one of fine emolument and great promise.

The voice, however, has not been neglected. Mr. Downey, who was a featured member of Irving Berlin's "Music Box Revue" and a spotted act in vaudeville prior to his professional engagements in Washington, is prominent among the solo artists comprising the Apollo Club of Minneapolis, a male musical organization not greatly dissimilar to the Meistersingers of Boston. Glowing newspaper notices have heralded his appearances with this talented group so popular in the Middle West and Northwest.

The street address and phone number I neglected to ascertain.

Unless they have substituted a new Vitaphone Variety, those two brilliant vocalists, Helen Yorke and Virginia Johnson, this week may have the novel experience of doing their stuff on the Palace stage and then hurrying down to the Metropolitan and listening to themselves in virtually the same act on the audible screen. Which, I should say, is more or less by way of fulfilling Burns' familiar plaint, "Oh, wad some power the giftie gie us, &c."

Autographed photographs of Victor McLaglen and Paul Muni have just arrived, but the signatures look just a little phoney. Pardon me, please, while I go see what really is in that woodpile!

WILSON SUGGESTED R. C. A., SAYS YOUNG

Committee Row Starts Over Formation of Large Radio Concern.

FURTHER DETAILS ASKED

(Associated Press.)

Testimony by Owen D. Young that President Wilson suggested the formation of the Radio Corporation of America started a controversy yesterday among members of the Senate interstate commerce committee.

As soon as the chairman of the corporation's board of directors mentioned Wilson's name, Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, attempted to get further details. After Dill had asked a number of questions Senators Tydings, of Maryland, Barkley of Kentucky, and Hawes of Missouri, all Democratic members of the committee, objected to taking further testimony on the subject.

During the wrangling Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, suggested there should be "some regulation" by Congress to prevent what he said was the dissemination of "false propaganda," and Senator Watson (Republican), Indiana, asked Young whether his company at any time had attempted to "propagandize Wilson's name."

Name Used in Advertising.

"I did not know we had," Young replied.

"The facts are," Chairman Couzens said, "that in your advertising that does appear."

In his statement, Young said Wilson "asked for the conservation of our American rights and resources in the radio field, and made an appeal to Americans having such rights not to part with them but to use them in establishing an international communication system for the United States."

Questioned by Dill, Young said the suggestion came to him through Admiral Bullard, who was sent by Wilson from the Paris peace conference in 1919 for the purpose of trying to prevent sale by the General Electric Co. of important patent rights to the British Marconi Co. The patents a few months later were turned over to the Radio Corporation when it was organized.

Young Testimony Recalled.

Dill, however, called attention to testimony by Young before a Senate committee in which the Washington senator said no mention was made of Wilson. Young made no direct reply to this observation.

In his testimony, Young advocated regulation to meet competition from foreign interests, insisting that unless Congress permitted such constructions, now prohibited by law, this country would be placed "in a position where others may dictate their use here and we are powerless to protect ourselves."

The question before the Radio Corporation, he said, was whether it would be able to hold a "foremost place" in radio communication.

"Whether we took East or West," he said, "we find cables and radio united in all the great nations of the world as a protection to their national interest."

Smoke Inspection Staff Is Increased

Fowler Takes Three Men From Other Assignments to Aid in This Work.

Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer, yesterday met the criticism of the Federation of Citizens' Association that the antismoke law was not being enforced by detailing three additional inspectors to the task of detecting violations of the law.

The additional inspectors were taken off regular assignments. They brought the total of smoke inspectors up to five. Fowler called on business firms and apartment houses, hotels and office buildings to cooperate in a better observance of the law which, he said, is designed to help the beauty of the city.

Although Fowler refused to discuss his estimates for the health department for thenext fiscal year. It is known that the health officer is far from pleased because the estimates now before Congress do not provide for the employment next year of the additional inspectors he believes are needed. The provision for an increased number of inspectors was eliminated by the Budget Bureau.

Defense in McCormick Guardianship Case Rests

Santa Barbara, Calif., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The defense in the superior court hearing into Stanley McCormick's mental care and guardianship rested late today after an all-day grilling of Mrs. Katherine McCormick, wife of the incompetent multimillionaire.

After a brief cross-examination of Mrs. McCormick, her chief counsel, Newton D. Baker, excused her from the stand and launched into the plaintiff's case by calling the first of an array of expert medical counsel.

STOPS PAIN.
From coast to coast men and women are singing the praise of "Anti-Pain Oil"—a most powerful, penetrating, pain-relieving liniment. It will penetrate thickest sole leather in a few minutes. Mrs. B. Werner, New Orleans, La., writes, "Thanks to your wonderful penetrating oil, it relieved me of Rheumatism and deep-seated cold after other remedies failed."
"I had rheumatism so bad I had to walk on crutches for nine years," says H. C. Hendrix, old soldier of Minneapolis, Minn. "After three months' treatment with 'Anti-Pain Oil' laid off my crutches, and now can walk like a boy."
J. B. Moore, Pittsburgh, Pa., railroad man, says: "'Anti-Pain Oil' is the only liniment that ever gave me relief from rheumatism. I use it regularly after being exposed to bad weather." For rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, stiff joints, pain in back and limbs, corns, bunions, chest colds, sore throat. "Anti-Pain Oil" is said to be without an equal.

See these FRIGIDAIRES—all in rust-proof Porcelain-on-steel

VISIT our display room and see the Frigidaires now offered for Christmas delivery. They're the greatest Frigidaires, the most amazing values, in all Frigidaire history.

All are strikingly beautiful. For every household Frigidaire is now rust-proof Porcelain-on-steel . . . Tu-Tone Porcelain-on-steel outside . . . gleaming white Porcelain-on-steel within. Every inch of surface is as easy to clean as chinaware. The shelves are removable, spaced to hold large quantities of food and elevated to a convenient height.

Then, to double the greater service that Frigidaire has always offered, every household model is now equipped with the famous "Cold Control" . . . a device that speeds the freezing of ice cubes and provides positive freezing temperatures for unusual desserts that require extreme cold.

The "Cold Control" insures quick results . . . always. For the mechanism it controls is extra-powerful . . . meeting every demand with effortless ease.

And, though extra-powerful, the Frigidaire mechanism is incredibly quiet. It is completely enclosed in a separate compartment in the bottom of the cabinet in the coolest part of the room.

With all of these features, Frigidaire prices are remarkably low and our special Christmas terms make any household model unusually easy to buy. Call at our display room for complete information.

DEATH TOLL IS 108 IN ENGLISH STORM

69 Big Ships Are Stranded, Sunk or Damaged by Raging Seas.

GALE HAS NOT ABATED

London, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Relief forces redoubled efforts tonight in a lull in the gales, which have subjected Western Europe to perhaps the worst weather in a century, to reach water-logged and crippled derelicts to which helpless men still clung on the high seas.

A check-up tonight, still incomplete, showed that 108 lives had been lost and 69 large ships had been stranded, sunk or seriously damaged. The end of the storm was not yet in sight with gales raging furiously from the mouth of the Elbe in the North Sea to Cape Finisterre, the northwestern extremity of Spain.

Many have been the tales of heroism. Coast guard crews have risked their lives, in many instances, in almost hopeless efforts to reach foundering ships. Those vessels that escaped damage turned out of their course to speed to the aid of others.

Stood by Distressed Ships.

One instance reported was that of the British liner Alaunia, which arrived at Plymouth from New York. It had stood by the crippled British steamer Tynebridge for nine hours while that ship tossed helplessly on the high seas. Finding it impossible to transfer the injured men from the Tynebridge the ship's doctor of the Alaunia prescribed treatment for them by radio. Tugs now have gone to the assistance of the Tynebridge. There were minor injuries among the passengers and crew of the Alaunia, which had met a succession of gales in crossing the Atlantic.

The greatest atmospheric depression in 50 years was recorded in this section of the Atlantic Ocean. The barometer reading went down to 27½ inches, a most unusual mark considering that a severe tropical cyclone seldom forces barometers so low. The main force of the storm, which reached hurricane velocity on several days since it broke last Thursday night, was felt in the English Channel and the Atlantic Ocean off the British Isles.

Coasts Strewn With Wreckage.

Lashed by the storm and swept by impetuous seas unceasingly for nearly a week, the rugged coasts of Ireland, Scotland, Wales and Sussex tonight were artewn with wreckage and dotted with crippled ships trying to escape the fury of the elements. The coast of northern France presented a similar spectacle.

The Swedish ship Frieda was reported sinking off Deal after collision with an unidentified craft. A lifeboat put out from Ramsgate to try to save the crew of the Frieda.

An ominous silence concealed from anxious watchers on shore the fate of the 8,000-ton West African passenger and freight steamer Aba, which was last reported on Saturday, in distress with a smashed steering gear, 70 miles off Ushant Lighthouse, near Brest, France.

Ships Battling Disaster.

The North Foreland Radio Station reported a steamer Culmore in distress and in need of immediate assistance. The radio station at Lands End received a report that the Greek steamer Zachariosa was proceeding toward Falmouth with steering gear damaged and two men injured. It was still facing bad weather.

The steamer Valacia radioed that she was proceeding slowly in the gale and encountering high seas.

About 50 large steamers were held in the harbor of Hamburg, Germany, by the raging seas outside. Several SOS messages were received today from vessels in the North Sea, including one from the German steamship Lili Woermann, an 8,000-ton craft, which had lost its rudder. A Dutch tug took the ship in tow.

City Is Damaged by Gale.

The City of Hamburg suffered considerably from the gale. There was much damage along the water front and two persons were killed, besides several injured.

The coast of France was almost as bedraggled as British shores.

JUDGE BEN B. LINDSEY.

Denver, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Ben B. Lindsey, militant exponent of companionate marriage and noted former Denver juvenile court judge, today was disbarred from the practice of law in Colorado by the State Supreme Court for accepting money from a prominent New York and Denver society matron for legal services while he was on the bench.

Lindsey immediately upon being apprised of the decision issued a statement asserting he was the victim of political persecution.

The former juvenile judge was charged specifically by the bar association with accepting $37,500 from Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes divorced wife of W. E. D. Stokes, New York multimillionaire for services in contesting Stokes' will which cut off his two children by the second Mrs. Stokes, James and Helen Muriel, without bequests.

Through Lindsey's interest in the Stokes case the mother was able to obtain for her two children approximately $3,000,000 from the estate of her former husband, in addition to $156,500 for her services as guardian of the children under an order issued by Lindsey as judge of the Juvenile Court. Her remuneration was in the form of stocks in a company organized by the estate using these as collateral, she borrowed the money to pay Lindsey the record sets forth. The will left the money to W. E. D. Stokes, jr., a son by a former marriage. The case was settled out of court by agreement.

Contending that he had befriended Mrs. Stokes, that his services to her were disassociated from his work in the Juvenile Court and that he acted "merely as a arbitrator and mediator," Lindsay denied in his argument before the Supreme Court that his practices had been unethical. The $37,500 received from Mrs. Stokes, he asserted, was a "gift," as was $10,000 received from Samuel Untermeyer, of New York, an attorney for Mrs. Stokes.

Lindsey contended that the "gift" he had received from Mrs. Stokes had been approved by the Probate Court and that when he had offered to return the money as well as the $10,000 received from Untermyer, the benefactors refused to take it back.

"Unless," recited the court's opinion, "one has the moral strength of character to stand immovable in his fidelity to duty against the allurements of money and to resist temptation to do those things that are prohibited by law and to judge, then he no longer possesses that indispensable moral character which the good of society and the administration of justice demand of an attorney and counselor of law."

"This disbarment case," the former judge said in the statement, "is part of the conspiracy of my personal and political enemies against the judicial and social reforms and changes I have stood for. The chief justice who renders this opinion is a member of an old political machine which I fought in my writings.

"The judicial reforms I have advocated would put half of the lawyers out of business and the result has been that a grievance committee of the State Bar Association has been made up mostly of representatives of my personal and political enemies."

Lindsey, although admitted to the bar in California some months ago, has continued to live in Denver, writing and lecturing.

San Francisco, Calif., Dec. 9 (A.P.). Associate Justice William H. Preston, of the California Supreme Court, told the Associated Press here today that disbarment in Colorado of Ben B. Lindsey does not necessarily mean that similar action will follow in this State, where Lindsey was admitted to practice in May, 1927.

On the recommendation of the State bar of California or on its own initiative, Justice Preston said, the supreme court might take steps to disbar him from practice.

BANK BANDITS SHOT IN DAYLIGHT HOLDUP

Officers in Ambush Riddle Minnesota Robbers With Bullets.

UNDERWORLD GIVES 'TIP'

Shakopee, Minn., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Acting on a "tip" from the underworld, a posse, ambushed in village shops, shot down three bandits as they sought to escape after robbing the First National Bank of $1,500 here today after a gun fight in Main street, in which nearly 100 shots were fired.

One of the bandit trio, his body wounded with machine gun and pistol bullets, and buckshot from a duck gun, was identified as William "Bud" McInerny, of St. Paul. He is not expected to live. The others, Frank Morris, of Chicago, and George Larkin, St. Paul, both seriously wounded, are expected to recover.

Reminiscent of the historic repulse of Jesse James and his band at Northfield, 30 miles southeast of here, 53 years ago, the gun fight which shattered this village's quiet was short but furious.

Driver Is Shot Down.

While McInerny and Larkin were inside the bank raiding its safe, Morris sat at the driver's wheel of a large sedan outside. He stepped out of the car. Then Charles D. Brown, veteran special agent for the Minnesota Bankers Association, who had received the "tip" at 2 a. m. today from sources he would not reveal, opened fire with a shoulder machine gun and Morris dropped, wounded in both legs.

As he fell, his companions rushed from the bank to the street with the loot prepared to speed away and Brown's staccato fire was joined by pistol fire from John Bing, chief of police; Sheriff Weckman and several deputy sheriffs. They had remained hidden in establishments across the street from the bank.

Butcher Joins in Fight.

From an upstairs window of a store across the street from the bank additional lead shot at the bandits by G. A. Hartman, a butcher, who without advance information of the robbery, had become suspicious and opened fire with a rifle.

Larkin dropped, also severely wounded by bullets from several guns, while McInerny, with the loot, ran back into the bank and sought escape through its rear door, but was shot down in an alley by Al Tiedt, proprietor of a restaurant.

Silver Years

"After the golden years of youth, comes those of fine silver."

By GERTRUDE S. TROWBRIDGE.

One reason why old people are misunderstood is that they do not understand themselves nor realize that, to a large degree, they may compensate for conditions which they face. Consciousness of age leaps suddenly upon a person; no one is prepared for it, and its limitations, at first, bewilder the victim.

I have met many in that puzzled state. They hate their condition yet do not know what to do about it.

When younger, they probably did not watch their steps and gradually walked in ruts on worn-out ways. When they finally realize that they are stumbling, they look eagerly for short, smooth and direct paths back into better conditions. The horror which they feel about themselves is a hopeful sign, as it shows that they are humble enough to take suggestions.

Yet, as one grows older, it is tiresome to go back into character training because effective methods are neither new, easy, nor amusing. Yet both men and women, young and old, must persistently return to simple laws of sane living or they come to grief. One can lose completely the moral momentum started by good ancestors while imagining that practice of their wise counsels goes on automatically to the end of life.

Until false traditions about the unimportance of older people have been exploded, plans for self-repair develop best in solitude. Being alone gives a chance to regain self-reliance, to re-establish lost ideals, to be tolerant of the actions of others and to develop spirituality that will result in living exquisitely. This process of improvement is hastened, deepened and made a happy process if one concentrates upon what each hour brings into life of service, beauty and love. This gives a sense of privilege and an appreciation of values which more active living may have hindered.

But any self-analysis must go deep enough to strip us of illusions and dramatic strutting. It must show us what queer habits are smothering fine traits and preventing us from using our best powers.

"On top, my thoughts are nice and neat,
With noble words and manners sweet.
But, when some crisis stirs my mind,
I'm just surprised at what I find."
—Boston Post.

Fortune in Pictures Sought After Death

Charlotte, N. C., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Charlotte police today were investigating the death of D. Caesar Goldinger, of New York, and had begun a search for a collection of paintings valued at $1,000,000 which Goldinger had said he possessed.

The New York man's body was discovered in bed Sunday by police at an obscure rooming house, and Coroner Frank Hovis held he died of heart trouble. The police investigation was started today, however, when it became known that Goldinger had approached City Detective Frank Littlejohn on Friday of last week and had informed the detective of threats against his life.

Two Killed When Blast Rocks Oil Firm's Plant

Everett, Mass., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Two men were killed today in an explosion at the plant of the Trimount Oil Co., and several others were reported injured. The explosion occurred in a tank from which a truck was being loaded with liquid asphalt. The plant manufactures road oils and like materials.

The blast shook the neighborhood and the accompanying pall of black smoke was visible from surrounding cities.

Police Reserves Quell Rioting in Trade Union

New York, Dec. 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—With reserves called to quell the rioting of 300 strikings members of the left wing of the Dress Trades Union and nonstriking members of the right wing this morning, fourteen women and two men were marched off to jail.

The fight started when more than 50 left-wingers were locked out by a dress manufacturer in a loft building in West Thirty-ninth street. About 200 left-wingers promptly started picketing the building. Right wing members protested the picketing and the disturbance was on.

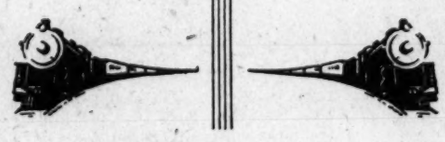
THE CAPITOL LIMITED TO CHICAGO

THE NATIONAL LIMITED TO CINCINNATI LOUISVILLE ST. LOUIS



THERE's more to these two famous trains than comfortable seats, modern equipment, smooth tracks, and "on time" arrival. Somehow, when you step aboard either the Capitol Limited or the National Limited, you feel at home.

The porter, the conductor, your waiter in the dining car . . . they all seem to serve you in a spirit of kindly consideration, with an evident "will to please."

Both trains carry club cars and such special features as train secretary, maid, manicure, barber, valet, shower baths, newspapers, and magazines. STOCK PRICES FALL AS REACTION SETS IN Profit Taking Turns Initial Rise Movement Into Downward Trend.

UTILITIES QUITE HEAVY

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The recovery of stock prices received a setback today. Last week's bull movement was carried over into the early hours of the session, but profit taking, combined with bear pressure, poured into the market in increasing volume as the day wore on, and turned the trend distinctly downward before the close.

The cross-currents of activity swelled the day's turnover to the comparatively large volume of 5,018,000 shares, as compared to 4,714,800 on Friday. Gains of 2 to 8 points among leading shares, conspicuous during the morning, were largely replaced by net losses of similar extent at the close. The utilities and high-priced industrials were emphatically heavy.

The reaction was received calmly in Wall street, as the market had grown ripe for a drop after last week's unexpectedly brisk upturn. Despite the revival of optimism regarding business prospects, current operations remain comparatively slack, and since their recent trying experiences, speculators have grown exceedingly wary about discounting the future very far in advance.

U. S. Steel Reaches 189.

U. S. Steel was rushed up about 6 points during the early hours of the session to a new high for the recovery at 189, to the accompaniment of rumors of a special meeting of directors tomorrow to consider a split-up. It was learned, however, that only the regular meeting of the finance committee will be held tomorrow, and no directors' meeting is scheduled until late in January. The stock reacted and closed with a net loss of nearly 3 points.

Motors were given one of the most effective bullish whirls in months, in what appeared to be a preautomobile show demonstration. Coppers also were put forward at the expense of a large short interest. Gains in these groups, however, were moderate, and were reduced by the late reaction.

Firming tendencies were again notable in the money market, and sterling exchange rose to the highest level in the past two years, with 4.88⅜ quoted for cables. The beginnings of a gold movement to London appeared only to await advantageous steamer sailings, with the delays involved by the storms over the Atlantic apparently causing some hesitancy in completing transactions. Time money was firmer, with funds moving at 4¾ to 5 per cent, against a flat rate of 4¾ late last week. Call money held at 4½ per cent.

Among stocks displaying pronounced heaviness included Allied Chemical, American Can, American and Foreign Power, American Telephone, American Water Works, A. M. Byers, Columbian Carbon, Eastman Kodak, General Electric, International Telephone, Simmons, Standard Gas, Timken Roller Bearing, U. S. Freight, Western Union, and Westinghouse Electric, closing with losses of 4 to nearly 9 points.

Rails Steady to Firm.

Rails were largely steady to firm. Delaware and Hudson and Chesapeake & Ohio closed 3 and 3 points higher. Similar gains were scored by Atchison and New York Central, but were lost before the close. General Motors and Anaconda gained about 4 points each, only to lose much of their advances. Chrysler was heavily bought on reports that negotiations were under way for the private placing of a large block of the stock which has been hanging over the market, but it closed unchanged after moving up a couple of points. Auburn shot up 31 points and closed 2 from the top.

Commodities were inclined to sag with stocks. Wheat futures slumped about 3 cents, influenced by bearish Argentine estimates and a disappointingly small decrease in the visible supply. Corn lost nearly a cent. The Government cotton crop report was closely in line, with expectations and inspired considerable profit taking. Closing prices were 40 cents to $1 a bale lower.

Outside of the further firmness of sterling, there were few developments of significance in the foreign exchange market. French francs and German marks were slightly easier but still close to the outgoing points.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—An early advance on covering, promoted by relatively steady cables and expectations of reduced crop figures, were followed by declines after the publication of the Government crop report in the cotton market today. The official estimate of 14,919,000 bales was just about in line with the trade expectation, but the failure of the report to bring in fresh buying led to considerable liquidation. January contracts sold off from 17.40 to 17.07 and closed at 17.09, with the general market closing barely steady at net delivery points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 to 8 points (11:30 a.m.), and the active position showed net gains of 0 to 14 points before trading was suspended to receive the Government report. There was considerable covering on this early advance, which evidently eased the technical position of the market, and when the official crop figures failed to stimulate further buying the market weakened under realizing or liquidation, which appeared to be coupled with considerable Southern selling. December, which had advanced to 17.31 during the early trading, sold off from 17.00 late in the afternoon, while May declined from 17.95 to 17.62. Closing quotations were within a point or two of the lowest.

The Government crop estimate of 14,919,000 bales of 500-pound gross weight was slightly above the average of recent private reports, but just about in line with the average expectation of New York Cotton Exchange members, as indicated by the canvass of late last week. According to this canvass it may be recalled members of the trade here were looking for a report of 14,900,000 bales on the average, while the average of the private reports published during the past fortnight was 14,860,000 bales.

Evidently the decrease of about 90,000 bales in the official figures, as compared with the November 1 indication, had been fully discounted and the selling during the afternoon may have been promoted by expectation of unfavorable standard cloth statistics for the month of November. These figures, published after the close of the market, showed a decrease of 12.5 per cent in unfilled orders and an increase of 19.0 per cent in stocks on hand.

Port receipts today, 48,440. United States port stocks, 2,554,580. Exports, 35,198, making 3,515,786 so far this season.

D. J. CALLAHAN TAKES RIGGS BANK'S OFFER

Former Steamboat Firm's Manager Elected to Directors' Board.

TREASURY BILLS READY

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Election of D. J. Callahan, former vice president and general manager of the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co., to the board of directors of Riggs National Bank, was announced, following the regular meeting of the board yesterday by the bank's president, Robert V. Fleming.

Callahan, who until recently was associated with the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co., serving that organization for 36 years, has been active and prominent in business and civic life throughout the 25-year-period of his local residence.

He has enjoyed a great deal of prestige in the community from his active participation in all civic movements, having been president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, secretary of the Washington Board of Trade, president of the board of education and president of the International Rotary Club.

During the World War, he was selected by the Treasury Department as a director of the war savings stamps campaign, having charge of the sale of 7,500,000 of these stamps, and his was one of the few jurisdictions in the country which disposed of its entire quota.

Mellon Announces New Bills.

The first issue of Treasury bills, new form of Government security, authorized by a law enacted by the last Congress, is announced today by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who gives notice that tenders are invited for the bills to the amount of approximately $100,000,000.

The bills will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders, and tenders will be received at Federal Reserve banks or their branches, up to 2 o'clock, Eastern standard time, on the afternoon of Friday, December 13. Tenders will not be received at the Treasury Department, however.

Bills will be dated December 17, 1929, and will mature on March 17, 1930. On the maturity date, the face amount will be payable without interest. They will be issued in bearer form only, and in amounts or denominations of $1,000, $10,000 and $100,000 (maturity value). Secretary Mellon urges that tenders be made on the printed forms and forwarded in the special envelopes which will be supplied by the Federal Reserve banks or branches on application.

$10,000 Least Tender Offer.

No tender for an amount less than $10,000 will be considered and each tender must be in multiples of $1,000. The price offer must be expressed on the basis of 100, with not more than three decimal places, such as "99.125," and fractions must not be used. While tenders will be accepted without cash deposit from incorporated banks, trust companies and responsible and recognized dealers in investment securities, tenders from others must be accompanied by a deposit of 10 per cent of the face amount of Treasury bills applied for, unless the tenders are accompanied by an express guarantee of payment by an incorporated bank or trust company.

Immediately after the closing hour for receipt of tenders, December 13, all received at the Federal Reserve banks or branches will be opened and public announcement of the acceptable prices will follow as soon as possible, probably the following morning.

The Secretary of the Treasury reserves the right to reject any or all tenders or parts of them, and to allot less than the amount applied for. His action in any such respect is final. Those submitting tenders will be advised of acceptance or rejection and payment at the price offered for Treasury bills allotted must be made at Federal Reserve banks in cash or other immediately available funds on or before December 17, 1929.

Gets Tax Exemptions.

The bills will be exempt, both as to principal and interest (discount), from all taxation, except estate and inheritance taxes and the amount of discount at which they are originally sold by the Government shall be considered as interest for tax exemption purposes.

Business on the Washington Stock Exchange fell into a holiday lull yesterday, heaviest stock sales being in National Mortgage & Investment preferred, 250 shares selling at 3⅛, fractional gain. The stock turnover totaled 294 shares, an advance of 77 from Saturday's trading. Bond sales totaled $1,200, a $2,500 recession.

Two bank stocks were out, three shares of Union Trust Co., moving at 273, and ten of Washington Loan & Trust at 500. Twenty shares of Capital Traction changed hands at 75½ and 75¾, and ten of Peoples Drug Stores preferred at 108.

The Federal Reserve Board announced yesterday that the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta had established a rediscount rate of 4½ per cent on all classes of paper of all maturities effective today. This is the fifth Federal Reserve Bank to reduce its rate from 5 to 4½, others being those of New York, Boston, San Francisco and Chicago.

Utilities, Hydro & Rails Shares Corporation announce that they have added to their list of directors the following executives: J. M. Kurn, president, St. Louis-San Francisco Railroad; F. W. Moffet, vice president in charge of operations, General Railway Signal Co., Rochester, N. Y.; John B. Hull, director, National Mahaiwe Bank, Great Barrington, Mass., and J. Lewis Henry, Biddle & Henry, bankers, Philadelphia, Pa.

Anacostia Bank Business Good.

President Maurice Otterback, of the Anacostia Bank reports good Christmas business for that section of the city as the result of a release of Christmas Savings Club funds. Club membership of the bank for 1930 also shows an increase.

Statement of the consolidated income and surplus accounts of the Postal Telegraph & Cable Corporation, and its associated companies, for the nine months ended September 30, 1929, shows the consolidated net income before interest charges on the $50,666,529.99 collateral trust 5 per cent gold bonds and debenture stock outstanding at September 30, 1929, was $3,668,292.77. After providing for bond interest, the net income was $1,770,002.38.

Chairman Clarence H. Mackay of the board stated: "Our plant facilities are being rapidly extended and improved. New telegraph offices are being opened in territories not previously served by the Postal Telegraph System and the increased use of our services is gratifying."

There is little question but that confidence in the future of the country has been substantially restored, says the Financial World in its current issue which adds that "it appears probable the moderate recession in general trade which is now under way will continue until spring and that by the fall of 1930 business activity will have been restored to levels of general prosperity to which the country has become accustomed."

The publication notes that the strength of the credit situation, along with the prospect for still easier interest rates, "must be recognized as a very important constructive factor on both security prices and the future of trade."

BANK DIRECTOR

Harris & Ewing.

D. J. CALLAHAN,
elected to the directorate of Riggs National Bank yesterday.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The brokerage firm of C. B. Cooke & Co. today was petitioned into bankruptcy by creditors. The Irving Trust Co. was appointed receiver. The firm is not a member of the New York Stock or Curb Exchanges.

A $50,000,000 merger of the By-Products Coke Co., of South Chicago; the Zenith Furnace Co., of Duluth; the Toledo Furnace Co., of Toledo, and the Perry Furnace Co., of Erie, Pa., was announced today by the firm of Pickens, Mather & Co. The new company will be named the Interlake Iron Corporation. Transfer of properties will be made January, 1930.

Cheaper money after the first of the new year is believed in Wall street to be contingent on the amount of gold exported in the meantime. One banker was quoted today as predicting that call money would be down to 2½ per cent early next year unless substantial amounts of gold were sent abroad.

The Parmelee Transportation Co., controlling a number of taxicab operating companies in Eastern and Middle Western cities, is reported to be planning further expansion in 1930. Current year's earnings are officially estimated at practically double dividend requirements.

Sales of standard cotton cloths during November were 222,911,000 yards, or 64.8 per cent of production, according to the report of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York. Shipments totaled 276,377,000 yards, or 80.1 per cent of production. Production totaled 354,146,000 yards. Stocks on hand at the end of the month amounted to 431,426,000 yards, an increase of 19 per cent during the month. Unfilled orders on November 30, were 342,232,000 yards, a decrease of 13.5 per cent during the month.

The Public Service Electric & Gas Co., an operating subsidiary of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, will reduce its electric rates about $1,300,000.

Sale of a membership in the New York Stock Exchange has been arranged at a price of $425,000, an increase of $25,000 over the previously reported sale.

Wilfred Kurth, president of the Home Insurance Co., in a letter to stockholders, says that it is the intention of the company to continue the 20 per cent ($2 a share) dividend rate on the new shares, which were offered stockholders in the ratio of one additional share for each three held.

Net income of the Selberling Rubber Co. for the year ending October 31 amounted to $132,207, compared with $511,968 in the previous twelve months.

For the quarter ending September 30 the Indian Refining Co. reported net profits of $477,814, equal to 38 cents a share on the common stock, as against $398,212 in the corresponding quarter last year.

Consummation of the merger of the Donner Steel Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and the Witherow Steel Corporation, Pittsburgh, Pa., was authorized today at a meeting of Donner stockholders at Buffalo. They also authorized issuance of new preferred and common stock to provide for the transaction, which was approved last week by Witherow stockholders, who deposited sufficient stock to carry out the execution. The Donner Steel Co. is controlled by Continental Shares, Inc., of Cleveland.

THIN SESSION MARKS DAY'S BOND TRADING

Combined Averages Show Slight Decline; Rails Retain Their Gains.

FOREIGN ISSUES STEADY

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The bond market held irregular today in a dull, thin session. Buying orders from important sources had dried up temporarily, for time money rates, which had been at 4½ to 4¾, rose to 4¾ to 5 per cent, with most of the business at the latter level.

In the absence of demand, prices drifted lower in all groups and for the first time since the liquidation that accompanied the break in stocks the Associated Press combined average showed a decline. Losses, however, were minute in most instances.

United States Government Liberties and Treasury notes, which had been climbing for a fortnight, sagged in response to the stiffer money rates. Dealings in most of the listed issues were exceptionally small.

Rails lost a little ground, but supply and demand in this pivotal group seemed about equalized. Small declines in Atchison general 4s, Chesapeake & Ohio refunding 4½s, Rock Island 4½s, New York Central 5s and the St. Louis and San Francisco obligations were offset by advances in Atlantic Coast Line first 4s, New Haven debenture 4s, Nickel Plate 5½s, Pennsylvania gold 5s, Northern Pacific general 3s and Reading general 4½s. Some of the speculative and semi-speculative rails were fairly strong. Adjustment income bonds advanced.

The liberal mixture of gains and losses was just as apparent in the industrials and utilities. New York Telephone general 4½s, Niagara Falls Power 5s, General Steel Castings 5½s and Allis Chalmers 5s lost about a point each, but numerous secondary issues in both groups made small gains.

Convertibles showed erratic fluctuations on the movement of stocks. Closing quotations were irregular with American Telephone 4½s off 3¾. International Telephone 4½s off 2¼, and Atchison 4½s off ¾, while American I. G. Chemical 5½s, Chicago & Northwestern 4¾s, Reading Coal & Iron 6s and the two Alleghany 5s moved up fractionally.

Trading in the foreign group was in small volume. Leading European government loans ruled steady and some of the South Americans advanced.

G. U. SEEKS SUCCESSOR AS LITTLE SIGNS WITH COLUMBIA; SCOTT WINS FROM VON PORAT ON FOUL IN SECOND ROUND

DEMPSEY, CONFUSED, STOPS FIGHT, AWARDS DECISION TO BRITON

Low Blow at Start of Round Sends Scott to Canvas.

Ex-Heavyweight King Gives Verdict Only After Parley.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Just a jolly bit of action crept into the situation, Phil Scott, the long, languid heavyweight pride of Great Britain, collapsed tonight from a low blow at the start of the second round and won his much ballyhooed match from the fierce-punching Otto Von Porat, of Norway and Chicago, on a foul.

Almost 17,000 of the faithful, drawn to the big battle palace to see a fight and simultaneously come to the aid of sweet charity, the Christmas fund, looked on in amazement as the sad-faced Norwegian opened the second round of a 12-round encounter with a sweeping left hook that toppled the tall Briton to the canvas in agony. The blow apparently was very low.

Dempsey Puzzled by Situation.

Not the least amazed of all the onlookers was Jack Dempsey, once the king of the heavyweights, tonight refereeing his first major bout. While Scott, his face twisted in pain, tpopled slowly like a tree undermined on a river bank, and Von Porat stood around looking very much dismayed. Dempsey made a confused effort to bring order out of chaos.

The Old Man Mauler, once the master of every situation in there where the going is rought and tough—and judgment must be swift, seemed hopelessly at sea. Dempsey first motioned Von Porat to continue, then rushed over to help the fallen Briton. Then with Von Porat's aid he carried Scott to his corner while the packed house, still stunned and unaware of the significance of it all, looked on in astonished silence.

The decision was not announced until Dempsey had consulted with a half dozen official-looking persons who crowded into the ring while the handlers of Scott grouped on one side of the former champion shouted "foul" and Von Porat's handlers shrieked "knockout" from the other. The round itself lasted only 25 seconds, but the confusion that followed left the decision in doubt for minutes.

Disappointing Ending of Promising Fight.

It was a most disappointing ending to a match that promised something in the way of fighting at the start, but succeeded finally in proving only that as far as troubles are concerned all referees are brothers under the skin. Tonight Dempsey found himself in just as troublesome and startling a situation as faced Dave Barry, another famous referee that exciting night in Chicago when the old Mauler fought Gene Tunney for the heavyweight crown.

From the ringside, it appeared that Dempsey had no desire to award the bout to Scott on a foul, but the actions of the Englishman, a picture of agony, left nothing else for him to do. Scott went down easily, but apparently a progressive foul had been inflicted for his pain increased steadily. He had to be half carried from the ring.

After examining the Briton in the dressing room later, Dr. Walker, of the New York Athletic Association, said there were "no objective signs of a foul" also he was careful to explain that such signs might develop later.

Battlers Appeared About Even Until End.

Up to the second round, the bout seemed promising with little to choose between the men. Von Porat opened the fray with a rush that seemed to promise an early ending as he banged a husky left hook to the tall, blonde, sad-faced Englishman's body. Phil fought off Otto's rushes, however, and was boxing superbly and in fine command of the situation when the first round ended.

The first punch of the second round did little to relieve the congestion among the entrants in the race for Gene Tunney's vacant heavyweight throne seat. The possibility appeared

PHIL SCOTT.

SCOTT SWOONS AND BECOMES WINNER

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Dec. 9.—Claiming to have been hit out of bounds and manifesting great pain, Fainting Phil Scott, the English heavyweight, went into his swoon within 30 seconds after the second round began in his exhibition with Otto Von Porat, the Norwegian, at the Garden this evening.

Jack Dempsey, who was gliding about the ring with sinuous grace in the gray uniform of a licensed New York referee by special permission of the prize fight commissioners, was adjusting his necktie in the reflection of one of the 18-karat brass ring posts at the instant of impact and, on turning about, was influenced by the first man he met. This chanced to be one Johnston, the manager for Fainting Phil Scott.

Ignoring the dramatic wallowings of his athlete, who lay on the floor flopping like a catfish on the bottom of a boat and emitting strange gutteral sounds, this Johnston immediately launched into an argument with Mr. Dempsey. And before any one from Von Porat's corner could break through this oJhnston's service to squak a word for the defense, Dempsey was convinced that Fainting Phil had been fouled and so ruled.

Bouts were Benefit—For Pugilists.

This was the extent of the action in the ain event of a progra of boxing atches produced to raise funds for the pugilists, for the impoverished stockholders of the Garden corporation, for the prize fighters and their managers, and, finally, for the Hearst fund to buy Christmas provisions for the poor families of New York.

Whitey Bimstein, of counsel for Von Porat, pleaded pathetically for a reopening of the case before Dempsey left the ring, arguing that the punch complained of might have been slightly southerly, but insisting that even so it was on the border of Fainting Phil's costume and square in the giblets.

"But," this Johnston yelled with partisan ardor, "Listen to that poor boy there on the floor. Listen to those groans."

"Groans, hell!" replied Mr. Bimstein. "Those are snores; remember he is an English heavyweight."

Punch Hit Fair and Rolled Foul, Maybe.

"Gentlemen! Gentlemen!" Mr Dempsey interposed. "Can't we talk this over dispassionately?"

"Oh, well," Mr. Bimstein said, turning abruptly away, "if you are going to bring sex into the matter, I will have nothing more to say."

Club Owners In Annual Meeting

Many Rumors of Big Trades as Baseball Chiefs Gather.

Heydler Still Thinks 10-Man Team Is Good Idea.

By BRIAN BELL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Some major league baseball players may have suffered from certain shortcomings during the last playing season, but they are quite all right now. Club owners of the National and American Leagues came to New York today for the annual league meetings tomorrow and most of them would like to do some baseball trading if it could be arranged to their advantage. Every player offered on the auction block is good, for three days there will be no poor players in either league.

The National and American Leagues will meet tomorrow and Wednesday with a joint meeting of the two majors Thursday.

There are indications that the major league season will be curtailed by a week and radio broadcasters may be asked not to bring their microphones with them when they attend the ball games.

Heydler Not to Press Ten-Man Idea.

John A. Heydler, president of the National League, still thinks his ten-man team idea a good one, but probably will not advocate it again since the clubs thought nine players were enough when it was brought up at the last annual meeting.

The possible trades to be developed at the meetings were only in the conversational stage tonight as the magnates and managers talked in hotel lobbies. Many of the men who will participate in the major league conferences have just come from a week with the minor leaguers at Chattanooga, and seed was sown there which may blossom to baseball fruit before the adjournment here.

Pitchers, always in demand, were sought by many of the major league clubs, and the market for catchers promised to be almost as active.

Report Transfers Morris To Yankees.

Big Ed Morris, the ace of the Boston Red Sox pitching staff, was reported about to move to the New York Yankees, but Bob Quinn, president of the Boston Club, declared he had not approved the transfer.

Dazzy Vance, who had an unsuccessful season last year and was bothered by ill health just as his $25,000 contract expired, was mentioned in connection with half a dozen clubs, including the Chicago Cubs, who were said to be willing to pay a large sum for the release of Burleigh Grimes by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Cincinnati was understood to be willing to offer attractive playing talent for Larry Benton, Giant pitcher, who slumped last season after a great campaign in 1928. His home town is in Redland. Cincinnati also made an offer to St. Louis for Frankie Frisch, opening the overtures without a smile. Washington may be asked about the possibility of a trade for Goslin.

Bill Carrigan's Status Held Doubtful.

There were stories as the meetings were about to open that Bill Carrigan was tired of managing the Boston Red Sox and might retire, but no suggestions as to the shoulders to be draped with the Carrigan mantle if the Maine banker leaves baseball were forthcoming.

The Chicago White Sox and Philadelphia Nationals were at home to any major league club having catchers to sell or trade.

Wilbert Robinson, storm center of Brooklyn's civil war, arrived from the hunting fields of Georgia but no meeting of the Brooklyn directors was held today. The big manager's contract has expired but it was understood he would remain as president since a deadlock between the Robinson and anti-Robinson forces in the board of directors probably would preclude any possibility of another executive being named.

Celtic Franchise Lost In Pro Court League

New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The franchise of the New York Celtics in the American Professional Basketball League was declared forfeited by officials of the circuit tonight.

The announcement was made by J. J. O'Brien, president of league. Mr. O'Brien said the league had under consideration applications from two cities, one in the West and one in the East, for New York franchise. He declined to state what cities were seeking membership, but said definite action would be taken within a few days. In the event neither application is granted, the league will operate as a seven club circuit, with franchises held in Paterson, Syracuse, Rochester, Brooklyn, Cleveland, Chicago and Fort Wayne.

Campbell Not to Compete In Intercity Bowling Series

Grand Palace's Invitation to National Singles Champion Withdrawn for Matches With Connecticut Team.

By R. J. ATKINSON.

HOWARD CAMPBELL, national singles champion and former national all-events champion, will not participate in the intercity duckpin matches between the Grand Palace Valet Shop and Connecticut All-Star teams at Stamford, Conn., on December 28 and here on January 4, it was learned last night. The invitation extended to Campbell to roll with the Valetmen and to meet the New England star, Jack White, in singles matches, will be withdrawn within the next few days.

The King Pin star's services were enlisted by Leo Rinaldi, of the Valetmen, last week when arrangements for the intercity singles, doubles and team matches were scheduled with the Connecticut pinmen.

A recent statement attributed to Campbell, declaring that the Grand Palace Team should be strengthened for the intercity matches and that Bernie Frye, a King Pin teammate of Campbell, should be injected into the line-up, is understood to have caused a breach between members of the Valet Shop Team and the King Pin star.

Successor to Campbell Not Decided Upon.

Whether or not another outstanding star will be enlisted to fill the berth temporarily assigned to Campbell has not been determined. Manager Rinaldi may rely on his regular National Capital League line-up entirely in the team event.

Maxie Rosenberg, regular anchor of the team and captain of the Temple Team of the District League, is slated to replace Campbell in the singles matches with White.

Should Rinaldi decide to enlist the services of another star outside of the Valet Team ranks to replace Campbell in the team line-up, it is probable that Red Megaw, Rosenberg's running mate at the Northeast Temple Alleys, will get the call.

Rinaldi may decide to carry on with his regular league team, which has set the pace in the National Capital League and boasts an average around 580 per game. This squad includes Paulie Harrison, Jack Wolstenholme, Ollie Pacini, Rosenberg, Tony Santini, Joe Harrison, Rinaldi and Popkins. The first four named have been definitely chosen to face the New England Team. Rinaldi is undecided who will fill the fifth position.

Rosenberg May Roll in Singles And Doubles.

Rosenberg was originally assigned to roll in the doubles matches with either Jack Wolstenholme or Paulie Harrison as his partner. It is probable that the same plan will be followed unless Maxie thinks the fifteen-game route too severe. It is likely that Paulie and Jack will shoot in the two-man affair if Maxie rolls the singles sets.

240,000 Have Watched Carnegie Tech Eleven

Special to The Washington Post.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 9.—More than 240,000 persons have already witnessed the colorful Carnegie Tech Team in their eight contests this year, according to figures gleaned from newspaper accounts of the Tartan games. This does not include the coming Southern California contest to be played in Los Angeles December 14. Inasmuch as more than 70,000 persons are expected to be present on that occasion, the total for the entire season will go well over the 300,000 mark.

The attendance figures for some of the Tartan's chief games were as follows: Notre Dame, 68,000; Pitt, 55,000; New York University, 55,000; W. & J., 30,000, and Washington U., 20,000.

Johnny Risko Wins From Ernie Schaaf

Cleveland, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, staged a comeback in the last three rounds of his battle with Ernie Schaaf, of Boston, here tonight and won Referee Kid McPartland's decision at the end of the twelve rounds.

Marty Gallagher Wins Bout From Hoffman

Madison Square Garden, New York, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Marty Gallagher, Washington, D. C. heavyweight, pounded out a decision over George Hoffman, former national amateur champion, in the first 10-round bout tonight on the Christmas fund card featuring Phil Scott and Otto Von Porat. Hoffman weighed 190, Gallagher 194. There were no knockdowns.

PRO GOLFERS RESPECT WOOD

Jerseyite Given Good Chance to Win at Agua Caliente.

AGUA CALIENTE, Baja California, Mexico, Dec. 9.—Two years ago Craig Wood, young New Jersey professional, was practically unheard of in the golfing world at large but today he ranks as one of the leading young players who have been developed in America over the last five years. The 1928 season found Wood coming into his own and he has started strong this new winter season, pushing Horton Smith, the sensational Joplin, Mo., youngster, in every fray and beating him home in the recent Hawaiian open.

Wood will be dangerous in the Agua Caliente open, the richest golf tournament in the world with its $10,000 first money and total prize award of $25,000 which will be held over our new course here January 14, 15, 16 and 17. A sound golfer, he is fast getting needed experience and is the type that might come through with sub-par rounds at any stage of the tournament to go well in front of the field.

Already Has Won Hawaiian Open Event.

Already this season Wood has won the Hawaiian open; he won his district qualifying round for the championship of the Professional Golfers Association; he won the Oklahoma open; was third in the Lannin memorial tournament and led the field in the New Jersey P. G. A. one-day tournament with a 68.

Last year Wood won the Pasadena open of 36 holes with 138; he finished ninth in the Metropolitan open and qualified third in the Metropolitan P. G. A., going to the final round where he lost to Gene Sarazen, and won the New Jersey P. G. A.

Woerner, Purdue Star, Injured in Explosion

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—W. C. Woerner, of Indianapolis, end on the Purdue University football team last season, was injured today in a heating plant explosion at Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity house here. He was taken to a hospital where it was said he had been cut by flying bits of steel and scalded by hot water.

Part of the fraternity house, where Woerner lived was wrecked by the blast, believed to have been caused by a plugged steam gauge. W. H. Schlender, another member of the fraternity, was slighty injured.

DE LUXE FIVE PLAYS.

De Luxe Five will meet the Stewart Bros. Team tonight at 8:30 at the Central High Gym. Hook, Fisher, May, Ruppert, Dougherty, Mansuy, Hall and Highel are asked to report at the gym at that time. De Luxe would like a game with some 145-pound opponent for Thursday night. Call Manager Mansuy, Lincoln 8333-W.

Shires, Baseball's Bad Boy, Stops His Foe in 21 Seconds

By CHARLES W. DUNKLEY.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The bell rang for the start of a fight and exactly 21 seconds later, Charles Arthur "the great" Shires, belligerent first sacker for the White Sox, stood in the center of the ring, victorious in the first fight he ever was paid for, and with dangerous Dan Daly, stretched on the floor of the ring, flat on his face, completely knocked out.

Shires, made his debute as a professional fist fighter, knocked out Daly, a blond-baired youth from Cleveland, so quickly and convincingly, that the crowd which jammed the little white city arena was standing on its feet, screaming with the excitement of the spectacular knockout.

The fight, comical though it was, was fought with the savageness of a couple of long shoremen. The great Shires his body trim and lean, began throwing punches as soon as the bell rang, with Daly doing the same thing. They stood in mid-ring, hammering each other about the head, until Shires cut loose with a short right cross to the chin that knocked Daly silly.

Daly's Knees Sag As He Falls.

Daly's knees sagged as he turned halfway around, then fell flat on his face, while Eddie Purdy began the fatal 10-count. As seven was tolled off, Daly attempted to get up, but after raising himself on his hands, fell back on his face.

Daly is a Cleveland youngster who never before had a professional fight until tonight. He came into the ring accompanied by Eddie Meade, a veteran manager, who once handled the affairs of Joe Lynch when the latter was bantamweight champion.

Shires, surprised at the sudden knockout, stood bewildered, then picked up his fallen foe and lugged him to his corner, where he was revived. Shires and his opponent fought like a couple of amateurs, showing no boxing skill, no preliminary training or other tricks of the trade. They just stood and slugged, and neither stopped throwing punches until Daly landed on his face.

Shires Confident as a Champion.

Shires came into the ring as confident as a champion. He wore a guady bath robe and gaudier black tights with a red silk sash.

Shires spotted his opponent 27 pounds, scaling 185, to 212 for Daly.

The battle drew a capacity crowd, who came out to see baseball's loud speaker make his professional ring debut. The trong included several baseball players and followers, including Lou Barbor, traveling secretary of the White Sox, who went to Lena Blackburne's aid when Blackburne, manager of the Sox, was attempting to subdue Shires in a fight in a Philadelphia hotel room last summer.

Barbor, in the role of a peacemaker, nearly had a finger bitten off, but he does not know whether Blackburne or Shires did the biting.

Iowa U. Head Assailed by Alumnus

Chicago Judge Asks Probe in Expulsion From Big Ten.

Alumni Rebuffed by President Jessup, Is Charge.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Rumblings of an alumni revolt against the present administration of the University of Iowa because of conditions in its athletic department, which resulted in the ouster from the Western Conference, grew louder and more ominous today.

Superior Court Judge M. L. McKinley, of Chicago, former head of the Iowa Alumni Association, touched off a bombshell by openly attacking President Walter Jessup and requesting the Iowa State Board of Education to investigate not only the athletic department but also the "cause of dissension and discord that has existed in departments of the university other than athletics."

"It is now time for the alumni to speak out," Judge McKinley said. "The ouster of Iowa is no longer an athletic matter. It ceases to be exclusively a university matter. It now becomes a matter that affects by reflection every alumnus of the university wherever located, as well as every citizen of the State of Iowa, whose taxes support that great institution."

Ever since the Western Conference faculty committee voted last May to sever athletic relations with the Hawkeyes, effective January 1, many Iowa alumni have been condemning the actions of President Jessup, whom they charged with "bungling" the matter. But until today, none of Judge McKinley's power in alumni matters has come forth publicly with a statement to that effect.

McKinley Not to Appear Before Board.

Judge McKinley said he did not intend to go before the meeting of the Iowa State Board of Education at Council Bluffs, Iowa, tomorrow or any other time or place to explain his charges.

George T. Baker, chairman of the board, said Judge McKinley's statement would be considered if presented, and that the board would cooperate "to clean up the situation."

Judge McKinley condemned the action of the Western Conference committee in calling in conference athletic directors in the discussion of Iowa's reinstatement plea, insisting it was like a judge asking a prosecuting attorney for his assistance and moral support in helping him find the defendant guilty. Any one familiar with Western Conference affairs knew that Iowa's case was hopeless under those conditions, he said.

"But at no time did the authorities ask the alumni for advice in the matter," he added. "Once some very good advice was proffered by alumni, but it was unmistakably resented."

Judge McKinley explained he had no brief with Dr. Paul Belting, former Iowa athletic director, but insisted "that all ills that have flowed from the athletic department during the last ten years can not justly be charged either to Dr. Belting or 'hard-boiled alumni' as referred to by President Jessup."

Alumni Rebuffed by President Jessup.

"Three years ago, a majority of the alumni chapters in Iowa, the Chicago chapter and others throughout the United States joined in a request to President Jessup to select some one of his choosing to replace Belting as director of athletics and a meeting of representatives of the various chapters of alumni was called at Des Moines—to which the president and athletic board were invited—to discuss the muddled athletic situation. But to the surprise and affront of the alumni, instead of accepting the invitation, the authorities at Iowa City called a hurried meeting two days before our meeting and reengaged Dr. Belting, thus defeating the purpose of the alumni whose only desire was to offer assistance in a matter that was then breeding discord and dissension and that today has resulted in the ouster of Iowa from the Western Conference."

President Jessup had one ardent and powerful supporter among the Chicago alumni ranks, however, in Rush Butler, former president of the Chicago alumni chapter and attorney. Butler said President Jessup was without censure in the entire affair and said he was one of the outstanding university presidents of the country.

State Board to Consider Attack on Iowa U. Head

Davenport, Iowa, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—George T. Baker, chairman of the State board of education, said today the board would give the statement of Superior Judge M. L. McKinley, of Chicago, consideration if it was presented at the meeting in Council Bluffs tomorrow.

The McKinley statement accused President Walter Jessup, of the university, of being responsible for Iowa's trouble with the Big Ten.

Other board members indicated they held Dr. Jessup in high esteem and discounted the McKinley charges.

William R. Boyd, chairman of the board's finance committee, and Mrs. James Devitt, of Oskaloosa, called President Jessup "one of the greatest presidents in the United States."

G. U. to Make Decision On Boxing Team Soon

Decision on whether Georgetown is to be represented in intercollegiate boxing will be made within a few days. There has been some doubt concerning the continuance of the Blue and Gray in fistic competition. As far as is known, only one meet has been scheduled, that with Army on February 15, which will be staged in Washington.

NEW GRIDIRON COACH AT HILLTOP WILL BE NAMED WITHIN MONTH

eDparting Mentor Is Paid Tribute; Seek Sports Manager.

By JACK ESPEY.

A SUCCESSOR to Lou Little as head football coach at Georgetown University will be named within a month or six weeks, it was indicated yesterday at Hilltop, following announcement that Little had resigned to become head coach at Columbia University in New York City.

The position of athletic director and football coach has been abandoned with the resignation of Little and Georgetown hereafter will have two men to handle the duties Little performed for six years. The separate office of graduate manager of athletics probably will be filled within two weeks, it was said, and for that purpose the Georgetown athletic board will meet in special session some time this week.

Numerous names of candidates for the two positions have been filed with Georgetown authorities and include some that have not been mentioned thus far. No indication as likely appointees could be gained yesterday and it is believed that no set opinion in favor of certain eligibles has been formed by members of the athletic board, which is composed of three students, three alumni residing in Washington, and three faculty members.

Those known to be under consideration for the coaching job are Mike Palm, Herb Kopf and John DaGrossa, who have assisted Little during the past four years. The names of Jim McNamara, Eddie Brooks and Harry Connaughton, former Georgetown players, also have been reported advanced by interested alumni, the first two being regarded candidates for the graduate managership, and the latter the coaching position.

Little's resignation will take effect on December 31 and he will remain at the Hilltop through the month of January to aid his successors in office. He will take up his duties at Columbia on February 1. Tonight in New York City he will attend the annual banquet of the Columbia "C" Club, at which he will meet the football players whom he will direct next year.

G. U. Regrets Departure Of Little.

At the Hilltop yesterday every one expressed regret at Little's leaving, but in the same breath all gave him their best wishes for success in his new sphere. Prominent alumni proposed a farewell testimonial to him, but he modestly vetoed the idea.

In a written statement, Georgetown extolled Little as a sportsman, coach and a fine fellow. The statement, in part, follows:

"All Georgetown men recognize Lou Little's value to Georgetown. They realize that, so far as football is concerned, the Blue and Gray has become a national figure under his guidance. Year in and year out during his regime, Georgetown has not been consistently outranked by any college in the country.

"Skilled in the tecnique of the game, remarkable in his ability to impart knowledge to others, with a dynamic personality and a forceful character, he has made the ideal coach, and Georgetown men realize that he has been much more than a coach—he has been a character-builder. His interest and effort for his boys did not begin and end with campus activities, but followed them into all their school duties and extra-curriculum affairs. As an instance of his zeal, he had daily reports submitted to him regarding class attendance and progress in studies of all those participating in athletes, and he established and maintained special classes outside of regular school hours for athletes who were weak in scholastic standing."

Little Held in High Esteem At Hilltop.

"Little's character and personality counted much for Georgetown as a contact officer with other institutions. New and valuable relationships have been established, and old

LOU LITTLE.

Columbia Post Will Net Little $18,000 Salary

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Columbia University announced here today that Lou Little, head football coach at Georgetown University since 1924, has signed a contract to coach the Lions Football Team for the next season. Little will succeed Charles Crowley, who resigned at the end of this season after a five-year tenure as head mentor.

The official statement as given out by Columbia read that Little had signed for "next season," but it is believed that his contract calls for a three-year regime.

Little had been recently quoted as saying that he would not agree to any thing less than a three-year offer. A coach of Little's reputation could certainly afford to hold out for a three-year provision in a contract, it is believed here.

Only Man Considered, Says Statement.

While no salary was mentioned, Little, it is reported on good authority, will receive $18,000 a year, a figure which will make him one of the highest paid football coaches in the land.

The statement released by the Columbia authorities was as follows: "The Columbia University Athletic Association announces that Lou Little has been engaged as head coach for next season. A star tackle on the University of Pennsylvania Eleven in 1918 and 1919, he has since coached with remarkable success. It was only after very careful and painstaking study of the coaching field that the Columbia athletic authorities decided that Little was the most desirable man for the position.

"He was the only coach with whom negotiations were conducted. He will begin his duties after the Christmas holidays."

Preakness Date Announced As Friday, May 9.

Tomorrow night Little will attend the annual Varsity C Club dinner at the Columbia University Club, where he will meet personally all the members of the Lions varsity team.

Little was first mentioned as a possible successor to Crowley the day after Thanksgiving.

The report lacked official confirmation, but when it was learned that he would not return to Georgetown for 1930, and later that he had refused the offer of Pennsylvania, his alma mater, his leaning toward Columbia "gave" him the job as far as the observers and the Columbia campus were concerned.

Little entered Penn in 1915 and was mentioned as all-America tackle in 1916. The next two years found him with the A. E. F first as a lieutenant and later as a captain. He came back to the University of Pennsylvania in 1919 and was again honored as an all-America tackle. In 1920 he coached and played with the Buffalo All-Americans. From 1921 to

APACHE AND CELTIC ELEVENS CLASH HERE SUNDAY

Rivals Agree On Eligibles For Game

Alexandrians to Use Same Players Who Beat Hawks.

Mohawks Will Meet Irvington Sunday in Baltimore.

THE Alexandria-Washington sandlot football feud, which has reached fever heat in the last three weeks, will again flare up Sunday, when the Apaches, District champions, will meet the St. Mary's Celtics, winners over the Mohawks, at Griffith Stadium, starting at 2:30 o'clock. The last bars to the big inter-city game were removed last night when Managers Hall and Corbett came to an agreement on eligibility and the Mohawks relinquished their right to the use of the park.

After a discussion that threatened to end negotiations for the game, Hall agreed to meet the Celtics, with the proviso that the Alexandria eleven use only those players who played against the Mohawks last Sunday. In accepting those terms, the Celtics added that they would use only those players and that they would guarantee to beat the Apaches.

Mohawks to Play In Baltimore.

While the Apaches and Celtics are clashing here, the Mohawks will be playing in Baltimore. Manager Patsy Donovan was in Baltimore last night closing with the Irvington Club.

There was a popular demand for a game between the Apaches and the Celtics which first was apparent following the Celtics' first game against the Hawks in which the Alexandria team lost, 7 to 6. Now that both teams have defeated the Mohawks, Sunday's clash should rival the Mohawk-Apache contest for interest.

The Apaches are likely to enter the contest slight favorites over the Alexandrians. The Apaches have won all of their games this year and last Sunday defeated the Irvington Club of Baltimore by 6 to 0.

Alexandria Team Improves.

While the Celtics' record is not as imposing, the Alexandria eleven, coached by Rube Layman, former Virginia U. lineman, has been building up throughout the season and will be strongly backed by their home town.

The Celtics came out of last Sunday's game in good shape with only Dick Allen, star half back, ailing. Trainer Fiddesop expects to have Allen ready for practice by Thursday night. Tom Farrell is the only Apache on the hospital list. He was injured in the Mohawk game and did not play in Baltimore last Sunday.

Women Court Officials Hold Meeting Tonight

All members of the Washington Board of Women's Basket Ball Officials, those wishing to take the examination to become members, and coaches of all girls' schools in the city and vicinity, are requested to attend a meeting of the organization tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A., Seventeenth and K streets northwest. Candidates for membership who are unable to attend this meeting are requested to communicate with the president of the board, Mrs. Lawrence Haugens, at the Boulevard Apartments.

Boys' Club Will Weigh Court Players Tonight

Basket ball players who will play in the Boys' Club basket ball leagues will be weighed in tonight and tomorrow night at the Boys' Club, Third and C streets northwest, starting at 7:15 o'clock. Tonight, boys in the 130, 115, 100 and 85 pound classes will be weighed, and boys in the 145-pound class will be weighed tomorrow. Tomorrow night a meeting of the 145-pound and unlimited managers will be held. The Boys' Club has arranged its leagues this year to correspond with the weights in the District A. A. U. championship tournament. Superintendent F. V. Thomson, of the Boys' Club, is allowing boys to be within 2 or 3 pounds of the weight for their class. The leagues will open next week.

G. U. Tossers to Use Court at Tech High

Georgetown University has secured the use of the Tech High School Gymnasium to play the rest of its basket ball games this season. The Blue and Gray will meet Baltimore University on the Tech court Saturday night for the first time. The contest with St. John's, of Annapolis, previously announced for Wednesday night, has been canceled.

Coach Bill Dudack sent his charges through a strenuous workout yesterday in an effort to gear them up to their fast pace of a year ago. They gave a somewhat disappointing performance last Saturday night in their opening game against Gettysburg.

Some changes in the line-up are probable, but Dudack wasn't ready last night to announce them. Meenan, forward, and Dillon, center, who played regularly a year ago, did not start against Gettysburg, but went into the contest before the first half was up and helped in a drive that came within three points of tying the score.

HAMLINE FIVE WINS.

In a spirited game last night in Hamline Church Gym the Hamline quintet defeated the Ramblers, 33 to 20. Good team work featured the victors' attack.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FIRE PROOF, $14.80, $5.00, $4.30; WITCHMOUNT, $3.20, $2.90; SANDY LADY, $7.50.

FIRE PROOF, well ridden, was rated back of the pace to stretch, where he came to outside and, taking lead, won going away. WITCHMOUNT broke fast, had speed, but weakened at end. SANDY LADY ran a winning race from where she got away. Off in a tangle she worked her way up and finished with a rush. COLONEL SETH had a world of speed, but tired fast in stretch. OSSIE H. was running strong at the end.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 2:54. Off at 2:55. Winner, Mrs. A. Miller's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—RAGUS, $23.40, $9.00, $6.50; THE DAGO, $4.90, $4.30; ZURICH, 3.80.

RAGUS sprinted to the front and, showing excellent speed, won all the way. THE DAGO broke slowly, but worked his way up and finished fast. ZURICH was kept close up all the way and ran a good race. BORBOUN, in close quarters early, closed fast when clear. STORMY PORT tired badly after following the pace to the stretch.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000. The Gently. For 2-year-olds. Start bad. Won galloping; place, driving. Went to post at 3:20. Off at 3:23. Winner, Three D's Stock Farm's blk. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SOUTHLAND BOY, $10.20, $6.50, $3.70; HAYMAKER, 14.80, 12.90; WEST WIND, $2.50.

SOUTHLAND BOY, showing marked improvement, trailed far off the pace, came around leaders in stretch and, drawing away, won easily. HAYMAKER rushed to the front, set a fast pace and held on gamely. WEST WIND broke well, was kept in deep going for seven furlongs, then tired badly in stretch. QUIBBLER, well up all the way, had no excuse. BARITONE closed a big sap and is rounding into condition.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:15. Off at 4:16½. Winner, E. McCuan's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PUNKIE, $6.00, $3.80, $2.50; JOHN T. D., $7.40, $3.40; NANCY BYRD, $4.70.

PUNKIE was taken wide going to first turn, moved up fast in run down back stretch, closed gamely and won in last stride. JOHN T. D. moved up very fast around turn and held on gamely. NANCY BYRD ran into early lead, showed good speed and tired. HAPPY HANLEY could not improve his position. BASHFUL BEAU finished with a rush. ERIN GO BRAGH ran a bad race, being outrun from the start.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:44. Off at 4:44½. Winner, W. V. Casey's br. g. LETTER SIX, going in much improved form, came around field on turn, took lead and won going away. BILL HARE ran a good race. CISFIELD was kept in deep going all the way. LAST CENT had no mishaps.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT R. COLLYER

MORE picklers! Your old Uncle Bertram, who, by the way, has been stepping high, wide and handsome lately, tabbed four good ones for the faithful at Jeff Park Saturday and right now it looks like he is going to do fully as well this aft at the same track. As may have been mentioned before, I am no green hand—have ridden on L trains and eaten chop suey and, by this same token, have a faculty of landing on a few eagle birds once in a while. The one for today goes in the final heat and is none other than KEYDET, which has not raced since Maryland closed. This thing positively adores the mud, has class and will be a juicy price. Now wot more do you want? True, SPANISH ASTER and WATCH THE TIME figure close, but that is what is going to help the price. Get me?

For the initial scuffle, which is a selling affair for 2-year-olds at six furlongs, I am handing you what I believe is a genuine good thing—BY PRODUCT. This youngster can lug the weight and is consistent. The contender is ULTIMATE VOTE and Flying Ambassador may find himself to be third.

SIMON KENTON looks like a spread in the second and it seems just a question of how far in front he will be.

The feature event, if you care to call it that, is the Tulane Handicap in which the good EXTREME has been asked to lug 120 pounds. Despite this heavy package, this 7-year-old star is entitled to a three point call over GOLDMINT, which finished right behind EXTREME last out. UNCOMMON GOLD for what is left.

SANFORD, a bang-up second in his last trip to the barrier, should improve off that effort and come home on the chin strap in the sixth GOLDEN ARROW is sure to receive some support and ALTO cannot be completely overlooked, but I cannot see anything but SANFORD in front at the finish. Up and at 'em.

ALL-STARS VICTORIOUS.

The Southeast All-Stars defeated the Southern Preps, 30 to 4, at the Hine Junior High Gymnasium last night. Whitely and Body starred for the winners.

EAGLES OPEN SEASON ON DEC. 17

D. C. Independent Titleholders Play Baltimore Pros.

THE Skinker Bros. Eagles, District independent basket ball champions for the past five years, will make their debut of the present campaign next Tuesday in the 104th Regiment Armory at Baltimore against the newly organized Baltimore pro outfit.

Practice sessions have been in progress on Wednesday and Thursday nights at the University of Maryland Gym for several weeks. Jim Birthright, erstwhile American U. court star, has been signed to jump center this season.

Few Changes in Personnel.

Joe Sweeney, Jack Faber, Morris Clark, Bert Thompson and Ralph Bennie, all prominent cogs in the title teams of past years, are back in the fold, and Alton Buscher, who starred with the Washington Grays last season, is also in line for a job with the Eagles.

The loss of the Congress Heights gym has left the Eagles without a home floor at present. Manager Bernie Peacock hopes to secure a gym within the next week. Lack of a home floor has delayed the schedule making of Peacock.

Malseed Is Victor In 3-Cushion Event

J. S. Malseed last night defeated J. F. Fairbanks, 35 to 25, in the handicap 3-cushion billiard tournament being staged at Elmer's Parlors, 1719 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Eleven are competing and several are bunched around the top of the heap.

In tonight's match, E. C. Johnson will cross cues with John Ruppert.

Washington Grays Play As Woltz This Season

The Woltz Photographers will be represented on the court this year by members of the Washington Grays, winners of the A. A. U. title of the District of last year.

The photographers will open their season tonight in Central High School, when they meet the Army Medical Center quint of Walter Reed in a contest that should prove very interesting as the Medical Five won their last encounter from Co. F, of Hyattsville, by a profitable margin.

On Thursday night, a Community Center League game will be staged in Central High School, in which the photographers will meet the Mount Vernon Five. A game is also pending for Friday night with the Knights of Columbus quint, of Cumberland, Md., at Cumberland.

Manager Fones will still book all games and can be reached at National 6740, Branch 937 or Georgia 4716. The following players report at 8:30 o'clock tonight: MacDonald, Banta, Buscher, Forney, T. Peck, Wright, Dean, Scruggs, Fones, Swift, Harrington and Scheckles.

Driver, Ingram to Speak At G. W. Fete Tonight

Jimmy Driver, University of Virginia director of athletics, will share with Commander "Bill" Ingram, of the Naval Academy, the honor of being the principal speaker at the athletic banquet of the George Washington University tonight at the Mayflower Hotel. The affair, which is announced as the celebration of the opening of a new era of sports at G. W., will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. Samuel Herrick, prominent local attorney and last president of the Alumni Association of George Washington, will act as toastmaster.

James E. Pixlee, George Washington director of athletics, will discuss the new program in effect at the school and will announce the 1930 football schedule of the Colonials. A feature of the program will be the awarding of athletic insignias to the members of the varsity and freshmen football teams of the past season.

President Marvin, Dean Hodgkins, Provost Wilbur and the deans of the various schools as well as many members of the faculty, will be present.

29 Hilltop Gridmen To Be Awarded Letters

Twenty-nine Georgetown football players will receive the coveted school letter in reward for their gridiron service the past season, it was learned yesterday at the Hilltop. The Gs will be awarded formally next spring at the annual athletic fete. Manager Alton Lessard also will receive the letter.

Eight of the letter winners will return next fall. They are Johnny Scalzi, quarter back; Ed Leary, Bill Maczees and Johnny Bozek, half backs; Leroy Bordeau, full back; Bob Brennan, end; Gene Driscoll, guard, and Bill Morris, center. The others, all of whom are due to graduate in June, are Capt. Jim Mooney, Paul Liston and John Eckert, tackles; Sam Cordovano, Joe Murphy, Ken Baldwin, Charley Walsh and Dave Muir, guards; Harold Wynkoop and Bill Zimowski, centers; Ken Provincial, Bill Mooney, Ben Schmid, Bob Gehringer, Harold Meenan and Gabriel Murphy, ends; Joe Gardner, quarter back; Phil Mooney, Johnny Hannigan and Johnny Hudak, half backs, and Steve Barabas, full back.

Election of a captain for the 1930 eleven will be held Thursday. Scalzi and Morris are said to be leading candidates for the honor.

COLUMBIA ANNOUNCES SIGNING OF LOU LITTLE

1923 he coached the Philadelphia Yellow Jackets.

Hilltop Teams Noted For Line Play.

He began his regime at Georgetown in 1924 as head football coach. The following year he was named athletic director in addition to his football duties. Little became exceedingly popular at the Hilltop institution, where his teams were consistently successful. In five years he has won 37 games and lost eleven. His teams were noted for their line strength and power on the attack, his 1928 eleven showing a surprise by beating N. Y. U. by 7 to 2, and his 1929 team repeated that verdict with a 14-to-0 triumph over the Violet.

The coach of Columbia for 1930 will not enter a completely black situation. Capt. Malcolm Bleecker, tackle; James Campbell, center; Phil Lifander, quarter back, and Art Hill, end, have been lost to the team, but the star sophomore aggregation will be on hand, and several of this year's crop of freshmen bear signs of promise.

For his back field, Little will have Ralph Hewitt, Harry Scott, Don Mosher, Earl Carlsten, Joe Stanczyk, Jim Sheridan, Charles Joyce, Rube Hall, Haskon Gulbransen and half a dozen more—which means that he will have a reasonably able squad of backs.

The line situation offers a serious problem. Remy Tys appears as the only outstanding veteran.

Columbia Handicapped by Limited Material.

Columbia men believe that Little has the personality and the skill to make a success of his regime. However, the same old trouble of limited material which has handicapped other Columbia mentors may give Little cause for worry. The Blue and White has always stressed its refusal to award athletic scholarships. A good first team, but few capable substitutes, has been the situation at Baker Field for several years.

The Lions' 1929 record follows:
Columbia, 33; Middlebury, 0.
Columbia, 31; Union, 0.
Columbia, 52; Wesleyan, 0.
Columbia, 0; Dartmouth, 34.
Columbia, 33; Williams, 0.
Columbia, 6; Cornell, 12.
Columbia, 0; Colgate, 33.
Columbia, 0; Penn, 20.
Columbia, 0; Syracuse, 6.

that Von Porat and Scott would be rematched to start their part of the eliminations all over again before a rival is chosen for Jack Sharkey in the second annual battle of the palms at Miami, Fla., next February. There seemed also the chance that this pair might stage its returne engagement at the Southern winter playground.

Official attendance at the match was announced as 16,912 and the total receipts $92,705. At least half of this sum will be devoted to the Christmas fund, of which Mrs. William Randolph Hearst is chairman.

In a twelve-round semifinal staged after the main bout, Maxie Rosenbloom won the decision over Yale Okun in a fast, rough go. Both are among the four original nominees of the New York State Athletic Commission named to battle for recognition here as the new light heavyweight champion. Rosenbloom weighed 172½; Okun, 170¾.

MOONEY, G.U., TO PLAY ON COAST

Grid Captain Second Hilltop Player to Be Invited.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Three more crack Eastern college football players today joined the East squad being organized by Andy Kerr Colgate, coach. They are Capt. Bud Edwards, triple threat half back, of Brown; Capt. Mooney, of Georgetown, a tackle, and Neil Stahley, Penn State end.

With the addition of these men, Kerr said his East squad was practically complete. Players will be assembled at Evanstown, Ill., at the end of the week, and joined by a group selected from Middle Western schools by Dick Hanley, Northwestern coach.

Jim Mooney, Georgetown football captain and tackle, last night awaited decision of Hilltop authorities on his request for leave to join the Eastern all-star squad scheduled to play a game for charity on the coast. Following receipt of an invitation from Andy Kerr, in charge of the Eastern group, Mooney made plans to depart on Friday.

Mooney is the second Georgetown player sought for this annual game during the past three years. Claude Grigsby, center and captain of the 1927 team, was the first, and he played.

friendships have been renewed. This result has been shown in the schedules, which, of late years, have been more important and attractive than ever in the history of Georgetown. Lou Little is one of the most popular figures in the athletic circles of the country, and has been honored by selection for leading committees in the big athletic conferences. These distinctions have, Georetown men feel, brought added glory to their alma mater. And, above everything else, he had always impressed his men with the idea that clean play is more important than success, with the result that Georgetown has been synonomous with true sportmanship.

Georgetown has never experienced a losing football season under Little. Only once has a Hilltop Eleven dropped as many as three games in a single campaign. In 1924, Little's first year at the Hilltop, the Blue and Gray lost to the Quantico Marines, Pennsylvania and Fordham. Only eight games have been lost since then, as follows: 1925, Bucknell; 1926, Navy and West Virginia; 1927, Syracuse; 1928, Carnegie Tech and Detroit; 1929, Western Maryland and Detroit.

PHIL SCOTT SWOONS AND WINS CONTEST

Some of the customers thought Fainting Phil was fouled and some thought the punch hit fair and rolled foul, but one and all of the large attendance, of whom there were nigh onto 20,000, including all who remain solvent of the once brave band of Tex Rickard's best people of the ringside, were just as well pleased as they would have been at a fair punch.

Fainting Philip took off as though from a springboard over a 10-foot pool, described a parabolic flight and came

BUSINESS FIVE BRILLIANT IN ROUTING STRAYER

Stenogs Win 4th in Row, 50 to 14

Woodworth's Team Leads From Start to Romp Home.

Newman, Lucas Play Great Games to Easily Star.

THOSE Business High School basket ball players of Coach Lynn S. Woodworth are going to bear a lot of watching this year. That is, if they continue the brilliant brand of play which they have flashed in their first four games resulting in the same number of victories.

Exhibiting probably their best form so far yesterday, they completely put to rout a Strayer College five which had previously extended Central's tossers to the limit, burying their opponents under a 50-14 score in the gym at the Business school. The Strayer Team never had a look-in, and, starting from the very outset, the Stenogs piled up basket after basket to boast of a 26 to 6 advantage at half time.

In keeping their record spotless, the Orange tossers flashed a sensational passing attack with each of the players forming an essential link of a chain which never seemed weak. Although it is rumored that Business teams always can run wild in the Ninth street gymnasium, it is doubtful if any District school five could have stopped the stenogs from rolling up the score yesterday.

Newman and Lucas Flashy Pair.

In Nate Newman and Pete Lucas, forwards, Woodworth seems to have about as smooth a scoring combination as has been his fortune to possess for some time. While having time to score 14 and 13 points, respectively, each of the pair exhibited unusual skill in passing the ball to their teammates yesterday and were not satisfied with the making double-deckers all alone. Loftus and Singman, starting guards, also fitted in perfectly with the team, and their part in feeding the ball to Newman and Lucas led to the making of many of the two-pointers. Incidentally Loftus' one-hand shot while off balance was one of the features of the game.

Spencer Chase, center, moreover, seems to be one of the chief reasons why the team is functioning as it is. His constant ability to get the "tap" from his opponent gives his team an inestimable advantage, although for the first few minutes yesterday his mates were slow to seize the opportunity. Although unable to get his eye on the basket throughout the first quarter, Chase soon got "hot" on the loop and before the day was over had registered five field goals and two foul throws for an additional twelve points to his team's total.

Second-Stringers Also Perform Well.

With the opportunity at hand, Woodworth sent in a second team of regulars during the game and all performed creditably. Sam Levy, a fighting lad if there ever was one, had not been in the game two minutes before putting the ball through the net for two points, while Fred Finley, hurriedly changing from a cadet captain's uniform into a basket ball suit, played a good floor game.

There was no outstanding player for the losers. Dix, center, who went strongly against Central last week, was held to a single goal yesterday and only Barnsley was able to register more than once from the floor. But five double-deckers were allowed the Strayer Team.

Webster defines "news" as fresh information concerning something that has recently taken place. Because so much of news interest occurs during the hours of the night a morning newspaper is the logical medium to read for "news when it is NEWS." The Washington Post is not only TIMELY but also accurate and complete in its coverage of events and happenings at home and throughout the world.

W. MARYLAND LOSES FEW REGULARS

Only One Player Who Faced Md. to Be Absent in 1930.

DESPITE the likelihood that the so-called big schools will steer clear of it in fear of being defeated by a relatively obscure team, Western Maryland College, which last Saturday closed its most successful football season in history with eleven straight victories, seems headed for another great season in 1930.

The Green Terrors, coached by Dick Harlow, will lose only one member of the eleven which triumphed over the Maryland Terrapins at Baltimore last Saturday. Barring the unforseen, the other ten will be on hand next September when Harlow calls out his candidates, and, in addition, a score or more of freshmen who enjoyed a successful campaign this year will join them in quest of varsity positions. The baby Terrors hold the only decision gained over the powerful George Washington freshmen the past season.

Engle, right end, is the lone player of the line-up which started against Maryland who will be absent next fall. Those due to return are Bates, left end; Pincura, left tackle; Benson, left guard; Lamb, center; Kohout, right guard; Wilker, right tackle; Ekaitis, quarter back; Wellinger, left half back; Clary, right half-back, and Klepac, full back. Others slated for one or more additional terms at the Westminster school and who played in substitute roles last Saturday are Doughty, Jones and Bolton, backs.

Six Players Have Finished.

Engle is not, however, the only player Western Maryland will lose, as Capt. Havens, center; Felton, end; Weisbeck, guard; O'Lear, tackle, and Gomsak, full back, are seniors scheduled to graduate in June. The last five mentioned did not oppose Maryland because of having previously played three years of varsity football, which fact rendered them ineligible for the Maryland game under Southern Conference rules.

Although Havens, Felton, Weisbeck, O'Lear, Gomsak and Engle took part in most of the Terrors' games during the past season, proving they were highly capable gridmen, the quality of the others who will return next fall warrants the prediction that the losses will not cause a great deal of worry.

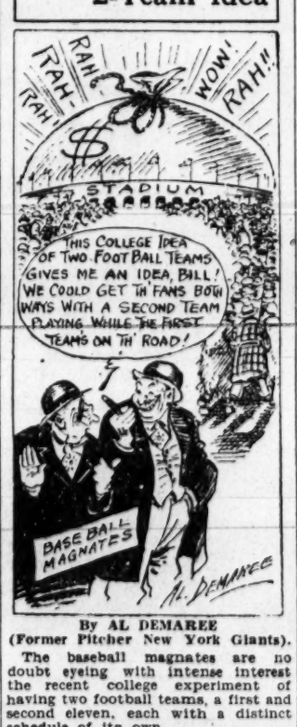
The Terror reserves contributed much to the defeat of Maryland, and Maryland went into that game with a high rating of the experts. In fact, the College Park Team was thought by many local fans to compare well with Georgetown, which fell before the alert Westminster eleven early in the season and then defeated New York U.

Big Schools Likely to Shun Terrors.

Both Maryland and Georgetown have been scheduled by Western Maryland for 1930 games, but it is doubtful if other big schools will agree to meet Harlow's team. Somehow the big schools generally hate to lose to one of the "little fellows" and consequently schedule rivals who are either obvious "set-ups" or teams representing institutions of prominence. Maryland and Georgetown evidently do not fear the possibility of defeat at the hands of an obscure foe and for this attitude stand to be complimented.

But Western Maryland can, and right now bids fair to, gain as much honor and success on the gridiron next fall as this. Possibly it will be to line up another big game, thus assuring added prestige should it defeat every foe again. In view of the fortunate situation regarding material, it is logical to foresee another banner season for the Westminster institution.

B. B. Magnates May Fall for 2-Team Idea



By AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher New York Giants).

The baseball magnates are no doubt eyeing with intense interest the recent college experiment of having two football teams, a first and second eleven, each with a distinct schedule of its own.

The second team either plays its game as a curtain raiser or an aftermath when the first team is also playing to the home folks. Sort of a football double-header. If the first team is playing away from home, the second team has everything to itself and the expensive stadium is not a total loss any more.

Just think what the baseball magnates could do with a first and second team if it proves a success in football. They could always play a double-header at a moment's notice on a bad day and draw those Scotch fans who only come out on bargain days.

Or cities like Cincinnati, Detroit, Cleveland, Washington, Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, who only have one major league team, could form another league with their second teams and give their towns continuous baseball, getting the fans coming and going.

WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNEY.

Chicago, Dec. 9 (A.P.).—The Women's Western Golf Association today awarded its 1930 match play tournament to the Hillcrest Country Club, of Kansas City. It will be played the last week in August.

2 NEW FOES FOR V. P. I. ON GRID

Vanderbilt and North Carolina Added for 1930 Season.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Dec. 9.—Two new opponents are on the 1930 football schedule released today at Virginia Polytechnic Institute by C. P. Miles, director of athletics. For the first time, V. P. I. will clash with a team of the veteran Dan McGugin, now on the eve of his twenty-seventh season as head coach at Vanderbilt University.

The Commodores will be met on October 11, on the date filled last fall by the University of Pennsylvania. University of North Carolina will meet the Gobblers in Miles Stadium the preceding week, October 4.

North Carolina takes the place of Hampden Sydney, moving upon the Polyteeh card from a mid-season to an early season game and Davidson College gets the Carolina date. The Wildcats, coached by Monk Younger and Tex Tilson, former V. P. I. stars, will be met either at Charlotte, N. C. or Davidson, October 25.

William and Mary Again Booked.

William and Mary is again on the schedule for the mid-October battle at Richmond. No changes were made in the four big November games with Washington and Lee, Virginia, Maryland and V. M. I.

The schedule: September 27, Roanoke College at Blacksburg, Va.; October 4, University of North Carolina at Blacksburg, Va.; October 11, Vanderbilt University at Nashville, Tenn.; October 10, William and Mary at Richmond, Va.; October 25, Davidson College at Charlotte, N. C.; November 1, Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Va. or Roanoke Va.; November 8, University of Virginia at Blacksburg (homecoming); November 15, University of Maryland at Norfolk, Va.; November 27, V. M. I. at Roanoke.

19 Contests Scheduled For V. P. I. Court Team

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Dec. 9.—Nineteen games, including thirteen with Southern Conference opponents and six with nonconference teams, are listed on the basket ball schedule announced by C. P. Miles, director of athletics at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. The Polytech Five will play twelve games on the home court and seven on the road.

Two games on a home-and-home basis are carded with each of the Southern Conference opponents in the South Atlantic sector and one game with University of the South when the Tigers appear for the second successive year on War Memorial Hall Court February 6. Among the nonconference teams the Gobblers will take on three members of the Virginia Conference, the Roaneke College Maroons being scheduled for two games, and Emory and Henry and William and Mary for one contest each at Blacksburg.

William-Mary Back After Five Years.

V. P. I. will battle the Maroons on the court for the first time in four years and William and Mary for the first time in five years.

Similar to the plan followed by the Tri-State Conference Baseball League, the Gobbler quintet will clash twice with North Carolina State College, University of North Carolina, University of Maryland, Washington and Lee University, Virginia and Virginia Military Institute.

The schedule:

January 11, Roanoke College, at Salem, Va.; 15, Roanoke College, at Blacksburg; 17, North Carolina State, at Blacksburg; 21, Emory and Henry College, at Blacksburg; 24, Virginia, at Charlottesville, Va.; 25, Maryland, at College Park, Md.; 28, Virginia, at Blacksburg; 30, Elon College, at Blacksburg.

February 1, V. M. I., at Blacksburg; 5, University of North Carolina, at Blacksburg; 6, University of the South, at Blacksburg; 7, Davidson College, at Blacksburg; 10, William and Mary, at Blacksburg; 11, Maryland, at Blacksburg; 15, V. M. I., at Lexington; 17, Washington and Lee, at Blacksburg; 21, University of North Carolina, at Chapel Hill, N. C.; 22, North Carolina State, at Raleigh, N. C.; 23, Washington and Lee, at Lexington.

1930 Grid Prospects Bright at Auburn

Special to The Washington Post.

Auburn, Ala., Dec. 9.—Only three Auburn players who started against Georgia Tech, in Atlanta, Thanksgiving will be missing when gridiron candidates report at the Plains next September. Captain Howell Long, Grady Long and Herman Jones are the trio that were in the starting lineup that sang their swan song Turkey Day.

Porter Callahan, Charles Manley, Raymond Spann, Willie Granger, Lawrence Chamblee, Jim Crawford, John Wilson, Ed. Marty, Joe Burt and Forney Yarbrough are also seniors, but Manley, Wilson and Burt are expected back next season.

Auburn's forward wall should be one of the strongest next season that the Plainsmen have had in several years. The old reliable Dunham Harkins, All-Southern center, will be back for the pivot post. Schlich, Taylor, Newton, Andrews, Bush, Creel, Egge, McRee and Holdcroft are the mainstays this season that will be back.

Johnson, Money, Mason, Jones, Miller, Prim, Wood, Grant, Senn, Bunkley and Curlee will graduate from the frosh team and will be strong contenders for regular berths. Hitchcock, Parker, Shackleford, Morphus, Bassett, Phipps and Brown are outstanding ball carriers who will aid Davidson, Young, Hatfield, Wible and Spence a good deal next season.

Zacaweista Lands Jefferson Feature

Jefferson Park Race Track, La., Dec. 9.—Over a drying out track, the Three D's Stable Zacaweista just galloped to victory the Gentlily Purse, a 6-furlong sprint, here today. Zacaweista was ridden by T. May and it was only a romp for the Texas-owned thoroughbred. Zacaweista was held at a short price during the early betting but, while the horses were at the barrier, a sudden plunge developed on Vesta, forcing her price down while Zacaweista's price went up to 5 to 2.

When it came to racing, it was no contest. Zacaweista broke fast, swerved over and forced W. Carroll on Vesta to take up. He also blocked Earl of Warwick and War Instigator. Zacaweista opened a long lead in the first quarter mile and, increasing his advantage to the end, won galloping by ten lengths. War Instigator beat Earl of Warwick a head for the place, while Vesta was four lengths farther back.

Virginia Given Date On Harvard Grid List

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 9.—Harvard University has been given a place on the University of Virginia football schedule for 1931. This is the first time that the Cavaliers have scheduled the Crimson for a gridiron encounter since 1924.

Harvard will be played on October 24, 1931. This is the Saturday that is occupied in 1930 by the University of Kentucky. If the Wildcats come to Lambeth Field in 1931 it will have to be on another date.

MOTLEY GRID CAPTAIN AT VIRGINIA

3-Letter Man Named to Succeed Sloan Next Season.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Dec. 9. At a dinner given tonight to the twenty lettermen of the University of Virginia football squad by the Rev. Noble C. Powell, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Hunter C. Motley, of Madison, Va. was chosen to lead the Cavalier Team next year. He has been regular tackle for two seasons.

Motley is a letterman in three major sports at the university—football, boxing and track. He was awarded the "V" for his second football campaign last week. He was heavyweight regular on the Cavalier boxing squad last season and handled the weights in track well enough to win his letter in a third sport.

During the boxing season early this year, Motley injured his knee in a bout at Chapel Hill, N. C., and was forced from the ring before the mitt schedule was completed. This old injury came back during the football game here with Swarthmore, and the big lineman was forced to go to the hospital.

Physicians Forbid Boxing Coming Season.

Motley underwent an operation to remove the cause of the trouble and he expects to be back in his position next fall in better shape than ever. But the doctors will not permit him to box this winter.

The captain-elect, who will succeed John Kirkpatrick Sloan, of Richmond, Va., is in his third year in the college. He is a member of the Chi Phi national fraternity and of many student organizations.

Reese and Edwards Fight at Cumberland

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Dec. 9.—Curley Reese, Buckhannon, W. Va., who claims the heavyweight championship of West Virginia and who has appeared in the Cumberland ring several times, has been matched by San Colombe to meet Jack Edwards, of Cleveland, Ohio, at the next card of the Clarksburg Athletic Club, at Clarksburg, next Thursday.

Lew Vine, Grasselli boy, who has just completed an enlistment in the United States Navy, will meet Louis Colombo the matchmaker's brother, in the six-round semifinal. Vine developed into quite a boxer while in the Navy.

Walter Gordon Named West Va. Grid Captain

Special to The Washington Post.

Morgantown, W. Va., Dec. 9.—Announcement of the election of Walter (Red) Gordon, of Parkersburg, W. Va. as captain-elect of the West Virginia University Football Team of 1930 was made here tonight at the fifteenth annual mountaineer grid banquet. Gordon has been a regular guard for the past two seasons and is a junior in the university.

Marchs Brand, of Morgantown, was selected to lead the West Virginia cross-country team of next season. Both captains were elected by the university captainey board.

Johnny Long Slashes La Salle Court Squad

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Dec. 9.—LaSalle Institute will open its season with Salisbury High School, of Salisbury, Pa., at K of C. Hall here next Monday, according to announcement made by Brother Matthew, athletic director of the school. It was also definitely decided that Meyersdale High will play here on December 20 and the alumni team will be met on December 28.

Coach John Long reduced his squad to sixteen players by cutting four candidates loose. The sixteen players on the present squad are Naughton, Mullen, Conley, Corrigan, Lindsey, Blough, King, O'Neill, Kean, Buskirk, Gerdeman, Deffart, Fleckenstein, Morrissey, Hahn and Buchard.

Penn State Athletes Turn to New Sports

State College, Pa., Dec. 9.—Penn State's winter sports teams, finishing their first week of preliminary training during the short period since the Thanksgiving recess, will spend the remaining time before the Christmas vacation in a rigorous conditioning program preparatory to the opening of their formal schedules.

ONE MAN IS NAMED IN SIX INDICTMENTS

Arlington Grand Jury Files 16 True Bills at December Term of Court.

PROMOTION LIST ISSUED

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Sixteen indictments were returned yesterday by the grand jury at the opening of the December term of the circuit court of Arlington County. Judge Howard W. Smith presided.

Those indicted on charges of violation of the prohibition laws are: Frank Caton, Judson E. Carroll, Virginia Johnson, M. S. Melton, Frank Robinson, Clarence D Smith.

Those indicted on charges of felony are: Truman L. Tarman, Sylvester Laconey and Rozier Gorham.

Gorham in each of six indictments is charged with housebreaking which, according to an alleged confession, he perpetrated during November. He was arrested last week as he was attempting to escape from the home of Rudolph Chapdelaine in Brandon Village, Arlington County.

Laconey pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted housebreaking before Judge Howard W. Smith and will be sentenced today.

James A. Wood, who was indicted at the October term of the Circuit Court for murder in connection with the death of Charles M. Joyce, at his home in Aurora Heights during the early part of September of this year was committed yesterday by Judge Howard W. Smith to the State Hospital for Criminal Insane at Marion, Va., for treatment until further orders from the court.

Determined to carry its fight to the courts, if necessary, to prevent establishment of a gasoline filling station in accordance with the permit granted to Mrs. Marie Clark Bell on the Lee Highway, opposite Rucker avenue, the executive committee, with the zoning committee of the Citizens Association, will hold a special meeting tonight at the home of Herman N. Critchton.

Citizens of Lyon Village and Mackey Hill are aroused over the proposed construction and have carried their protests to the county officials. In the case of the Sun Oil Co. protests have been sent to Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

S. P. Vanderslice, principal of the Washington-Lee High School, last night gave out the following list of pupils promoted from the Clarendon, Ballston, Cherrydale, Columbia Pike, Fort Myer Heights and Saegmuller elementary schools effective today: Leland Dodd, Joseph Carr, Homer Davis, Jack Jeffries, Donald Quackenbush, Ashton Timmons, Grayson Thrope, Edgar Hurley, Lawrence King, Daniel Shawhan, Edwin Payne, Richard Dorman, Vernon Hager, Harold Robertson, James Hanson, James Simons, Ellis Taylor, William Bussells, John Burke, Leroy Lester, Paul Moran, Leighton Tracewell, Victor Blue, Bernard Robertson, Hoover Kemp, Roy Keller, Porter Thomas, Katherine Boaze, Eula Dulaney, Adelaine Harris, Dolores Dye, Alice Adams, Bertha Hall, Elizabeth Thomson, Anna Dinsmore, Marie Dewey, Vivian Fletcher, Virginia Gary, Eleanor Hartunge, Vera Hey, Lola Mertons, Mae Mertons, Frances J. Patterson, Anna Morgan, Virginia Hilleary, Ruth Anderson, Nellie Mooney, Thelma Bullock, Virginia Yardley, Grace Robertson, Emilie Moore, Dorothy Holmes, Edith Hawley, Dorothy Havener, Beatrice Gogorza, Harriet Donaldson, Elizabeth Donaldson, Audrey Birch, Anna M. Dawkins, Mary Barker, Ruth Breeden, and Thelma Garner.

The Woman's Club of Ashton Heights will hold its monthly business meeting tonight in the clubhouse on Clarendon avenue at 8 o'clock.

Election of officers will be the principal business to come before the weekly luncheon meeting of the Arlington County Monarch Club to be held Thursday in the Ashton Heights Woman's Club house at 12 o'clock. President Walter U. Varney will preside.

A girls' auxiliary to the cadet corps at the Washington-Lee High School will be organized at a meting to be held in the school auditorium tomorrow afternon at 2:30 o'clock.

There will be a meeting of the ladies' aid of the First Presbyterian Church of Ballston tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. R. Hagan, Waycroft.

There will be a special meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit, No. 139, tomororw night at the home of Mrs. Pearl Eubank, at Clarendon.

The Margaret Hester Circle of St. George's Episcopal Church will meet at the home of Mrs. J. N. Steed, Vistch Summit, today at 1 o'clock.

The boys' club of St. George's Episcopal Church met tonight at 7 o'clock in the parish hall. The newly elected officers will be installed.

The monthly meeting of the Leeway Citizens Association will be held tonight in the Robert E. Lee Schoolhouse on the Lee highway at 8 o'clock. All members are asked to attend the meeting, as many matters of local and county-wide interest will be discussed.

Marriage license was issued in Arlington County yesterday to Charles Roger Fenwick, 29, and Eleanor Russell Eastman, 23, both of East Falls Church.

Richard L. Eacho, vice president of the Back to the District Association, spoke before the meeting of the civic committee of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County, held last night in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce.

Stressing the many advantages to be derived by the citizens of Arlington County by again becoming a part of the District of Columbia, Eacho mentioned reduced automobile license tags, reduction in the rates for electric light and gas, and water rates, and better police and fire protection.

Eacho announced that the association has opened headquarters in rooms formerly occupied by the chamber of commerce in the Rucker Building, which will be open day and night and where information may be obtained showing the advantages gained if the county again becomes a part of the District of Columbia.

It was announced that Mrs. A. B. Culver, of Clarendon, has been chosen as assistant secretary of the association. She will assume her duties today and will be at the office daily, and will solicit membership.

The Arlington County Zoning Commission, at its meeting last night at the courthouse, made public a letter which has been forwarded to Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, in answer to a recent letter received by the chairman of the commission, Fred A. Gosnell, relative to the future needs of water front for industrial development.

The letter, in part, reads:

"Considering the course of the channel now open to river navigation and elimination of territory by construction of the new Mount Vernon boulevard and approaches to the Arlington Memorial Bridge, the balance left available for any water front development which might benefit Arlington County is exceedingly limited. That portion mentioned in your letter as in the vicinity of Alexandria and the Potomac yards, of course, will be entirely beyond control of the county after December 31, 1929, and can not therefore be considered in the plans for Arlington County.

"In connection with this subject, also, your attention is invited to the fact that, as far as this Commission is concerned, there is no confliction as between the two features of development in Arlington County, that is residential and industrial. In our studies for the present and future of the county, we have been inclined to recognize the face that both forms seem to have their merits worthy of consideration for future development, and our efforts have been more particularly directed toward planning and maintaining the proper balance or relationship between the two forms, aiming to avoid the possibilities of future development in one direction to the ultimate detriment of the other."

The letter to Col. Grant will be accompanied by a map showing the zoning by the commission of the waterfront after nine months of study.

The ommission announce many drastic changes in residential B, which provides for apartment and duplex houses in the vicinity of Virginia Highlands, Lyon Park, Fort Myer Heights and Rosslyn, which will conform with the many suggestions from these sections.

The commission still is opposed to location of the Sun Oil Co. on the Lee Highway near Rosslyn.

Robbers, Entering Bank, Depart Without Loot

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., Dec. 9.—Robbers entered The Plains, Fauquier County, branch of the Fauquier Bank of Warrenton, late Sunday night, through a door in the rear and drilled a hole in the vault, preparatory to placing the explosive. They either failed to complete their work by the arrival of daylight or were frightened away. The bank suffered no loss, as everything of value was inside the vault doors.

C. E. Tiffany, president of the Fauquier National Bank, together with a number of directors, appeared on the scene at an early hour this morning and Sheriff Woolf is making an investigation. At midday today no arrests had as yet been made, and few clews were left.

ROCKVILLE WOMAN AWARDED VERDICT

Mrs. Lena Bennett Given $2,500 for Alleged Neglect by Insurance Company.

BANK GETS BOND ISSUE

A jury in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville last night awarded the sum of $2,500 to Mrs. Lena Bennett, whose suit against the Southern Maryland Trust Co., Inc., asked $7,500 for alleged neglect in informing her of the cancellation of a fire insurance policy. Mrs. Bennett was represented by Attorney Helen Sherry, of Baltimore.

According to Mrs. Bennett's claim, the trust company had failed to notify her that the policy had been cancelled by the insurance company and while she believed her house at West Chesapeake Beach to be insured, the structure caught fire accidentally and was destroyed, causing her a loss of more than $5,000. She claimed that the trust company in failing to notify her of the cancellation was directly responsible for her loss and asked compensation. The case originally was filed in Prince Georges County Circuit Court but was removed to Montgomery County at the behest of the plaintiff.

County bond issues totalling $805,000, which were sold to the Chase Securities Co., of New York City, and the Baltimore Trust Co. for $807,367.95 and accrued interest recently, yesterday were taken to Baltimore by Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners, and delivered to the bank. The bonds were issued under authority of an act of the 1929 Legislature and are to pay for the construction of the new courthouse and jail at Rockville and for several road construction projects.

The bonds are the remainder of the group authorized at the last session of the General Assembly. Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, president of the board of county commissioners, and Berry E. Clark passed a whole afternoon signing the bonds in the presence of George P. Henderson, cashier of the Montgomery County Nationla Bank at Rockville.

Clark received a certified check for $811,191.70 from the bank which he brought back to Rockville and turned over to the county treasurer, J. Forest Walker. Clark was accompanied by County Policeman W. H. Merson, crack shot of the police department.

Suit for absolute divorce from Mrs. Mary T. Moran, of Montgomery County, yesterday was filed in circuit court at Rockville by Attorney Kenneth Lyddane, of Rockville, counsel for David Moran, of Philadelphia, Pa. The suit alleges desertion and names a corespondent. The couple were maried August 2, 1927, at Philadelphia, and have no children, the petition states.

Miss Elizabeth Benson, of the Bethesda group, has been elected president of the newly formed Montgomery County Federation of 4-H Girls' Clubs. Miss Jeanne Molyneau, of the Conduit Road Club, was elected vice president; Miss Helen King, of Germantown, secretary, and Miss Carol Snyder, of Travilah, treasurer. The Dickerson, Travilah, Bethesda, Conduit Road, Germantown, Fairland, Garrett Park, Burtonsville, Gaithersburg, and Darnestown clubs have affiliated with the federation and the six or seven other groups in the county are expected to join shortly.

SIGNALMAN STRUCK AND KILLED BY TRAIN

Robert D. Mickey Dies in Alexandria Half Hour After Accident.

GRAND JURY IN SESSION

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Robert D. Mickey, 26 years old, employed as a signalman by the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad, was struck and fatally injured yesterday morning by Southern Railway passenger train No. 33, southbound. Mickey was brought to the Alexandria Hospital, where he died half an hour later. An examination by Dr. M. D. Delaney disclosed a broken neck, fractured skull and severe lacerations.

The accident is understood to have occurred between the Duke Street Bridge and the R., F. & P. signal tower, near Roberts Crossing, nearly a mile south of the bridge. Mickey, it is understood, was one of a force engaged in installing automatic train control signals, and was working alongside the tracks when the fast passenger train came through. Just how he happened to be on the track in the path of the train appears to be unknown to his fellow workers. The train was in charge of Engineer A. T. Rollins and Conductor M. M. Albright.

Mickey lived on Glendale avenue, and is survived by his widow. The funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Charles Richard Acton was indicted yesterday by a grand jury in the corporation court, Judge William P. Woolls presiding, on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting on October 4 last, of Irvin Guckert.

The jury returned not a true bill in the case of Mrs. Laura V. Hicks, charged with arson, this case arising from a fire at the home of Mrs. Hicks last September. Two indictments were returned against Joseph Rotol, charging a statutory offense, and true bills against Leonard Frye, charging burglary; Cameron White, four indictments of burglary; Charles Tyler, two indictments of burglary; Lewis Putnam, one indictment of burglary; Arthur Young, assault, and Earl Thomas, assault.

The grand jury is composed of R. M. Colvin, foreman; W. C. Baggett, William J. Boothe, W. Selden Washington, Robert E. McGahey, Julius Wolf, James M. Duncan, sr., Thomas J. Fannon, Robert L. Kane, Abe L. Cohen, George H. Ralling and Frank W. Noxon.

The total number of persons who paid their capitation taxes on or before December 5, and are therefore eligible to vote in the primary in June when three members of the city council will be chosen, was 4,187, a decrease of 1,263 from the number qualifying for the last November election.

Those who have so far failed to pay their taxes will be eligible to vote in the Democratic primary in August, when a United States senator and member of the House of Representatives from the Eighth congressional district will be chosen, will have until May 5 to qualify.

The December meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club will be held at 7 o'clock this evening at the George Mason Hotel, with music appropriate to the Christmas season. A surprise program has been arranged by Miss Corinne T. Reardon. Members will bring gifts to be sent to the Children's Home and Day Nursery and the Anne Lee Memorial Home for the Aged.

The State Game and Inland Fisheries Commission will meet here Friday in the office of Justice William S. Snow. The sessions will be presided over by Maj. A. Willis Robertson, of Lexington, chairman, and there will be five members in attendance. It is expected also that delegations of sportsmen from Virginia and a number from Washington will appear in the interest of matters pertaining to hunting and fishing.

Saturday the members of the commission will inspect duck blinds on the Potomac, and also look into the migratory bird situation.

The funeral of Dr. John W. Wheat, a former resident, but recently living at Upperville, Va., who died on Sunday in the Winchester hospital, will be held at 1 o'clock this afternoon at Ivy Hill Cemetery.

Robert L. May will have charge of the program at the meeting of the Rotary Club today, at the George Mason Hotel. Dr. S. Nelson Gray, president of the club, will preside. The singing will be led by Norman F. Lawler.

The city gas office will be opened this evening from 7:30 to 9 o'clock to allow those unable to call during the day to pay their gas bills within the discount period.

Student Makes Record In College Editorship

Hampden-Sidney, Va., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—A student from Rice, Va., is the first man ever to hold the editorship of all three publications at Hampden-Sidney College. Herbert C. Bradshaw, 20 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Bradshaw, of Rice, is now editor in chief of the 1930 Kaleidoscope, student yearbook, and has previously served as the chief editor of the Tiger, weekly newspaper, and the magazine, monthly publication.

Although intensively active in the publication field, young Bradshaw has an average grade above 90 per cent for his first three years of college work, has been the president of two literary societies and a student assistant on the faculty. He has served as an officer of the Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association. Following his graduation next June, he will either enter a theological seminary or become a newspaper man.

Train Victim Identified As Father of Family

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 9.—The mangled body of a man found yesterday on a track of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad at Lumberport was today identified as that of Frantie Swinger, 25, a miner, employed at the Laura Lee Mine there.

He leaves a widow and three children.

Fire Damages Apartment House.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 9 (Special).—Approximately $300 damages was done in the Princeton Apartment Building, 2800 Rivermont avenue, this morning at 9 o'clock, when a fire burned from the basement up through the walls to the third floor. Firemen were enabled to extinguish the blaze without much loss to occupants of the apartments. The building is the property of C. R. Butler.

Copeland Is Freed On Fraud Charge

Wool Mill Head Indicted With A. J. Jones Is Released.

Special to The Washington Post.

Front Royal, Va., Dec. 9.—The case of Thomas A. Copeland, president of the Chicago Wool Co., who was indicted with Arthur G. Jones and Max Krol in the corporation court of the city of Winchester for conspiring to defraud the Arthur G. Jones Woolen Mills Co., came to an abrupt end today, when, on motion of attorneys for the Commonwealth, the case against him was dismissed, Copeland released from custody and the sureties on his bail bond discharged.

The indictment against Copeland was returned on July 9 last, the grand jury at the same time returning numerous indictments against Jones and Krol. Copeland, who was in Chicago at the time, upon learning of his indictment, came at once to Winchester and demanded immediate trial. The case, however, on motion of the Commonwealth, was continued until the present term, and four terms having elapsed, the Commonwealth was compelled to either go to trial or dismiss the indictment. Because of the lack of evidence to support the charge in the indictment, the latter course was pursued.

For many years Copeland has been prominent in the textile industry, and for the past 18 years has been president of the Chicago Wool Co. Copeland was represented by Aubrey G. Weaver and W. C. Armstrong, of this town, and Harry R. Kern, of Winchester.

POLLARD WILL MAKE SPEECH TO CHAMBER

Address Jan. 16 to Be First After Taking Office as Virginia Governor.

DIRECTORS TO BE NAMED

Richmond, Va., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—Dr. John Garland Pollard will deliver his first address after taking office as Governor of Virginia at the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce dinner here Thursday evening, Jan. 16. The inauguration is on Jan. 15.

All members of the Virginia general assembly are invited to the dinner, and the only speakers will be the Governor, the new Lieutenant-Governor, James H. Price of Richmond; and the new Speaker of the House of Delegates, who probably will be J. Sinclair Brown of Roanoke, so far unopposed for the office.

The dinner takes place at the conclusion of the State chamber's annual meeting. Election of 12 members of the board of directors will follow reports by J. Gordon Bohannan of Petersburg, president; Leroy Hodges, managing director; and chairmen of 10 standing committees, at the business session.

Officers to be Elected.

The 1930 president, vice president, and treasurer will be elected by the board Thursday afternoon at the annual meeting of the board of directors.

The committee reports will be made by Chairmen J. Scott Parrish, Richmond, on education; Southgate Leigh, Norfolk, on public health; James F. Ryland, Richmond, on development of Hampton Roads; Julian A. Burruss, Blacksburg, on industrial development; Douglas S. Freeman, Richmond, on agricultural development and immigration; William D. Tyler, Dante, on transportation; Robert H. Tucker, Lexington, on taxation; E. Lee Trinkle, Roanoke, on government; and Junius P. Fishburn, Roanoke, publicity.

Outgoing Directors Listed.

Members of the board of directors whose terms expire at the January meeting are: H. H. Harris, Lynchburg; J. Gordon Bohannan, Petersburg; R. H. Angell, Roanoke; I. J. Marcuse, Richmond; H. L. Opie, Staunton; Richard Crane, Westover; E. A. Hults, Saltville; H. B. McCormac, Winchester; Hollis Rinehart, Charlottesville; Thomas P. Thompson, Norfolk; Bradford H. Walker, Richmond; and Julien H. Hill, Richmond.

Directors whose terms expire in 1931 are: L. U. Noland, Newport News; J. Scott Parrish, Richmond; A. B. Carrington, Danville; Samuel G. Waller, Front Royal; and Lee Long, Dante. Those with two more years to serve are: Louis T. Dobie, Norfolk; G. Cleveland Wright, Petersburg; Junius P. Fishburn, Roanoke; C. Page Waller, jr., Alexandria; and C. S. Andersen, Hot Springs.

VIRGINIA'S LEGION OFFICERS TO MEET

National Commander Will Make Address Before Roanoke Session.

POSTS TO GET CITATIONS

Richmond, Va., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—O. L. Bodenhamer, of Little Rock, Ark., national commander of the American Legion, and John J. Bennett, jr., of New York City, department of New York legion commander, will be guest speakers at the Virginia Department Post Officers' conference at Roanoke, January 6.

Besides being the principal speaker at the conference, National Commander Bodenhamer will present several posts with citations for exceptional service.

Robert Y. Conrad Post of Winchester will receive from the national commander a diploma of "distinguished service" for obtaining the highest rating in the Virginia department as "a well balanced and efficient post;" and Pocahontas Post of Pocahontas will receive a diploma of "meritorious service" as the second highest rated unit.

Nine Posts Get Certificates.

Nine posts will receive certificates for "most distinguished service" in enrolling their full 1929 membership for 1930 prior to November 18, 1929. The cited posts are: Grayson County, at Independence; R. Temple Palmer, at West Point; Robert Y. Conrad, at Winchester; Miller-Campbell, at Luray; Williams, at Clifton Forge; Washington County at Abingdon; Brunswick, at Lawrenceville; Leon A. Harper, at Crewe; Harvey-Howe-Carper, at East Radford.

Besides the out-of-State speakers, State legion leaders will discuss rehabilitation, child welfare, legislative, Americanism, membership, publicity and convention matters, W. Glenn Elliott, department adjutant, said here today in announcing a tentative program for the meeting.

Rehabilitation will be discussed by E. W. Jordan, regional manager of the United States Veterans' Bureau, Richmond, and J. A. Nicholas, jr., department service officer, Richmond. Nelson O. Overton, of Newport News, national executive committee, will talk on "The 1930 Legislative Program With Relation to Department and Post Cooperation." Dr. E. J. Nixon, of Petersburg, department child welfare officer, and H. Gerald Saal, of Petersburg, grand chef de gare, 40 and 8, will lead the discussion of child welfare.

"Reds in America," Is Topic.

Department Commander B. M. Roszel, of Winchester, will be one of the speakers on Americanism, having chosen his subject, "The Reds in America." F. F. Rennie, jr., department athletic officer, will talk on junior baseball. "Community Service as Sponsored by Posts," will be discussed by Clifford Grim, past commander of Robert V. Conrad Post, Winchester, and W. Ernest Acton, jr., of Portsmouth, department second vice commander, is to speak on the survey and census.

The various phases of membership will be discussed by Howard Arnold, commander of the Alexandria Post; Roby C. Thompson, of Abingdon, chairman of the membership committee; Charles H. McKinney, commander of Clifton Forge Post, and W. Glenn Elliott, of Richmond, department adjutant.

M. E. Bristow, editor, and Ernest Pollard, managing editor, of the Virginia Legionnaire, will address the meeting on "The Value of a Department publication" and "Getting News for the Legion Publication," respectively.

Will Tell Entertainment Plans.

E. L. Klingstein, Harrisonburg Post commander, will discuss his city's plans for entertaining the Virginia department in annual convention next August.

H. L. Opie, of Stauton, will speak on "What the Legion Might Do in Virginia."

Mrs. E. B. Cameron, department president of the American Legion Auxiliary, and H. Geral Saal, grand chef de gare of 40 and 8, will extend greetings from their organizations.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN J. DALY

LIKE all women, Luella is interested in clothes.

"Say what you want," she remarked, "fine feathers make fine birds."

Always, it amazes me the way she coins expressions. Imagine that: Fine feathers, fine birds. There is a deal of truth in it, too; but I told her that fine horse feathers do not always win races.

What led to the discussion was a phrase found in newspaper articles. One of the play reviewers, after seeing a bit of fair femininity labeled the world's greatest beauty, wrote that her meager gown "beggars description." Another writer, having glanced at the complete ensemble worn by a celebrated screen star, used the same term. "Her costume," he penned, "beggars description."

"Haven't these writers the ability to set down what they see?" asked Luella. "Beggars description! What does that mean?"

"It means," I went on to explain, "that whatever choice of adjectives these men might use would appear poor and inadequate——"

* * * *

"THE most poverty-stricken, moth-eaten adjective in the language would be better than that phrase, 'beggars description,' which says nothing," snapped Luella. "It leaves everything up in the air. It doesn't describe. Woman want to know what other women wear."

Women are like that. So Luella's plaint is perfectly justifiable. I sought to excuse the writers on the ground that they are men.

"All the more reason, then, why women should be sent to these affairs," flashed Luella, who has a yen for writing, especially descriptive writing. "These men don't know the difference between passementerie and French pastry," she declared—and I, who had never heard the word, passementerie, agreed with her.

"However," I pleaded, "these men who review stage and screen attractions are not interested in what stars wear. They are concerned with the quality of entertainment. The play, you know, is the thing!"

"That's a lot of bosh," declared Luella. "The play is not the thing. Whoever says so is goofy——"

"Shakespeare is responsible for that phrase."

* * * *

"SHAKESPEARE? He's dead, isn't he?"

"I believe so."

"Then what does he know about modern styles? In his day the play might have been the thing. Today, it's not the play. It what's the leading woman wears——"

"So! When you go to the theater, you don't go for the entertainment so much as you go to study the styles?"

"Are you just getting wise to that? Entertainment? What greater entertainment than to see the latest styles?"

"And when you go to the movies, don't you care about the story?"

"We don't care that about the filium," she said, snapping her fingers. "Half the time it isn't worth watching, as romance. The styles are something else again. And I do wish, when we miss seeing new gowns on the screen, these high-powered descriptive writers would say something besides 'they beggar description.' If it keeps up I'll have to send a letter to the editor."

"Here," I challenged, handing her pen and ink, "write to the editor and tell him where to get off."

She did, letting me read the epistle—and what Luella told the editor certainly beggars description.

College Youth, Raising Window, Falls 18 Feet

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 9.—Plunging 18 feet to a brick pavement from a second-story window of the local Phi Sigma Delta fraternity house on Saint John's College campus shortly before last midnight, William McKnight, 23, a senior, of Palmyra, N. J., is under observation in Annapolis.

Emergency hospital physicians fear he might have suffered internal injuries. That no bones were broken was revealed by an X-Ray examination made today.

Authorities of the college explained that McKnight's fall was accidental. They said he attempted to open a window in the hall when he found the house too warm. The window appeared to be jammed, and using his full strength to raise it, McKnight lost his balance and fell out. Although stunned, he got to his feet and walked back into the House. Fellow students becoming aware of what had happened, called the municipal ambulance patrol and had McKnight carried to the hospital.

False Alarms Are Laid To Former Fireman

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 9.—Lawrence Thompson, 28, who resigned last week from the fire department, was arrested today, charged with turning in five false alarms last night. The alarms, sent from widely separated boxes, were turned in between 12:50 a. m. and 2:45 a. m.

Carleton Rosser, 20, and Joe Williams, 18, were arrested with Thompson. They will be used as witnesses against him.

MARION DEPUTIES' TRIAL OPENS TODAY

WARRANT SWORN OUT

Burnsville, N. C., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—This little farm town, high up in the mountains of North Carolina, tonight was prepared for the opening tomorrow of the trial of eight McDowell County deputy sheriffs charged with the death of six textile mill workers killed during a riot at Marion October 2.

The case, involving a brush between sheriff's forces and a group of striking mill workers, was transferred on a change of venue from Marion, in the textile mill section of the State, to this quiet mountain town, which is without a single factory.

The defendants are Robert Ward, B. L. Robbins, Taylor Greene, Charles Tate, W. A. Fender, Jim Owens, Dave Jarrett and William M. Twiggs.

Venire of 100 Called.

One hundred Yancey County residents have been summoned as a special venire from which to select a jury. That formality is expected to take up at least a day. Approximately 100 witnesses for both State and defense were expected to be called. Most of them are to tell of the battle in front of the mill of the Marion Manufacturing Co., when nineteen persons were injured by gun fire and Sheriff Oscar F. Adkins, of McDowell County, and others were injured by blows from other weapons.

Arrangements had been made to care for the crowd expected to overflow the hotel by taking them into homes of Burnsville residents.

Gastonia, N. C., Dec. 9 (A.P.).—George B. Mason, city solicitor, today swore out a warrant for C. D. Saylors, organizer for the International Labor Defense, charging him with murder in connection with the slaying of C. F. Aderholt, Gastonia chief of police, during textile strike disorders here last summer. Saylors had not been located tonight.

Fred Erwin Beal, former Southern organizer for the National Textile Workers Union, and six other union members were convicted in October at Charlotte, of second degree murder of Aderholt. All received long prison sentences, but gave notice of appeal to the State Supreme Court. They were granted until January 15 to perfect the appeal.

Aderholt was fatally wounded the night of June 7 when armed guards at headquarters of the National Textile Workers Union here fired upon a party of officers who went to the headquarters to investigate reports of disorders there. A strike, called by the union in the Loray mill of the Manville-Jenckers Co., was in progress at the time.

All Acquitted in Flogging.

Mason said Robert Allen, a former striker, had made affidavits that Saylors told him he fired two shots at the officers.

Saylors, Ben Wells and C. M. Lell, the latter two both members of the National Textile Workers Union, were taken from a house here in September by a mob which flogged Wells. Saylors testified at a preliminary hearing for several men accused of the flogging that Solicitor John G. Carpenter, of this judicial district, was a member of the mob and has since been indicated for perjury for the statement.
